Army Cadets Plan Tuesday Parade

More than 800 army ROTC cadets will take part in a student-organized regimental parade on the military drill field next Tuesday at 4 p.m., according to Maj. Ziggi Grzywnowicz of the military science department.

The six army ROTC candidates for queen of the Military Ball will be present in the reviewing stand during the parade. They are Charlene Brooks, Clo Jr; DeAun Mackie, PEW Jr; Marilyn Adams, EEd Soph; Kay Benjamin, Hum Soph; Genie Munn, HEJ Soph; and Kathleen Dodd, EEd Soph.

The entire parade has been planned by cadet officers, Capt. Robert B. Tobias Jr, commandant of cadets, said.

Cadet Col. Roger L. Rankin will be regimental commander. Cadet lieutenant colonels Gary B. Rogers, Barrie W. Thorp, Fred H. Woodbury, and Gene B. Martin will act as battalion commanders.

The 35-piece ROTC band will play for the parade, Grzywnowicz said. The band is composed of army ROTC students, and is directed by Capt. Richard Dineley, Jr.

Ag-Industry Teamwork Essential

By ROYANNE McMULLEN

Teamwork of agriculture and industry are essential to the prosperity of America, Benjamin F. Fairless said at dedicatory ceremonies of the new feed technology wing yesterday.

Fairless, chairman of the executive advisory committee of U.S. Steel corporation, said good dividends are just as important to the farmer as good farm prices are to industry.

A farmer's prosperity depends on his ability to grow good crops at good prices, plus the ability of industry to grow a good crop of new jobs at high wages, he said.

"The American farmer, through improvements, can produce more than twice as much per man hour as 17 years ago. Demand for food products is limited by growth of population, so fewer farmers are needed to supply products," he said.

Some farmers must seek jobs in industry; if they cannot find these jobs, the effect will be bad, Fairless said.

So, the future prosperity of American agriculture depends primarily on the ability of urban enterprise to attract, absorb, and support the excess manpower no longer necessary on the farm, Fairless believes.

The ability of business to create these new jobs depends on expansion and growth through research and improvement, he said.

"The climate for this growth through research is influenced by governmental decisions," Fairless said.

He believes the political climate has changed since the beginning of 1953 so that many of the controls, expenditures, budgets, and taxes have been reduced.

The government has encouraged every citizen to do "a little better for himself, for his family, and for the next generation," he said. It also has tried to provide help and opportunity for all.

"Since this change, the cost of living has remained virtually the same, but wages have been increased, and so has the purchasing power of the worker, Fairless said. The worker's personal income, as a whole, is at the highest level in history, and unemployment has dropped," he said.

"We, as Americans, should strive for a climate of co-operation between industry, agriculture, education, and government," Fairless said.

He cited the new feed technology wing as a shining example of this teamwork.

SU Program Group Gets $6,300 Grant

An appropriation of $6,300 was granted to the Student Union Program council at a meeting of the Apportionment Board yesterday.

The appropriation will be used "to provide movies, dances, and other activities that are scheduled to be held before the new Union is ready for use," Gerry Day, chairman of the Board, said.

If any surplus remains when the new Union is completed, the money will be used for social and recreational purposes in the new building, Day said.

The $6,300 previously had been granted to a nonexistent social-recreational committee. This committee's functions now have been taken over by the Program council, Day said.

The Board also made possible the appearance of the Pershing Rifles in a Veterans' Day parade in Kansas City today. A sum of $112.32 was granted to the group to pay transportation costs.

Radio station KSDB-FM was refused a request for $140 that would have enabled the station to broadcast all away-from-home basketball games.

Board members based the decision on the fact that adequate coverage of K-State games would be given by AM stations in the area, Day said.

19 Stations Will Carry KS-MU Tilt

Nineteen radio stations will cover the K-State-Missouri football game tomorrow. Game time is 1:30 p.m.

'Don Pasquale,' Comic Opera, Tonight at 8:15

Boris Goldovsky's Opera Theater will present Donizetti's "Don Pasquale" in English tonight at 8:15 in the Auditorium.

The action of this comic opera is set in the early 1800's. The moral of the story is, simply, that it is sheer madness for an old man to take a young wife.

"Plenty of tickets are still available for tonight's performance," Luther Leavengood said this morning.

Seniors Donate To Organ Fund

The 18 persons who attended the senior class meeting last night at Willard hall voted to charge each senior who orders graduation announcements an additional 50 cents for a senior-class gift.

The money collected will go to buy a new pipe organ for Danforth chapel.

Tribunal Shouldn't Hold Closed-Door Meetings

People become suspicious when a group insists on meeting behind doors closed to the press and the public.

Wednesday afternoon a Collegian reporter was denied admittance to a Tribunal meeting. He was told that the meeting was closed "because nothing newsworthy would take place."

As a press responsible to K-State students, the Collegian, not any group or individual, should decide whether goings-on at meetings are newsworthy. The Tribunal is a student court and its actions should be known by the students.

The fellow who told the reporter there wouldn't be anything newsworthy happening at the meeting was probably trying to save the reporter a boring time listening to idle chatter. That isn't the point. The point is he wasn't allowed into the meeting.

In the spring of 1954 the Collegian was refused admittance to a Tribunal meeting because a student didn't want his name printed. The Collegian promised that students' name would not be printed if they so desired and the Collegian reporter was allowed to cover later meetings. The Collegian's policy concerning printing names is the same now as then. So there shouldn't be student reaction against covering the meetings.

There may be times when happenings at a Tribunal meeting shouldn't be revealed, but a gentlemanly talk between the Tribunal and the Collegian would take care of the matter.

If students know that the Tribunal holds no secret meetings, perhaps the Tribunal will be held in higher regard than in the past.

K-Staters Favor Having Bookstore in New Union

By Rayburn Lippe

Do you think a college-operated bookstore should be put in the new Student Union, even though no space has been provided for it?

This controversial question was put to a number of students during the week by a student reporter.

A majority of the students favored a bookstore in the Union by a two-to-one margin. Most students felt that if there were some rooms not vital to the Union, it would benefit them to have a college-operated bookstore in the Union. Those opposed to the bookstore in the Union thought the Union was crowded enough now and that the bookstore would lack financing.

BEN HANDLIN, AG SOPH, "A college-operated bookstore in the Union would be a good idea, even if it had to be put in rooms that were to be used for something else. We should get started while the Union is new."

LEIGHTON LINN, PrV SOPH, expressed the family man's view. "With a family to support and going into vet school, it would seem to me to be more beneficial to the students to sacrifice some room for a bookstore. Books cost me $30 to $40 now and will cost $60 to $70 later."

ROGER TOINTON, LDs Jr, "The bookstore is out of the question until adequate money is obtained. There is not enough money to do many of the things they want to do in the Union now without having to finance a college bookstore."

I would also hate to see anything as commercial as a bookstore in the Union."

RAE WEIDENBACH, HE SOPH, "I definitely feel that we should have a bookstore in the Student Union although something might have to be left out."

DENNIS DARNNER, SP JR, felt that it would be good to give the present stores some competition. "Whether this college bookstore would be any different or not, I don't know, but at least the money will go to the College."

"They should have investigated before," said GEORGE HOOPER, PEM SOPH. "As the situation stands now, I don't think anything in the Union should be displaced by a bookstore. Some other place for it should be found."

RACHEL PICKETT, MEI SOPH, "I would hate to say without knowing all of the facts. I do think that a bookstore in the Union is what the students want. Perhaps the temporary Student Union could be used if they haven't a special use for it."

'Stripes in the Sun' Is Average Movie

At the Coed, through Saturday—Three Stripes in the Sun—the true story of one GI on occupational duty in Japan who learned tolerance and human understanding through the love of a Japanese girl.

Several years after the end of World War II, Sgt. Hugh O'Reilly (Aldo Ray) is still embittered against the Japanese people. His "no fraternization" policy includes the beautiful young interpreter, Yuko (Mitsuko Nimura), who works for the U.S. Army.

Then certain incidents serve to begin the breaking down of O'Reilly's narrow-minded attitude toward the Japanese, including the realization that he is falling in love with Yuko.

The picture never quite manages to deliver the intended punch. With the exception of Aldo Ray and the appealing Miss Nimura, the characterization is somewhat shadowy. All in all, however, it adds up to average film fare.

Brazilian Army Seizes Control Of Government

Rio de Janeiro, (U.P.)—The army seized control of Brazil today but the navy and air force said they would resist efforts to oust acting-president Carlos Luz.

Army troops swarmed out of their barracks in a pouring rain at 4 a.m. and took up positions throughout the city, surrounding the Presidential palace and other government buildings.

Gen. Henrique Texeira Lott, who resigned as army minister in a dispute with Luz last night, announced he had taken control.

School Spirit Helps, but So Does a Football Team

It's now official!

KU students have proved a point. Tuesday's Daily Kansan carried four editorials about school spirit. As one of the four so aptly put across its point:

"School spirit alone won't win football games."

It seems that school spirit at KU last weekend was phenomenal. Close to 1,000 students whooped and hollered for 3 hours Thursday night. Another pep rally was held Friday night.

"However, almost from the opening kickoff, it was apparent that spirit was unable to help the football team," one KU editorialist admitted.

Despite this disheartening discovery, there yet remains a faint glimmer of hope for that good ol' commodity, school spirit. One KU writer dared to advance the opinion that one could display school spirit in connection with parts of the school other than the athletic teams. As he put it:

"School spirit is a necessary part of athletic events, but it is not something that can be turned on and off each time a team goes on or off the field. It is a feeling of loyalty and pride. It is a constant emotion which will continue long after commencement."

Heh, heh . . .

An erudite KU editorialist known simply as Mr. Wispy came up with a list of courses needed by those who took part in the activities surrounding the KU-K-State game. They are:

- (1) Elementary Countervandalism. (Required; 2 hours; a survey course; prerequisite: 2 years in reform school.)
- (2) Pep Rally Dynamics. (Required; 3 hours; effective methods in spontaneous agitation, yelling, jumping, and throwing available objects; prerequisite: none.)
- (3) Goal Post Defense. (Elective; 2 hours; includes rapid refresher in kneeling and gouging techniques; prerequisite: IQ below 50.)—Darrel Miller.

Ping-Pong Ball Has a Short Life Expectancy

By LILA ORME

Constant activity of ping-pong balls at the temporary Student Union might cause a person with leisure time to wonder how far a ball travels in one day in its trips back and forth over the table.

A quick estimate, and a quick guess at a method of figuring the distance, were volunteered by a regular at the table and by an engineer studying at the Union.

The engineer, looking a little surprised at the question, decided one method might be to find the average number of bounces per minute in a game, multiply that times the length of the table, and that number times the number of hours the Union is open.

"But, actually, you could never figure it," he concluded.

Frank Howland, BA Sr, one of the regular players, decided a ball might cover about 1,600 feet a game. Dave Chambers, BA Sr, another regular, wouldn't venture a guess.

Howland spends about 1½ hours in the Union each day, and plays about 10 games.

"I have played for three hours straight," he said. "If someone gets 'hot,' he can play for quite a while."

Chambers estimates that he spends 5 or 6 hours a week playing ping pong.

"Players stay at the table as long as they win," he said. "Some quit before they lose, though, because it gets pretty tiring."

There are about 20 fellows who play most of the time, Chambers said.

"There are about 5 or 6 'sharks,'" he said.

The ping-pong table, which is in use about 90 per cent of the time, also is monopolized by boys about 95 per cent of the time.

"I haven't seen any girls here who were good players," Howland said.

However, a boy who was waiting for the table said he had seen a redhead who was pretty good.

"We replace about six ping-pong balls a day," the manager of the Union said.

So, at that rate of breakage, maybe a ball doesn't have a chance to cover much territory.

Cats Seek 12th Win over Tigers

The Wildcats will try for their 12th win over Missouri when the two teams square off at Columbia tomorrow at 1:30 p.m.

In the 40-game history K-State has won only 11 and hasn't come away winner since 1938. That leaves MU with 25 wins. Four games have ended in ties.

A first division finish for the Cats rests on the outcome of this game. If they win, their record in conference play will be 3-3, clinching at least a tie for fourth place.

Missouri is also shooting for a first-division berth. The Tigers stand at 1-3 with K-State and KU left. If they win both their remaining games they too can tie for fourth place.

Missouri Coach Don Faurot is worried about the Wildcat offense that has scored more than 40 points twice, 42-0 over Marquette, and last week's conquest of the Jayhawks.

"We haven't yet come up with more than three touchdowns in any game and we hit that figure only once," Faurot said. "K-State is an explosive ball club and can get you on the run awfully quick. Those halfbacks can really scramble and I know veterans like Roether and Whitehead have plenty of ability," he continued.

Saturday's game will be the last home appearance for the Tigers and they'll be out to prove that they are a better club than the records show. After holding Maryland to a 13-12 victory in the season's opener, Missouri lost five more games before upsetting Colorado 20-12 two weeks ago. Last week they held the nation's No. 1 team, Oklahoma, for three quarters before being defeated 20-0.

The Tigers came out of the Oklahoma scrap physically fit. They list only Joe Wynn as a casualty. He strained a knee but is expected to start.

Faurot has announced one lineup change for the encounter. Bob Lee, early season regular, will start at right guard in place of Chuck Mehrer.

Elsewhere the Tigers will go with the same lineup that opened against the Sooners. The standout for the Tigers this season has been right end Harold Burnine. Burnine has caught 34 passes for 462 yards to lead the Big Seven and rank high among the nation's pass receivers.

Dave Doane, the league's leading passer, has been replaced at quarterback by Jimmy Hunter. Hunter was hurt in the Maryland game and did not play until he led the Tigers to their win over Colorado.

The Wildcats will go into the game with the same starting lineup used against Kansas. The only change last Saturday from earlier lineups was the appearance of junior Kenny Nesmith at left half.

Elsewhere in the backfield Coach Bus Mertes plans to use quarterback Bob Whitehead, right half Tony Addeo, and fullback Doug Roether. Addeo gained 52 yards in 8 carries and Roether cut down defenders with devastating blocks at Lawrence Saturday.

Junior guard George DeBitetto may not play because of a stomach ailment. He has missed practice all week and his use tomorrow is doubtful. Definitely out of the lineup is sophomore tackle Jon Walker, who has a twisted ankle.

The Cats will leave Columbia by air after the game and are expected to arrive at the Municipal airport at 7:30 p.m.

Starting for the Wildcats will be ends Jim Rusher and Chuck

Zickefoose, tackles Ron Nery and Frank Rodman, guards Ellis Rainsberger and Rudy Bliescher, center Jim Furey, quarterback Bob Whitehead, halfbacks Kenny Nesmith and Tony Addeo, and fullback Doug Roether.

Mertes Says . . .

Rainsberger Is Dependable

Ellis Rainsberger

"Ellis Rainsberger is one of the most dependable linemen we have," Coach Bus Mertes said. "He is capable of playing guard, tackle, or center."

Rainsberger, 6-0, 205-pound sophomore, plays guard on the Wildcat first team.

After the Iowa State game, Ellis was named "Player of the Week" along with Jim Rusher. In the Iowa State game Ellis played 49 minutes and plagued the Cyclones attack throughout the game, Mertes said.

Ellis considers the Missouri line one of the nation's best. "They are big, tough, and played the Oklahoma line to a standstill," he said.

Of the KU game he says, "It was a team effort that won the game for us and a win from Missouri will take the same effort."

Ellis is from East St. Louis, Ill. He lettered in football, track, and baseball in high school at Christian Brothers college, of Memphis, Tenn.

He played freshman football at Missouri prior to entering the army in 1952.

Ellis is one of four Wildcat gridders that is married, and is the father of a 13 months old daughter.

When football season is over, he plans to go out for varsity wrestling. Last year he lettered as a heavyweight on the freshman team.

Hawks Favored To Win Tenth Distance Meet

Kansas university returns to the place where its present cross country winning streak started when it takes part in the 1955 Big Seven cross country meet at Iowa State, tomorrow.

The Jayhawks have won nine conference cross country titles, their first coming in 1928 when they won the first Big Six meet that was run. They did not win again until 1947.

K-State has won the meet six times, Oklahoma four, Iowa State two, and Nebraska one. Missouri and Colorado have not won a meet, and both have been shut out in all meets run since the Big Seven was formed in 1948.

Missouri is rated the top threat to end the KU skein this year.

Latter Day Saints Base Belief on Restoration

By ESTALEE VAN SICKLE

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints is neither Catholic, Protestant, nor Jewish. It stands alone in believing that the church may not be re-established upon the earth merely through a reformation, but only through restoration.

There is no paid clergy in the Latter Day Saints. Each member has his own position in the church, and takes his turn in preparing and presenting the religious talks. No collection is taken during the church service. The members support the church by tithing 10 per cent of their income to it.

There have been one or two Latter Day Saints in Manhattan for many years, but it was not until 1950 that they started meeting together in a home Sunday school. They organized on November 8, 1953, at Danforth chapel. At that time, Dr. T. D. Bell, professor of animal husbandry, was elected president of the group. Other officers are John Hanks, first counselor; Windle Gardner, second counselor; and Jay Peterson, secretary.

All the members here are either from Fort Riley, or affiliated with the College, either as students or as instructors. Most of them are from Utah, Idaho, and Arizona.

Two services are held each Sunday at Danforth chapel. Church school is at 10 a.m., and Sacrament service at 3 p.m.

The Mutual Improvement association meets each Thursday from 7:30 to 9 p.m. at the home of Doctor Bell, 434 Wickham. This association was organized by Brigham Young for the purpose of bringing together young people for study, fellowship, and recreation.

The first Sunday of every month is Fast Sunday. On this day, each member fasts for two meals, and the money he would have used for food is put in a fund for sick and needy members.

In the afternoon, at a testimony meeting, members are given opportunity to stand before the group and publicly express their thankfulness for their blessings.

On the second Sunday of each month, a guest speaker comes here from Wichita. Wichita is district center for this area of Latter Day Saints.

In addition to the Bible, Latter Day Saints use the Book of Mormon, the Doctrine and Covenants, and the Pearl of Great Price. These supply additional information to the Bible, as well as revelations and writings of Joseph Smith, originator of the church.

The Latter Day Saints at K-State presently are working with other Latter Day Saints on a project recording genealogical information on grave stones. This information will be compiled and published in book form and distributed to genealogical libraries throughout the United States. It will be available to people desiring to trace their family tree.

Church school next Sunday will be at 10 a.m., but the sacrament service will be at 1:30 p.m. instead of the usual 3 p.m. Marion Toland of Wichita will be the guest speaker.

Next Thursday, MIA will meet at Dr. Bell's home. Wayne Randall will be in charge of the lesson.

Eight Staters Named 'Bandsmen of 1955'

Eight K-Staters have been selected as outstanding bandsmen for 1955, according to Jean Hedlund, Band director.

Students selected are Robert Lundquist, DM Sr, cornet; Dale Lumb, EE Soph, clarinet; Larry Northway, MAI Soph, cornet; Terry Fanning, AEd Soph, cornet; Wilford Severance, Ag Soph, tuba; Benny Brent, Ag Fr, cornet; Louis Burmeister, ME Jr, cornet; and Kermit Harper, Ar 05, clarinet.

Hedlund made the selections on the basis of the students' playing and marching ability, dependability, and mental alertness at rehearsals.

Tex Winter, K-State basketball coach, was a collegiate track star. He polevaulted 14-2½ to earn the Pacific Coast conference title and the National AAU junior crown.

Frosh Combines Home Ec, Football

Bill Lalonde, freshman from Pittsburgh, Pa., is combining football and home economics in his first year at K-State.

Bill is enrolled in restaurant management in the School of Home Economics, and is on the freshman football squad.

"I enrolled in the curriculum thinking it would supply quite a bit of information that I could use in running a hotel," he said.

"My dad runs a tavern back in Pittsburgh, so I know a little about the organization of a public place. Naturally, hotels and taverns are a little different."

Bill said he has found that chemistry and a few other courses will be rough, and confessed that he might have some trouble with his curriculum in the future.

In restaurant management, however, Bill says he is satisfied that he is doing what he always has wanted to do.

Lalonde suffered a shoulder injury in scrimmage recently, and will be "out of commission" for a while, he said. He said his injury gives him plenty of time to think about his studies and his future plans.

"I've always wanted to run a big hotel in a big town; maybe one in my home town of Pittsburgh," he said. "Another thing I've always wanted to do is to play football. Guess I won't be doing that for awhile."

All in all, Bill believes his choice of curriculums was correct. "But I could even change to another subject now—such as business—and it would still help me when I got ready for the hotel business."

Asked about his future football plans, Bill said that for now he just wants to do the best he can in college ball. He said his dislocated shoulder was just "a break of the game, to be expected when it comes."

Russ Students Act Friendly, Talk of End of Cold War

By DOUG TEDROW

A Russian roommate has proven an interesting experience for Don Cordes, '55 graduate, who was awarded a Rotary International scholarship last spring, enabling him to study in Edinburgh, Scotland.

Don recently wrote home and told of a conference he attended in Lund, Sweden, where he met students from 35 nations. Among them were three Russians who seemed to be the most unusual and interesting people at the conference.

Don had plenty of opportunities of exchanging viewpoints and ideas with one of them, George Mamrykin, who was his roommate.

George was from the Academy of Science in Moscow. The other two Russians at the conference were from Moscow and the University of Leningrad.

"They were much older than the average student there. I would estimate their age to be about 33, while the age of the Americans, six of them, averaged about 22," Cordes said.

It was evident that they had been prepared quite thoroughly for this conference, he wrote. During the conference, the Russians immediately began to read a well-prepared speech, citing facts about Russian trade and the Russian assistance given to other countries.

"A peculiar characteristic of the Russians was that they seemed to have come to this conference on a definite mission of spreading goodwill," Cordes said. The Russians asked everyone they met if they had ever visited the Soviet Union, and added, "You can now, you know!"

DON CORDES
". . . Russians are friendly."

"I was talking to an American who had been behind the Iron Curtain as a member of the Oxford basketball team. He said that living expenses at the official rate of exchange were over five times that of the United States. This fellow stated that he had paid the equivalent of $5 for a cup of coffee. So the Iron Curtain is still there, at least from the financial point of view," Cordes said.

The Russians continued spreading goodwill to the point of passing out Russian cigarettes, tobacco, candy, records, post cards, postage stamps, vodka, jam, and even Soviet soccer team pins.

"I sometimes marvelled at how they could pack so much merchandise into one suitcase," Cordes said.

"The three Russians were forever slapping backs, shaking hands, and talking glibly about the end of the cold war. They all greeted you the same way, said the same thing, and passed out the same items.

"I am certain that had they not attempted to spread so much goodwill and let the burden of making friends depend upon their personalities, a much more successful job could have been done," Cordes said.

When asked questions about the Korean war, George, the Russian roommate of Cordes, said that it was his opinion that South Korea invaded North Korea. They made this mistake because they had greatly underestimated North Korean strength, according to the Russian.

George indicated that South Korea must have been very shrewd in order to fool the entire world into thinking that North Korea had attacked them. He stated that it was a "crafty bit of propaganda on the part of South Korea."

When asked about the ideals of Communism, George stated that he believed that Communism would someday rule the world, and that countries such as America would eventually elect the system.

"George denied any linkage between the Communists in Moscow and the Communist parties elsewhere in the world. I asked about Lenin's tactics in the past when he tried to spark revolutions over the world, and George replied that 'those days are gone'," Cordes said.

"All in all it was an interesting experience and I am convinced that if more encounterings of this nature were held, less encounterings such as the Korean war would develop," Cordes said.

Coed Feeds Rats

By JOE HORTON

Of all the part-time jobs on campus, Mary Lou Fox, EEd Soph, has one of the most unusual. Mary Lou feeds 30 baby rats for Dr. C. H. Whitnah of the chemistry department.

At 2 months of age the young rats are sent to the psychology department, where they are tested for their learning ability and nervous stability.

When that department finishes with the rats, they are sent to the School of Veterinary Medicine. There they undergo a histological study to determine if there are any differences between the rats fed sucrose and those fed lactose.

Girl Asks Boy

FMOC Election This Month To Precede Annual Snowball

The Favorite Man on Campus will be crowned at the annual Snowball dance, December 3, in Nichols gymnasium, said Betty Winkley, dance chairman. The dance, sponsored by the Home Economics council, is a girl-ask-boy affair. It will begin at 9 p.m., and Bill Heptig will play. Dress is semi-formal. Twenty-four candidates have been announced by the organized houses. They are Warren Bullock, Sigma Chi; George Atkeson, Beta Theta Pi; Dalton Show, Theta Xi; Ray North, Alpha Kappa Lambda; Bill Swinson, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Gene New, Acacia; Gene Randall, Alpha Tau Omega.

Ross Miller, Pi Kappa Alpha; Jim Hollis, Kappa Sigma; Cecil Vining, House of Breck; Tom Quint, Phi Kappa; Ray Rasmussen, Alpha Gamma Rho; Jim Smith, Beta Sigma Psi; and Darrell Feaker, Phi Delta Theta.

The four runners-up will be attendants, Miss Winkley said.

The candidates may start campaigning Monday, November 14, Peggy Howard, FMOC chairman, said. Voting will be November 28 to December 2 in Anderson hall, she added. A ticket to the dance must be purchased to vote. No voting may be done at the door December 3.

"An Old Fashioned Christmas" is the theme of this year's dance, Miss Winkley said, and decorations will be carried out in the Christmas fashion. She stressed that every girl on the campus is invited to bring a date.

IFYE's To Return From Europe Tour

Four K-Staters are among ten Kansas International Farm Youth Exchange delegates returning to their homes from a five months stay on farms in European countries.

The four, their hometown and host country are Dale Foo-shee, Garnett, Sweden; Luanne Hicks, Goodland, Scotland; Harold Peck, Haviland, Austria; and Frances Russell, Garden City, Finland.

These people attended K-State last year before going to Europe to participate in the exchange program.

Other Kansas IFYE's are Kay Ahlerich, Rock; Joyce Holdsworth, Abilene; Richard McGuire, Lucas; Eula Murray, Conway; John Rodgers, Paradise; and Donna Stauffer, New Cambria.

The Kansas IFYE's were a part of the group of 52 delegates landing in New York today.

Grad Assistant Jobs Are Open In Colombia

Applications for teaching jobs in South America are now being accepted from students graduating from college at the semester.

These jobs for the academic year January 3-October 5, 1956, are being offered by the University of Caldas in Manizales, Colombia. Both men and women are eligible for these teaching assistantships.

The teaching assistantship awards will include a monthly allowance of around $100, room and tuition in any facility of the university, and transportation to and from Colombia.

Eligibility requirements include U.S. citizenship by the date of application, a bachelor's degree by date of departure, good moral character, good health, and proficiency in the Spanish language.

Deadline date for applications for the jobs is December 1.

Biology Student Hits 100 on Quiz

The first perfect test paper in the history of Biology here at KSC was made in a lecture test at nine weeks by a student who doesn't want her name in print.

Delta Sigs Clean Up Sunset

By ROGER MYERS

"People wouldn't litter public grounds like they do if they had to clean them up," said Delta Sigma Phi pledge Bud Murphy, Geo Jr., at Saturday's clean-up day at Sunset Park.

Fourteen Delta Sig pledges bent their backs to remove cans and litter from picnic spots and barbecue pits at the park. "We're doing it to show our appreciation to the community we live in," said clean-up chairman Roe Borsdorf, Ag Jr.

The Delta Sigs started work at 8 a.m. and finished about 4 p.m. They picked up cans, cleaned out fireplaces, and cleared off picnic tables in the park. The Delta Sigs filled a two-ton truck with discarded beer cans alone.

The "sanitation" men started at the north end of the park and gradually worked their way over the entire area, ending up at the south end of Sunset Park.

"We had a good time and got quite a bit done," said Bob Kelley, BA Soph.

The clean-up is an annual affair in cooperation with the Sertoma club, a Manhattan civic organization, that built most of the picnic facilities at the park.

Opera in English Is Pleasant Fare

By BILL WHISTLER

Boris Goldovsky's Opera Theater's performance of Donizetti's "Don Pasquale" to a small, but appreciative audience, exceeded expectations Friday night with superb singing and acting to a enchanting background of music.

John McCollum's portrayal of "Ernesto," Don Pasquale's nephew, highlighted the evening's entertainment. His tenor voice captivated the audience with its range and variety.

Shrewd "Doctor Malatesta," played by Mac Morgan, managed to keep the comic opera at a lively pace. His acting ability was second to none.

James Joyce in the leading role of "Don Pasquale" turned in a creditable performance. His voice, however, lacked the range and magnitude which was needed for the part.

Nancy Trickey's performance as "Norina" added spice to the entertainment. Her duet with John McCollum in the third act was outstanding.

All in all, the entire cast, backed by a small but hand-picked orchestra, turned in a full evening's entertainment. The orchestra and its interpretation of Donizetti's music, provided a harmonious background.

Remaining artist series numbers include Seymour Lipkin, outstanding young pianist, on February 27, and the Carib Singers Calypso Festival, March 13.

Speakers Selected To Lead Devotions In Danforth Chapel

Speakers for the Danforth chapel devotions, for the week beginning today, will be Keith Landis, Monday and Tuesday; Suzanne Fleetwood, Wednesday and Thursday; and Mary Ann Rogler, Friday.

These speakers are from the Christian Science organization.

Danforth devotions are Monday through Friday from 7:30 to 7:50 a.m. every week. They are inter-denominational and led each week by a different religious group.

Industry-Education Interchange

World Will Look to KS For Milling Info—Times

After dedication of the feed technology building at K-State Thursday the Kansas City Times pointed out editorially some of the advantages of the new feed technology courses here. The new setup makes K-State the world leader in this field, and points up the importance of co-operation between industry and education, the Times said. The editorial:

"Co-operation among education, industry and agriculture has been the key to the establishment of a feed technology course at Kansas State college.

"Four years ago, leaders in the formula feed industry proposed to Kansas State college officials that they inaugurate such a course. The college readily agreed and the industry followed through by supplying the funds for a building and all equipment, including a pilot feed mill capable of duplicating commercial operations.

"With the dedication of the building Thursday, K-State became the only school in the world offering not only instruction leading to a degree in theory and fundamentals, but actual "do it yourself" practice in the production of formula feeds, which has become the ninth ranking industry in the United States. The industry now will look to the college for executives, researchers, and animal food nutritionists. Information on development in research will be made available readily to farmers and stockmen.

"Criticism sometimes is directed at businessmen because they never visit a college campus and at educators who never leave their classroom or laboratory. The large crowd which attended the dedication was made aware more than ever before of the importance and values received from the co-operation and interchange between industry and education."

CU Fast Becoming Paradise for Coeds

Colorado university rapidly is developing into a paradise for students of the female sex (and male, too).

Recently came a flash from out CU way that senior women there are free to stay out as late as they wish this year. Each senior girl has a door key.

University officials said that, by the time a girl is a senior, she is capable of accepting responsibility, and it is good preparation for life after graduation.

Now comes the granddaddy of all announcements.

The CU student council has recommended to school officials that women students be allowed in men's apartments without official chaperonage.

"We feel the individual student's sense of responsibility will continue to maintain high standards of personal conduct," the group said.

Those are mighty fine sounding words, aren't they?—Darrel Miller.

Demos Won by Whisker In Recent Local Elections

By Lyle C. Wilson

Washington (U.P.)—The opposing politicians will not agree on last week's local elections, but from the pressbox it looks like the Democrats won by at least a whisker.

The charm of the Eisenhower smile and the full weight of his administration, for example, were behind a Republican candidate for mayor of Philadelphia. He was licked. The Democrats snatched a lot of town mayors away from Republicans in Indiana. There was a scattering of the same across the face of the nation.

Take Philadelphia. It was a Republican fortress over the years and was a powerhouse in keeping big Pennsylvania a Republican state. But in the Roosevelt years Philadelphia began to go Democratic.

The Philadelphia story points up some hard facts. One of them—often overlooked—is that it is now nearly 30 years since the Republican party scored a clean and comfortable national election triumph. The last time was in 1928.

Herbert Hoover swamped Alfred E. Smith for President that year and the Republicans piled up solid House and Senate majorities. The political seers were writing that maybe the Democratic party was down and out.

Two years later the 1930 congressional elections bowled the Republicans out. Two years more and FDR led the Democratic party into Washington to stay for a long, long time.

The Republican party, as a party, has not done much since. It put up Alf M. Landon of Kansas in 1936 and lost all but Maine and Vermont. Wendell L. Willkie came next and, thereafter, Thomas E. Dewey twice in 1944 and 1948. No luck.

The only substantial party achievement in the Roosevelt-Truman years was winning the 1946 congressional elections.

The Republicans got nowhere until they went far outside the party in 1952 to draft a career general to head their presidential ticket. He and his smile proved to be a natural.

Even the Eisenhower glamor failed to get a Congress in 1952 with decisive Republican majorities, however.

The overall trend has been against the Republican party, and now the man who obtained the party's first Presidential victory since 1928 is ill and probably out.

Tense 'Trial' Has Good Story, Cast

"Trial," current offering at the Campus, is a rare treat for a moviegoer. It has a good story to begin with, and a cast that must have cost the producer half a dozen small fortunes.

The action is tense and emotional throughout the picture. If it weren't for some quiet scenes at a cabin in the mountains, the manager of the theater would have to replace his ushers with a stretcher crew to dispose of the less hardy.

The show has another top-notch point—for the first time in movie history, "the Communist menace" is a real thing with all its causes and effects laid out to see. This one could make good citizens out of fellow travelers.—R.C.

Co-ed Offers Re-release

MGM's re-release of "Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo," now at the Co-ed, brings back to the screen one of the war pictures that characterized movie entertainment in the 1940's.

The acting talents of Spencer Tracy as "Gen. Jimmy Doolittle," and Van Johnson as one of Doolittle's pilots, who went on the memorable raid over Tokyo, have made this movie one of the all-time greats.

It was just another picture with a better-than-average cast several years ago, and it is just that today.

Plane Bombed For Insurance On Passenger

Denver (U.P.)—A man who had insured his mother for $37,500 was arrested today for the bomb crash of a United Air Lines DC6B airliner near Longmont, Colo., that killed 44 persons November 1.

His mother was one of those who died in the crash.

The FBI identified the man as John Gilbert Graham, 23, who had worked with his mother, Mrs. Daisy King, in operating a drive-in restaurant in Denver.

Federal authorities said Graham, a convicted check forger and father of two small children, had taken out $37,500 in insurance on Mrs. King when he took her to Denver's Stapleton air field to board the airliner for Alaska.

The FBI said Graham would be charged with violating a section of the U.S. code which makes it a federal offense to sabotage a national defense material establishment or utility. A commercial aircraft is defined as a defense utility, the FBI said.

At the time of his arrest, Graham had been making monthly payments as restitution after being convicted in November 1951 of forging $4,200 in bad checks. His 5-year sentence was suspended on conditions that the money be repaid.

Cheering at KU Was Great—Stiles

To the Editor:

The stadium cleared and KU had suffered another loss to the K-State Wildcats. That made it three in a row for the Cats. Not only had the K-State football players tromped the Jayhawks, but the student body also had won a moral victory behind the team and out-yelling the Hawks.

It was great to see and hear so many enthusiastic K-Staters cheer their team to victory. Students showed the kind of spirit the team had needed all through the season. Again we say—it was great!

But, amidst the din of the jubilant students, stood one K-State freshman in a KU sweater. Sitting in the KU cheering section, it must have been difficult for her to cheer for the Hawks since loyal K-Staters were drowning her out!

We hope this newly born spirit displayed at Saturday's game carries through into basketball season!

English Pro Jitters Evident on Campus

By CAROLYN LUSK

If you are among the elect taking English Proficiency exams Tuesday evening, consider some of the pitfalls you face.

Misspelling of such common words as "to," "too," "there," "their," and "it's" for "its" count against your grade and you should be careful of these. Misspelled technical terms and other words you would ordinarily look up in the dictionary are not likely causes of failure.

Don't try to avoid sentence structure faults by writing sentences on the fourth and fifth grade level. A series of such sentences is a frequent fault of failing papers.

The second most common cause of failure in antecedents that do not agree with pronouns. Make them agree in number, gender, etc.

Using run-on and comma fault sentences, omission or misuse of apostrophies, dangling modifiers, lack of agreement in subject and predicate, leaving off the "d" of past tense verbs, and failing to double the final consonant in such words as "running," "written," are other common errors.

There is a committee of 84 instructors selected to grade papers. These instructors are selected by the deans of the various schools in proportion to the number of students from each school taking the examination. There is about one grader for every 13 to 15 students enrolled in a school. There are no English or Speech department teachers among the graders.

The percentage of F's has been going up each year—23% failing last year.

Final Grid Game For Cats Saturday

Following the 21-0 win over Missouri Saturday, the Wildcats began workouts today for their final football game of the season against Oklahoma A&M next Saturday at Stillwater.

In the eleven game series, which dates back to 1908, K-State has won six games and the Aggies five. The last game was played in 1950 at Manhattan with the Aggies winning 41-0.

Oklahoma A&M will go into Saturday's game with a record of 1 win and 7 losses against 4 wins and 5 losses for K-State. The Aggies lost to KU Saturday 13-7.

At Columbia the Wildcats once again took advantage of errors made by the opponents in the early stages of the game to win their third conference game of the season.

Early in the second quarter, Jimmy Hunter, MU quarterback, fumbled on the K-State 14 yard line and on the first play Doug Roether cut through the center of the Missouri line to score. Jim Rusher kicked the extra point.

Following the next kickoff Chuck Zickefoose intercepted a Hunter pitchout and raced 36 yards for the second Wildcat touchdown, just 41 second after the first one had been scored. Rusher again kicked the extra point.

The final touchdown came in the third quarter when Ralph Pfeifer took a handoff from Dick Corbin and went the final nine yards to score. Don Zadnik kicked the extra point. The score capped a 65 yard drive that was covered in 6 plays.

Missouri took to the air in the final stanza in an effort to pull the game out of the fire but the K-State defenders were able to stop any drive MU got under way.

Late in the game the Tigers worked the ball to the one-foot line but a tackle by Jim Furey at that point stopped the Tigers drive and the Wildcats took over.

Regnier Wins Pigskin Contest

Bobby Regnier, AH Soph, won last week's Pigskin Prognostication contest with a near-perfect guess of 20-0 favoring K-State over Missouri. Regniers' score was closest among a record number of entries.

Regnier was 10 yards over the Wildcats total yardage, picking 212 yards while the total was 202. His pick of 160 total yards for the Tigers was 40 yards short of their 200-yard total.

Thirty-three students entered the next-to-last contest of the year for a record number of entries. Fifteen picked the Cats to win while 18 thought the Tigers would come out on top.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGE
Monday, November 14, 1955-4

Seven games, four of which were decided by less than four points, were played in intramural basketball Friday night.

The Phantoms squeezed by House of Williams, 20-19, while Sigma Phi Nothing eked out a one point win over the House of Breck, 25-24.

In another pair of close games, The Pushovers defeated Acropolis 27-24 and Kasbah defeated the Brewster Boys 20-17.

In other Friday games, the Vets ran over the Eight Balls 25-15, Hui O Makules beat the OK House 26-18, and Jr. AVMA beat the Gammas 20-9.

Two forfeits rounded out the activity. Mom's Boys won a 2-0 forfeit from ISA while the Globetrotters were forfeiting to West Stadium 2-0.

Tonight's schedule for 6:45 has the Rebels against YMCA on the west court, the Hillbillies against Rho Alphas on the center court, and the Rum Dums against Wesley Foundation on the east court.

At 7:45 the Pawnee Riders play the High Plains Leaguers on the west court, Sigma Phi Epsilon plays Pi Kappa Alpha on the center court, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon plays Farm House on the east court.

Rounding out the night's games at 8:45 will be Alpha Gamma Rho against Phi Kappa Tau on the west court, Delta Tau Delta against Kappa Sigma on the center court, and Sigma Nu against Acacia on the east court.

Kansas Wins Ninth Straight Distance Meet

Kansas won its ninth straight Big Seven cross-country title Saturday as Allen Frame led the field over the Iowa State three-mile course.

Two more Jayhawks finished in the top five. Frame's winning time was 15:01.1, more than six seconds faster than his last year's winning time, a new meet record over a three-mile course.

Point totals for the schools (low score wins) were KU 15, Missouri 30, Colorado 34, Iowa State 69, Oklahoma 91, Nebraska 106, and K-State 108.

K-State and Nebraska failed to place a man in the top 15 finishers.

To Change Bylaws

Council Okays Placing Party Status on Ballots

An amendment to the constitutional bylaws to allow placing a political candidate's party affiliation next to his name on the ballot was passed last night by the Student Council.

The amendment, originally proposed by Bob McDowell, changed Article II, Section 1, Number 4C of the constitutional by-laws to read that "Party affiliations or independent status of candidates shall be printed on the ballot."

Student Body President Gerry

Day read a letter from the Tribunal giving its interpretation of the duties of the Student Activities Board. The interpretation was previously requested by the Council.

The Tribunal ruling stated that: "The Student Activities board has authority, (1) to review all student organizations other than social fraternities and sororities, (2) to approve new organizations other than social fraternities and sororities and (3) to approve special events and fund-raising projects."

Day read another letter from Luther Leavengood in regard to the Council's query about reduced student rates for Artist Series performances. Leavengood proposed that single tickets on the two remaining performances be sold at a student at a 40 per cent discount upon presentation of his activity ticket.

The Council would reimburse the Artist Series for this 40 per cent reduction. No action was taken on the proposal pending a recommendation from the Council Treasurer Bill Kennedy, and the Artist Series committee.

McDowell moved that the affair be dropped until next year when a program could be worked out for the entire season, however, his motion was defeated, 5-6.

Keith Swenson moved that the Council send a recommendation to the Building and Repair department that necessary steps be taken to restore the roof of Danforth addition to the All-Faith chapel to its natural finish. He said that the current green finish was not in accordance with the remainder of the building.

His motion was tabled for further consideration.

A request by KU students to sell "Squat," their new humor magazine, on the K-State campus was discussed by the Council, but no definite action was taken. Atkeson moved that "it stay down the Kaw," but his motion was tabled until the rules on selling publications on the campus could be consulted.

Students Can Get 'Angels' Tickets

Students may obtain tickets to "My Three Angels" by showing their activity tickets at the Auditorium box office Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, between 3 and 5 p.m., Prof. Earl J. Hoover, play director, announced.

The play will be presented at 8:15 p.m. Thursday and Friday, Hoover said.

Forms Ready For SU Space

Any group, department, or organization wishing to schedule space in the new Student Union next semester should pick up the necessary scheduling forms in A 203 immediately, according to Bob Alexander, Union program director.

Today Is Deadline To Ask Students As Holiday Guests

Today is the last day for K-State students living in this area to invite foreign students home for the Thanksgiving or Christmas vacation.

All students interested must contact the Dean of Students office before 5 p.m., according to Charles Jacot, assistant dean of students.

"Inviting foreign students home provides an excellent opportunity for American students and families to become acquainted with another country, its people, and its customs. It is a fine opportunity for foreign students in our country to learn about American customs and American families and community life," Jacot said.

Hospitality of this type leads to greater friendship between countries, he said.

Not Enough Funds To Furnish Union

K-State's new Union will open next semester minus many of the furnishings originally planned for it, according to Loren Kottner, Union director.

Kottner told the Union Governing board last night that $195,000 allotted for Union furnishings could not be stretched to completely furnish all the rooms.

The College has appropriated $195,000 to furnish the Union, Kottner said. Porter Butts, one of the planners of the University of Wisconsin's Union, had recommended at K-State's request that $320,000 be used for furnishing the New Union.

Kottner explained the cut in Union furnishings by citing the use of part of the furnishings fund to complete or add to the construction of the building.

These added expenses reduced the amount intended for furnishing by more than $40,000, Kottner said. This means that to open the Union on schedule many of the rooms will have to remain unfurnished, partially furnished, or furnished with cheaper equipment, Kottner said.

Army Cadets Will Parade Today at 4 p.m.

More than 800 army ROTC cadets will perform in a regimental parade today at 4 p.m. on the ROTC drill field.

The six army candidates for Military Queen will be present. They are Marie Price, HE Soph; Joyce Rawlins, HT Jr; Dixie Brown, HDA Soph; Constance Eller, EEd Soph; Betty L. Riggs, Hst Soph; and Dorothy Newton, DIM Fr.

Capt. Robert B. Tobias Jr. said the parade will be conducted entirely by cadet leadership, with no military staff members taking part.

Hospital Facilities . . .

Student Health a Disgrace to College—Dr. Lafene

K-State's Student Health hospital is a disgrace to the College, according to Dr. Benjamin Lafene, director.

More than $1000 a year is being spent on repair and redecoration of the hospital, Dr. Lafene said.

The yearly budget for the hospital is approximately $100,000. Spending $1000 on repair alone is too much, he added.

"Even with this uneconomical use of student funds, the hospital is disintegrating faster than this sum of money can repair it and is a disgrace to Kansas State," Lafene said.

The hospital was built in 1947 with the belief that it would be used only two or three years at the most. Since that time, all efforts to obtain a new Student Health center have been unsuccessful even though the hospital has reached a state of marked dilapidation, Lafene said.

The State hospital division facilities have condemned K-State's Student Health as being a fire hazard and too difficult to maintain sanitary conditions. The two-patient rooms do not measure up to the American hospital standards, Dr. Lafene said.

"The floors are all but falling out from under the doctors' feet," he declared. "Much money was spent in replacing asphalt tiles to cover the uneven floors, but within a short period of time, the new tile was so badly cracked that it is impossible to keep it clean.

"The walls are covered with plaster board that begins damaged with the slightest jar. Sound carries throughout the hospital, making it impossible to give heart and lung tests properly.

"Tin plates and even rags have been used to patch up the various holes and cracks in the walls," Lafene said.

The hallways are so narrow that it is impossible to move a wheeled stretcher easily between rooms. Not only are the hallways dark and narrow, but the rooms are too small for two patients to be easily cared for. The rooms are not cheery and pleasant as hospital rooms should be, Lafenes commented.

During campus epidemics, there aren't even enough rooms for all the patients, he added.

"In the summer, it is four to six degrees hotter inside than out due to low ceilings and lack of insulation in the building," Lafene said. He related incidents where office workers have become ill as a result of the intense heat.

There is little storage space, food cannot be kept fresh because of the heat, drugs worth

$5,000 to $8,000 must be kept on hand at all times, and keeping them from perishing is almost an impossibility, Lafene said.

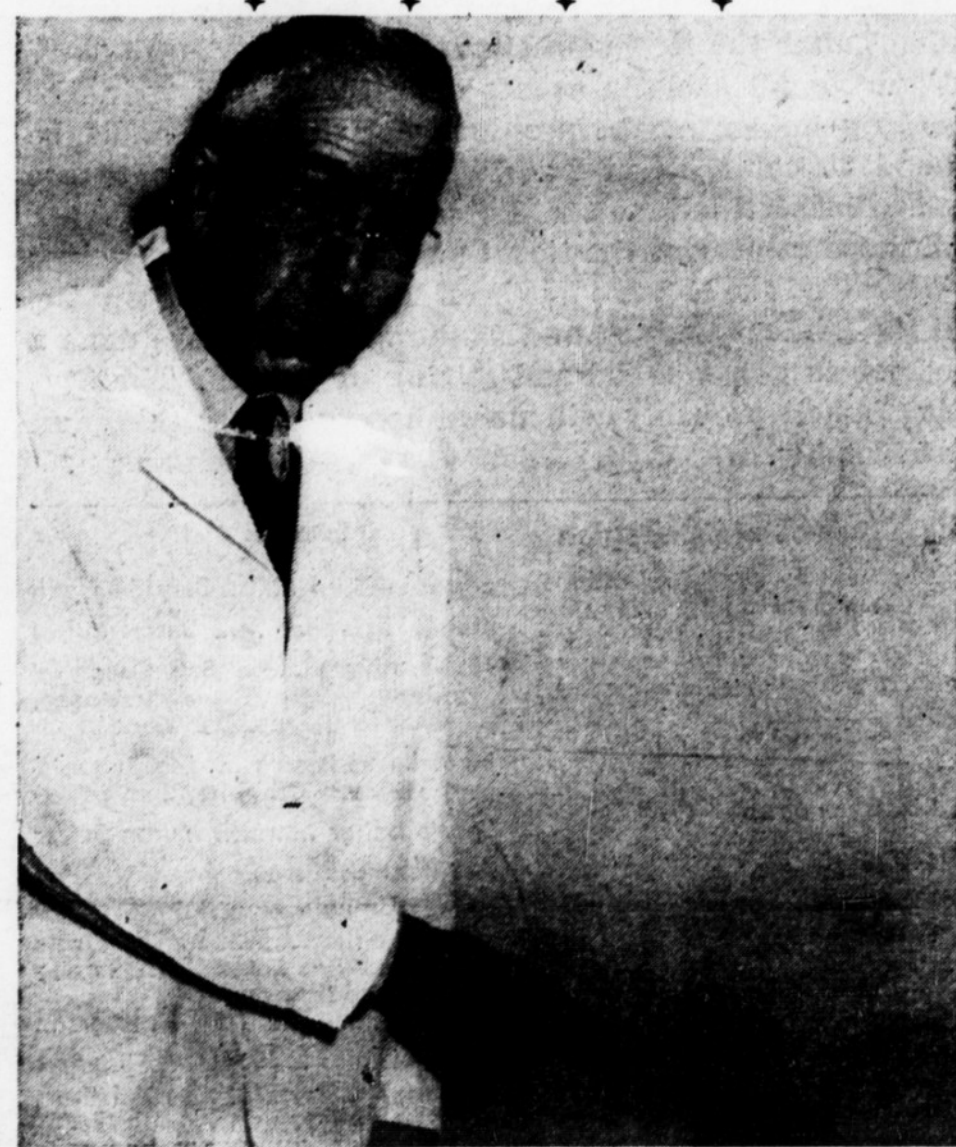

Laboratories and X-ray rooms are inadequate," he said. "The rooms are half the proper size. Because of the close quarters X-ray technicians are overexposed to harmful rays."

At the present time, there are enough qualified doctors, nurses, and technicians to handle the number of students enrolled here. However, if an expected increase in enrollment is realized, the hospital will be understaffed. Even the hiring of new staff members would not help, since there is no room left in which they could work, Lafene pointed out.

"I feel that this year we have the best medical staff in many years," Lafene declared. "However, we can't give students the best care because of our extremely limited facilities."

Plans are all completed for a new Student Health building to be located south of the Military Science building, but the plans seem to be doing nothing but collecting dust. Lafene said that much of the present equipment is in excellent condition and could easily be moved into a new building.

Modern Medicine Hasn't Cured Nine-Weeks Low Grade Slips

By Ann Weathers

Medicine has found a cure for many things, according to the Pittsburg Collegio, but there is one human element that is cruelly striking down hundreds of college students every year—low-grade slips.

This disease, associated with 9-weeks exams, has suddenly settled on K-State's campus. Midterm exams are the first signs of this lingering disease. From there, the symptoms are many and varied, and can be identified by the reactions of the students.

One of the sure-fire ways to tell if your associates are suffering from this dreaded affliction is to ask yourself a few questions.

Is Kite's deserted? Does the conversation lag with your more talkative friends? Have they started to shake their heads and stare into space?

If you miss a shot on the pool table because you happen to remember that Plato is a philosopher instead of the latest thing in flying saucers, this is the effect of midsemester.

The effect of this illness will last for a week or more. There will be a mark left on the campus, but in time life will be almost the same as before, at least until finals.

Take them all, flunk slips, midsemester, and midterm exams, mix them thoroughly, gulp them down, and still come out with a one-plus average, and you have found the cure for college.

Students at Colorado university have found a less bitter way to rid themselves of an equally less bitter disease—the common cold.

Instead of having to wait in long lines for a handful of pills, the student merely is sent to a cold clinic, to fill out a mimeographed form.

From the information, the nurse can decide whether the student has a common cold or a more serious ailment, and he is treated accordingly.

Sounds like a boon to students who are afraid to go to their student hospital for fear of being clamped in bed for a week or two.

As a final tribute to college students' studiousness, there is this comment from an anonymous faculty member:

A political science professor who has taught high school as well as college courses summarized the difference between high school and college students:

"When you walk into a high school class and say 'good morning,'" he said, "the students reply 'good morning.' When you walk into a college class and say 'good morning,' the students write it down."

Graham Admits Planting Bomb

Denver (U.P.)—The confession of John Gilbert Graham revealed today he spent two weeks making the dynamite bomb that exploded in his mother's suitcase November 1, killing her and 43 other persons aboard a United Air Lines plane.

Graham planted the bomb to collect $37,500 on an insurance policy which he had taken out in his mother's name. The policy was worthless because she had not countersigned it according to law.

Allen Slaying Confessed

Kansas City, Mo.—The FBI said today palm prints found on the car in which Wilma Allen was slain August 4 matched those of Arthur Ross Brown, who admitted casually in San Francisco that he was the kidnap-slayer.

May Be Passed Soon Student-Wives Ticket Plan Would Save Students Dollars

The Athletic Council has come up with a good proposition to let wives and husbands of K-State students into athletic contests at reduced rates.

In fact, the group's recommendation to the Student Council is a better one than was proposed by the Student Council—that wives and husbands be allowed to attend games for $1.

The Council didn't act on the Athletic Council's recommendation last night because Director of Athletics Moon Mullins wasn't able to be at the Council meeting to explain the proposal and to answer questions. It is expected that the Council will discuss the recommendation at its next meeting.

The first big advantage of the new proposal is that a non-student husband or a student wife would be allowed to buy an activity ticket to sit with his wife. At present, a nonstudent husband is out of luck unless he can get a men's activity ticket for a game.

The biggest advantage of the proposed setup is a saving in money. Wives or husbands may get admissions to all K-State athletic events for $13 (five football games, plus basketball, etc.) Tickets for wives now cost $18 for all events.

The plan calls for a $5 football ticket for four home games, or a $6 ticket for five home games. Then a $7 ticket for basketball and all other athletic events could be bought. The basketball ticket for wives this year would cost $10, because a number of all-year athletic tickets already have been sold.

Another good provision of the recommendation is that a student wife or husband will get a proportionate refund on a basketball season ticket if he/she withdraws from school after the first semester.

Figuring all athletic events over the school year, the cost to a holder of the proposed activity card would be around 30 cents an event. That's mighty cheap to see high-caliber athletics.

A working-over of the ticket plan for the student wives and husbands at K-State has been needed for quite awhile, and the Student Council and Athletic Council have done a good job in going ahead and setting up a plan. The Student Council probably will unanimously accept this plan next Monday.

—Gary Swanson.

The Truth About BLUE-WHITE DIAMONDS

Don't be fooled by commonly used terms "Blue-White" and "Perfect" when selecting your diamond! What many jewelers consider a "blue-white" diamond may actually be tinged with yellow.

Only a Registered Jeweler can offer you the assurance and protection of scientific diamond grading. Diamonds vary in value according to four factors:

- (1). COLOR.
- (2). CARAT WEIGHT.
- (3). COMPARATIVE ABSENCE OF IMPERFECTIONS.
- (4). CUTTING.

PERFECT

POOR

National diamond grading examinations for the Registered Jeweler assure you of better diamond values. A Registered Jeweler knows the facts about scientific diamond grading and must observe the American Gem Society's standards which protect his customers from purchasing low grade diamonds.

What's doing at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft

World Travel in the Jet Age

Carrying forward a great tradition of American leadership in aviation, a team of four world-famous organizations has ushered in a new era in commercial transportation. Between December 1958 and January 1961, Pan American World Airways, who pioneered trans-oceanic air travel with Pratt & Whitney Aircraft piston engines, will put into passenger service twenty Boeing 707 and twenty-five Douglas DC-8 jet transports. This fleet of airliners will be powered by twin-spool axial-flow jet engines, designed and developed by Pratt & Whitney Aircraft.

Behind this significant achievement lie countless engineering man-hours. The development of a jet-turbine powerplant with more than 10,000 pounds of thrust, entailed far more than performance on paper. By the time the engine was proved experimentally in 1950, Pratt & Whitney Aircraft engineers had coped with some of the most complex problems of present-day engineering. Just how successfully they solved them is well evidenced by the widespread use of the J-57 turbojet in today's military aircraft for both intercontinental and supersonic flight.

has already established a trans-continental round-trip record. Powered by four P&WA J-57 engines, it flew from Seattle to Washington, D.C. and back, in 8 hours and 6 minutes—an average speed of 581 mph.

Douglas DC-8 Clipper is the latest in a long line of famous transports. Cruising at 575 mph., 30,000 feet above the earth, it will set new standards in speed and comfort, along with the Boeing Stratoliner. Travelling 9½ miles per minute, these planes will span the Atlantic in less than 7 hours.

World's foremost designer and builder
of aircraft engines

Pratt & Whitney Aircraft J-57 Turbojet is one of two versions of the jet engines for the Boeing 707 and the Douglas DC-8. The most powerful production aircraft engine in the world, it already powers America's nine most important types of military airplanes.

Light Workout For Gridders

The Wildcats took a well-earned rest after Saturday's win over Missouri and ran through light workouts yesterday. Full scale practice for Saturday's game with Oklahoma A&M will begin this afternoon.

Coach Bus Mertes split the team up for short drills against the freshman squad. The varsity line ran again the frosh line and the varsity backfield went against the frosh backs.

The Cats capped the drills off with a short session of touch football and went to the showers early.

K-State came out of the Missouri scrap in good shape physically with one injured player. Jerry Hayes, junior halfback, sustained a knee injury but is expected to be ready to play.

'Oliver Twist' In J 15 Today

"Oliver Twist" will be shown at 4 p.m. today and tomorrow in J 15. The movie features Alec Guinness as Fagin, who is the figure of much controversy.

The movie is based upon Charles Dickens' novel of a parish orphan, born and raised in a workhouse, who fell into the hands of Fagin, a pickpocket trainer, and was later adopted by a wealthy man.

Indian Lecturer To Discuss Gandhi, Nehru at Assembly

Dr. Haridas T. Muzumdar, friend and biographer of the late Mahatma Gandhi, will talk on "Gandhi's India, Nehru's India" at the all-College assembly at 9:30 a.m., Thursday, in the College auditorium.

He is a noted lecturer on India, the Orient, world peace, and the American heritage.

Muzumdar spent a three months' period as Gandhi's personal guest at Satyagraha

Ashram and accompanied the famous Gandhi's Salt Party march to the sea in 1930. He has also been associated with Nehru.

He received his early schooling in India where he attended Elphinstone college and Bombay university. At Northwestern university he received his Bachelor of Arts and Master degree of Arts. He earned his Doctor of Philosophy degree at the University of Wisconsin.

Muzumdar is the author of various publications about his friend, Gandhi, and on world peace.

He is professor of sociology at Cornell college in Mount Vernon, Iowa, and will be a speaker at the Conference on Asian Affairs in Manhattan, November 18 and 19. He will talk on "Mahatma Gandhi's Philosophy of Soul Force" and "American-Asian Relations" at this conference.

Dr. Haridas Muzumdar

Leon Sucht, AH Jr; Shirley Fooshee, HDA Fr; and Emily Douthit, Psy Fr; have been appointed to the 1956 Who's Whoot staff, Jim Windle, editor, has announced.

Sucht will serve as special events editor and Miss Douthit will be the assistant special events editor.

The special events section of the Who's Whoot is a new addition to the book this year and will cover health, safety, and community service events, Windle said.

Senior Invitations On Sale Thursday

Orders for senior graduation invitations may be placed starting at 8 a.m. Thursday in Kedzie 101. Orders will be accepted until Tuesday.

The senior class voted at a recent meeting that everyone ordering invitations be required to donate 50 cents for a senior gift to the College. The 50 cents will be added to the cost of the invitations and is payable when the invitations are ordered, said George Atkeson, senior class president.

Student Health

Three girls and five boys are patients in the Student Health hospital today.

The girls are Kay Eplee, Martha Stark, and Marilyn Rundell.

The boys are John Mikesich, Warren Godfrey, Bob Paulson, Valdon Holland, and Merle Starr.

JOSEPH LANDHOLM, VM Sr, receives the Borden award certificate from Dean A. L. Pugsley.

Borden Award Won By Joseph Landholm

Joseph E. Landholm, VM Sr, received the $300 Borden award last night at a Jr. AVMA meeting in Dykstra auditorium.

The award is presented annually to the veterinary student attaining the highest grade average during his first six semesters of professional course work, said E. E. Leasure, dean of the School of Veterinary Medicine

A. L. Pugsley, dean of academic administration, made the presentation in the absence of Dean Leasure, who is attending the annual meeting of Land Grant Colleges and Universities in East Lansing, Mich.

Landholm's award winning average was 2.71559. He was followed closely by Thomas B. Hanshaw, VM Sr, with 2.71028 and Richard Kirkemide, VM Sr, whose average was 2.7.

Landholm, from Oakland, Neb., belongs to Alpha Zeta, honorary agricultural fraternity and Jr. AVMA. He is a two year letterman in wrestling.

The Borden Award was established at Kansas State in 1945 by a grant of $1,500 from the Borden Company Foundation, Inc. An award has been made every year with the exception of 1947 when there were no seniors because of the discontinuance of the war-accelerated program.

Union Photos Form Display At Library

Photographs of student unions on other college campuses will be on display in Farrell library during the coming week.

The display is intended to inform K-Staters of the student unions which other colleges have, said Carolyn Clark, chairman of the Student Union promotion committee. The promotion committee obtained the photographs so that students may compare other student unions to K-State's, she said.

About 50 photographs, both interior and exterior views, make up the display.

Ag Honorary To Initiate 14

Alpha Zeta, honorary agricultural fraternity, will initiate 14 new members at its fall initiation and banquet tomorrow at 6 p.m. The banquet will be in the banquet room in Thompson hall.

Dr. John Keltner, head of the speech department, will speak at the banquet.

Frances Reichart, Ag Sr; Don Griffiths, VM Sr; Jim Butler, VM Sr; Marvin Samuelson, VM Sr; Charles Keller, Ag Sr; Estel Schultis, AH Jr; and Roy Henry, AEd Sr.

Renken Wins Chicago Trip

Garth H. Renken, AEd Sr, is the winner of the 1955 Swift and company trip to the International Livestock exposition in Chicago, Prof. David L. Mackintosh of the animal husbandry department announced.

Garth won the contest with his essay "Help Yourself," which explained self service meat and dairy products in retail stores, Mackintosh said.

The contest was open to all undergraduate men majoring in agriculture in state agricultural colleges.

Annual Foreign Feast To Be Friday at 6:30

A Columbian exchange student from Shawnee Mission, a trio from McPherson college, and five K-Staters will entertain at the Cosmopolitan club's annual Feast of Nations Friday evening.

Blanca Uribe, the Columbian student, will play the piano. She has played with the Kansas City Philharmonic orchestra.

The McPherson college ladies' trio will present several numbers. The trio consists of Alma Goodfellow, Eva Jones, accompanied by Marlene Jamison.

Janice Ames, Art Soph, will sing "Blue Moon" and several other selections. Miss Ames recently went a long way in the Lawrence Welk vocal contest.

Playing the piano will be Jerry Weaver, MAI Sr, from Manhattan.

Doreen Low, Fdn Gr, will dance a Scottish dance and Malali Milindhaboom, HE Gr, will dance a Thailand folk dance and sing in her native language. Don Matsuoaka, BPM Soph from Hawaii, will play his ukulele.

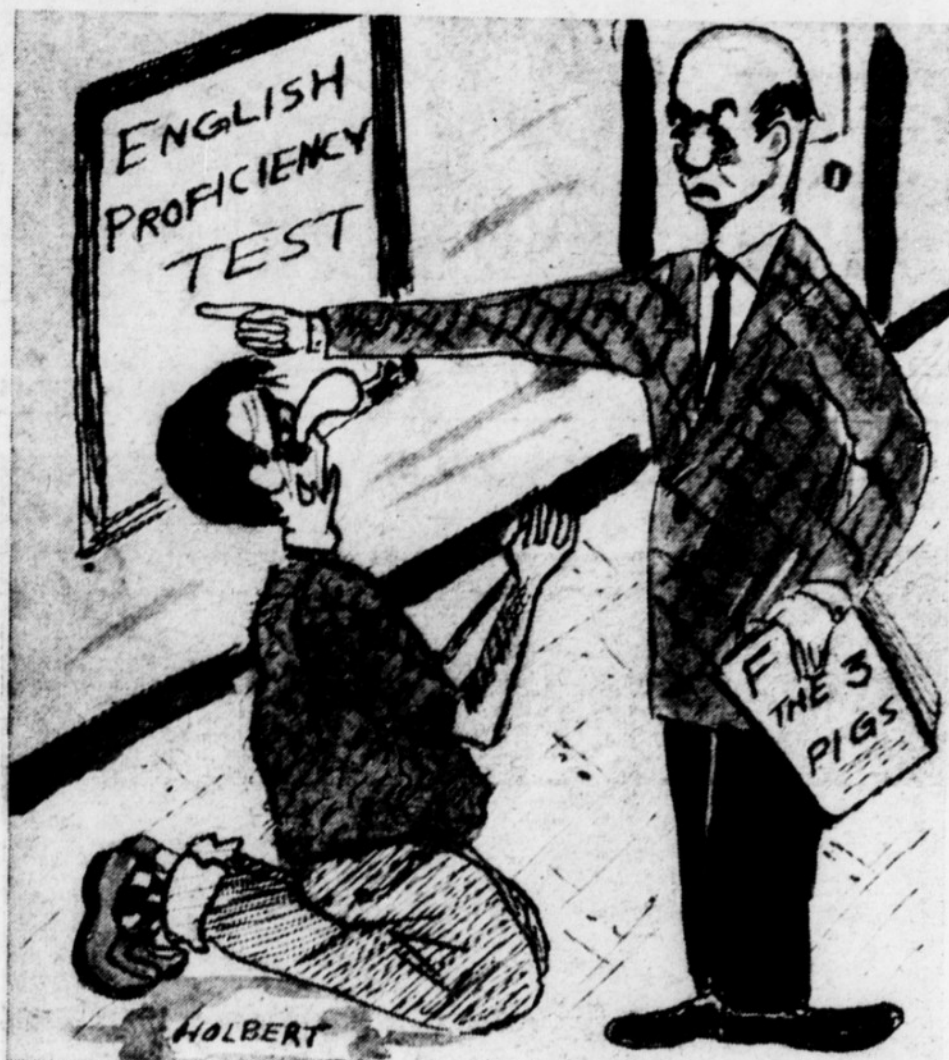

Speaker for the evening will be Dr. Linwood L. Hodgson, professor of sociology and anthropology, who will show slides and speak on world culture.

The Feast of Nations meal is cooked by the members of Cosmopolitan club, and will be served at 6:30 p.m. in the First Methodist church basement. The price is $1.25 and tickets can be obtained from Warren Rempel, executive secretary of the YMCA, Esther Valdes, in the dean of agriculture's office, Jim Craig, in the entomology department, or Surendra Patel, in the mechanical engineering department.

TRUDGING WEARILY homeward across campus in the snow last night is a K-Stater who was "caught on the Hill" when the snow began.

"I don't care if you ARE a second-semester senior."

Is Doc Harbaugh Slipping? Hawk Is Mad at KU Team

Shades of a filamentous fungus! Doctor Harbaugh must be slipping. A student in Biology in Relation to Man actually made a perfect grade on one of the good doctor's 9-week tests.

If you haven't taken the course, you can't begin to imagine what a feat this is. Such a feat should be honored, and we recommend the lucky girl for the Order of Flagellated Paramecium.

The 46-0 loss by KU to K-State brought forth an angry letter to the editor in the Daily Kansan. Said the irate KU'er:

"No one minds losing honorably. . . . But to go on the field against our arch rivals—a team definitely in our class—after a solid week of sincere rallying and enthusiasm, and then to drop dead and play patsy—that is unheard of and inexcusable!"

"What was wrong? And why? The first half of the game our team (if that's an applicable term) had no life, no spirit, no drive, no desire—in short, no nothing. Why? Is there friction within the team

Should OU Stay in the Big Seven? K-Staters' Opinions Are Divided

By John Koster

Opinion seems to be divided on campus as to whether Oklahoma should be allowed to remain in the Big Seven conference. At least, that was the result shown by a recent poll of K-Staters.

Evidently the female of the species is less inclined to losing to a football powerhouse than is the male—who seems to prefer the spirit of competition.

JANICE GRAHAM, EED Soph—No, they're completely out of our class in football. It's no contest anymore, and they have enough money to buy all their own players. It's a fight for second place now.

RUDY BLETSCHER, BA Jr—They're definitely good for the conference. When some team knocks them off, it will be a great day and will help that team greatly in its rating in national standings.

EDWARD SMITH, ArE Sr—Would you sell Fort Knox if you owned it? They're the biggest drawing card in the Big Seven, and have the biggest crowds wherever they go.

MARYLYN MCCREADY, Eng Jr—It doesn't create hustle when teams play OU, because they are beat before they start. But the conference doesn't have any team that can beat any other big team if Oklahoma doesn't do it.

RAY COCKRUM, PrL Sr—Some other team would take Oklahoma's place in football if they left. In other sports they aren't so good, so I believe it's good for competition.

JUDY SORTOR, HEN Soph—Oklahoma is too professional; it takes the fun out of the sport when competition is that rough.

GERALD O'CONNOR, Chm Jr—It gives all the teams incentive to fight harder for their alma maters, on top of Oklahoma being a top drawing card in the league.

ROSEMARY DERKS, ML Soph—Playing Oklahoma adds a new angle to the game—learning the art of self defense.

JERRY FARRELL, TJ Fr—Losing to Oklahoma is just a spur to go a little harder next time. But I think their "sugar daddy" system should be supervised.

CAROL BAKER, BMT Soph—The Southwest conference is a better place for Oklahoma, since they really are too good for the Big Seven.

Graham, Held for Murder Of 44, Confident of Release

Denver (U.P.)—John Gilbert Graham's jailers reported today he appears supremely confident of securing release from the jail where he is held on murder charges for planting the explosive that killed 44 persons aboard a United Air Lines plane November 1.

"He seems to feel he'll get out of the position he's in," said Capt. Neal Wright, the county jail training officer. "He talks like he's quite hopeful of making his bond and getting out of jail."

Wright said Graham eats well, sleeps soundly, and chatted once with a guard about explosives.

District Attorney Bert Keating announced he would demand death in the gas chamber for the 23-year-old explosives expert.

Ho Hum, West Rejects Russ Security Proposal

Geneva—The Western foreign ministers formally rejected today an 11th hour Soviet proposal on European security, and labeled it a move to wrest a propaganda victory from the dying Geneva conference.

Stevenson Opens Drive For Demo Nomination

Chicago—Adlai E. Stevenson got down to bread and butter politics today in his drive to capture the 1956 Democratic Presidential nomination.

The fast-moving Stevenson has called an 11 a.m. news conference less than 24 hours after announcing his candidacy. He was expected to:

1. Name James Finnegan, Pennsylvania secretary of state, as his campaign manager.
2. Announce the appointment of Barry Bingham, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, as director of Volunteers for Stevenson.
3. Agree to enter the Minnesota Presidential primary next march.

K-State Fans Like Cheerleader's Pep

Dear Editor:

I am writing on behalf of many K-State fans who had the good fortune to attend the thrilling game at Columbia,

Mo., last Saturday. It truly was a wonderful game, and every K-State fan is really pleased with the great performance of every boy on the team. They were swell.

There is another person we thought should be recognized also. He is cheerleader Larry Youngdoff, who was the only cheerleader there. He told us what to yell and led us in the cheers.

After he got the K-Staters lined up, we had a pretty good cheering section. May I also tell you how much we enjoy the Kansas State Collegian.

What young people are doing at General Electric

Young engineer decides what colors are best for G-E reflector lamps

Which color of light makes people look natural? Should a blue light be used more often than a red? What kind of effect does a violet light have on merchandise?

In recent years, color lighting has become so important in stores, restaurants, theaters, and displays that General Electric developed a line of new easy-to-use color-reflector lamps for this market.

The man responsible for deciding which colors are most effective for users of these lamps is 29-year-old Charles N. Clark, Application Engineering Color Specialist for General Electric's large lamp department.

Clark's Work Is Interesting, Important

In a recent series of tests, Clark made a critical appraisal of literally hundreds of color-filter materials to find the ones that produced maximum results but were still suitable to high-production techniques, practical stocking and simplified selling. This experimental work also had to take into account all the information on human perception of color.

25,000 College Graduates at General Electric

When Clark came to General Electric in 1949, he already knew the work he wanted to do. Like each of the 25,000 college-graduate employees, he was given his chance to grow and realize his full potential. For General Electric has long believed this: When fresh, young minds are given freedom to make progress, everybody benefits—the individual, the company, and the country.

CHARLES N. CLARK joined G.E. in 1949 after receiving his B.S. and M.S. (in E.E.) from the University of Wisconsin. He served two years with the Navy during World War II.

Foreign Children's Art On Display in Anderson

A circle for a head, two lines for legs, and an oversized body is the way children anywhere in the world draw a human being. Some examples of this are on the second floor of Anderson hall.

The exhibit, consisting of 50 pictures, will be in rooms 220 and 221 the rest of the week, Mrs. Louis Hafermehl, art instructor, said.

Children, 4 to 17 years of age, from Burma, Sweden, England, Canada, New Zealand, Africa, Japan, and Germany contributed to the exhibit, which was collected by Kansas university. It is being circulated by the State Federation of Art.

The drawings, done in water colors and crayons, show interest in the home, trees, animals, family groups, and individuals, no matter what country the drawing is from. Another typical child's idea is showing the sky as a blue line separating heaven and earth.

The pictures from Africa are mainly of the grass huts and the devil dance celebrations, while the German pictures are abstractions and snow scenes.

Each country represented has contributed some interesting drawings, and one foreign child even drew his version of Billy the Kid!

The 15 tribes of India who inhabited what is now the Mexican state of Oaxaca believed at the time of the Spanish conquest that they were descended from trees. Many trees, particularly large or old one, were held in veneration.

Quartet, Magic Enliven Tekes' Costume Party

Costumes representing Caesar and Cleopatra, worn by Ed Becker and Janet Teague, were chosen as the best at the "Suppressed Desire" party given by Tau Kappa Epsilon Saturday. The 75 couples were entertained by a quartet and a magic show.

Acacia held its annual barbeque Saturday night at John Poole's ranch. Following the barbeque the group sang while sitting around the fire.

Acacia is having an FMOC party Sunday night at 7:30 at the house.

"Suppressed Desires" will be the theme of an Alpha Xi Delta pledge party Friday night at the chapter house.

Chi Omega's annual Hay Hop was held Friday night at Pot-torf hall. Matt Betton's band furnished the music.

A stag party was given Friday night by pledges of Kappa Sigma for the actives. The event was the result of the actives winning the pledge-active football game last week.

"Paint the Town Pink" was the theme of a Van Zile house party Saturday. The hall was converted into a dancing room, a gambling room and a game room.

The Miami Triad, annual dinner-dance of Sigma Chi, Phi Delta Theta, and Beta Theta Pi, will be Saturday in Community house.

Phi Kappa Tau plans a semi-formal house party Friday night at the chapter house for members and their dates.

"Old MacDonald's Farm" will be the theme of a Delta Tau Delta pledge paddle party Friday night at the chapter house.

Alpha Chi Omega and Kappa

Sigma held an hour dance at the Kappa Sig house last night.

1834 club will entertain Kappa Delta with an hour dance Thursday at 7 p.m.

There's More to a Play Than Meets the Eye

By JOAN ALBERS
Of the Collegian Staff

The curtain will rise on the K-State Players production of "My Three Angels" tomorrow and Friday nights at 8:15 in the Auditorium and for the next couple of hours everything will probably run smoothly.

But there is more to putting on a play than meets the eye. The fall of the curtain at play's end is a culmination of several weeks of effort by several persons.

First big task is for Director Earl G. Hoover to pick the play and stage rehearsals. Rehearsals never cease until "The Big Night."

While the cast is busy rehearsing, the lighting crews, stage crews, make-up crew, property managers, and costume managers make their plans for the play.

TERRY QUINN, Sp Jr, reaches high to pound a nail into a setting for "My Three Angels." Loyal Huddleston, EE Soph, twists a screw firmly in place.

KEEPING HER eyes on the lines all the time is Nancy Rasher, TJ Jr, who acts as prompter during rehearsals.

RUSSELL CASE, EE Fr, has the difficult task of having the right lights on at the right time.

REHEARSAL AND more rehearsal is the theme of K-State Players. Practice goes on into the wee hours of the morning. Above is a scene from the play.

BUILDING AND painting sets are essential in production of a play. Terry Quinn and Loyal Huddleston apply the finishing touches to a set.

IM Basketball Play To Resume Tonight

Intramural basketball will be resumed tonight with nine games scheduled for the courts in Ahearn gym. Last night's game were postponed because of the english proficiency exams. The postponed games will be played December 2.

Tonight's action will start at 6:45 with Mom's Boys meeting the OK House on the west court, the K-State veterans organization playing Hui 0 Makules on the center court, and House of Williams and the Globetrotters playing on the east court.

In 7:35 action the Phantoms meet Signa Phi Nothing on the west court, West Stadium plays House of Breck on the center court, and the Highlanders meet the Gammas on the east court.

Rounding out the night's play at 8:25 the Pushovers play Jr. AVMA on the west court, the Jumping Jacks and Rho Alphas tangle on the center court, and the Rebels take on the Hillbillies on the east court.

Frank Myers, intramurals director, announces that play will be suspended after Monday's games for the Thanksgiving vacation. The games will resume on Monday, November 28, and continue through December 2. Division playoffs will start immediately after the regular schedule ends.

Loop Title at Stake In OU, NU Meeting

Kansas City, Mo. (U.P.)—This is the weekend Oklahoma meets the Nebraska Cornhuskers.

The two meet at Lincoln for the Big Seven championship. Oklahoma has already clinched the Orange Bowl berth and will go to Miami January 2 no matter if Nebraska should happen to pull the upset of the year.

Conference play winds up this weekend, and only two intersectional games are left after Saturday. Those will be the next Saturday with Oklahoma and Colorado playing their respective Aggie schools.

Nebraska, coming in with a strong finish just as last year, gave Colorado a football lesson last Saturday, 37-20. That knocked Colorado out of third place and let Kansas State slip in.

Kansas State finished its Big Seven play by beating Missouri, 21-0, and ended with a 3-3 conference record, the same as last year. Colorado could tie K-State for third this weekend with a win over Iowa State. Otherwise, the Wildcats have the berth nailed down for good. The 3-3 record last year was good only for fifth place.

Missouri and Kansas meet at Lawrence in their traditional rivalry and Kansas State is at Oklahoma A&M in the other game this weekend.

If Nebraska and Oklahoma should happen to tie this weekend, they would reign as co-champions under Big Seven rules.

Knorr Expects . . .

Wrestlers To Improve On Last Year's Record

Wildcat wrestlers are hard at work preparing for the 1955-56 season. Coach Fritz Knorr said he expects the Cats to improve on last year's record when they won 4, lost 5, and tied 1.

"We're depending a lot on the strength of upcoming talent to help us achieve this," he said.

Twenty-four varsity wrestlers and 26 freshmen reported for the first workouts last month. "This team is looking very good thus far," Knorr said.

Four seniors returned to form the nucleus of the team. They are Bob Mancuso, a 130-pound, three-year letterman, and Kenny Ellis, heavyweight, Roland Alexander, 157 pounds, and Joe Landholm, 123 pound, all two-year lettermen.

Knorr said Mancuso, Ellis, and Alexander have good chances of placing high in Big Seven and NCAA competition this year.

Mancuso has placed second twice and third once in Big Seven meets. Ellis has won second in the conference meet twice and placed fourth in the NCAA meet last year. Alexander placed second in the Big Seven meet last year and was selected as the outstanding Wildcat wrestler of 1955 by his teammates.

The first meet of the 1955-56 season will be December 10 in an invitational tournament at Cedar Fall, Iowa.

"I'm going to take 25 of the best boys I have to Cedar Falls," Knorr said. "I want to find out who are by best wrestlers."

"The second semester will be the roughest part of the schedule," Knorr said. "We meet Oklahoma and Oklahoma A&M, who are always rough, and Illinois and Minnesota. Illinois is new and I don't know what they have. Minnesota will probably be our toughest home match."

Zickefoose Scores First Touchdown Of College Career

Chuck Zickefoose, 210-pound starting end, scored the first touchdown of his collegiate grid career Saturday on a 38-yard return of an intercepted lateral, by Missouri quarterback Jimmy Hunter.

The Wildcat senior played center prior to this season, but was switched to end in last spring's drills.

Zickefoose had a 40-yard run with a fumble against Oklahoma called back when officials determined the ball had touched the ground. "I guess that was just a rehearsal run," Chuck explains.

Thirteen current Kansas State gridders had not yet been born when K-State last defeated Oklahoma A&M in football. Last Wildcat win in the broken series was a 31-0 victory in 1936.

Cats Assured Of Third Place In Conference

Coach Bus Mertes, with one game left on the schedule, has already attained the one big goal he announced for this season, to improve K-State's Big Seven Conference standing.

The Wildcats completed loop play with their 21-0 win over Missouri to gain a 3-3 record and at least a tie for third place. That is two notches better than the fifth-place ranking of 1954. Only Big Seven team that can challenge the Wildcats for third place is Colorado.

'Player of Week' Award To Entire Football Squad

RON NERY, senior tackle, is a two-year letterman. Ron was named to the Kansas City Star and AP 1954 all-Conference team. He also received honorable mention on AP's all-American.

For the second straight week the entire traveling squad, led by hard charging Ron Nery, has been selected as the Wildcat "Player of the Week," by Coach Bus Mertes.

"This was another example of a team playing together and taking advantage of the breaks as they came," Mertes said.

Nery, senior tackle, led the defensive line in outchugging and outthrusting the Tiger line. Nery was continually breaking through and dropping Jim Hunter, Tiger quarterback, in his tracks or causing him to throw wild.

"The pickoff of a Hunter pitchout was one of the many examples of the heads-up ball the line was playing," Mertes said. "Zickefoose slid along with the play and when he caught the pitchout there was nothing to stop him from scoring."

Jim Furey's timely tackle in the fourth period was another example of the fine defensive play by the line, Mertes said. On a fourth down play, Hunter spun loose and ran to the 1 foot line where he was nailed by Furey, senior center.

The play that Mertes was referring to was when Chuck Zickefoose, senior end, cut through the Tiger line and intercepted a pitchout, then raced 36 yards to score the second Wildcat touchdown, without a hand being laid on him.

With the exception of the Wildcats being set back on their side of the 50 once by a penalty, the entire first half was played in Tiger territory. The Tigers were unable to penetrate past the Wildcat 30 until late in the fourth quarter.

Missouri was held to 80 yards on the ground by the Wildcat line. Hunter ended up with a minus 12 yards net rushing, many times taking a loss because the Wildcat line was on him before he had a chance to pass.

Not to be outdone by the line, the backfield put a stopper on one of the top passing attacks in the nation. Missouri completed 10 of 24 attempted and had two picked off by the alert Wildcat secondary.

Doug Roether, senior fullback, carried 12 times and gained 57 yards, to lead the Cats in yardage. Ralph Pfeifer, sophomore halfback, had the best average for the Wildcat backs, carrying 4 times for a total of 39 yards.

Fisher Replaces McDonald As Loop Rushing Leader

Oklahoma and Nebraska, meeting Saturday at Lincoln to decide the Big Seven conference football championship, will have at their disposal the three top running backs in the conference. Win or lose, Oklahoma goes to the Orange Bowl.

Nebraska's Rex Fisher, who has played one more game than Tommy McDonald of the Sooners, finally dislodged the OU star as the league's number 1 rusher. Conference statistics show Fisher with 119 carries for 592 yards against McDonald's 76 carries for 550 yards. In averages, McDonald has 7.2 yards a try and Fisher 4.9. Willie Greenlaw of Nebraska is in third place with 492 yards on 99 carries.

Ralph Pfeifer, Doug Roether, and Tony Addeo rank 14th, 15th, and 16th in the rushing department.

While McDonald lost his rushing leadership, he offset that by moving to the top on returning punts. He has carried back 10 for 200 yards. He also retained his leadership in scoring by getting a pair of touchdowns against Iowa State for a total of 84 points.

Pfeifer is tied with Clendon Thomas of Oklahoma for the number 4 spot with 36 points.

In the punt return department, Bob Whitehead ranks second to McDonald, Addeo ranks fifth and Kenny Nesmith ranks sixth.

Dave Doane, of Missouri, retained first place in the pass department. He has completed 50 of 103 passes for 741 yards. Whitehead has 11 completions on 39 attempts for the number 12 spot. Dick Corbin is number 14 with 12 completions on 35 tosses for 133 yards.

Ted Rohde, of Kansas, protected his punting lead with one kick Saturday, and his season's total is 846 yards on 20 kicks for a 42.3 average. Dick Allen now ranks number 5 with 419 yards on 11 kicks for a 38.1 average.

The busiest punter, Colorado's Homer Jenkins, was idle but he remained in second place with 32 kicks for 1,304 yards for an average of 40.8.

The Wildcat gridders worked out in the bitter cold of the season's first cold wave yesterday as they began full-scale preparations for the season-ending game with Oklahoma A&M.

Coach Bus Mertes sent the first and second units against each other, defending against Aggie play patterns. The rest of the varsity ran against the freshmen in a 45-minute, full-speed scrimmage.

Jerry Hayes, junior halfback who injured a knee in the Missouri game, was running at full speed in yesterday's drills.

Memorial Chapel Addition To Be Done in February

Religious meetings and musical programs will be some of the uses for the auditorium of the All-Faith Memorial chapel addition, which is to be ready for use next semester.

Completion date for the addition is February 24, R. F. Gingrich, maintenance superintendent, said.

Located on the east side of the Danforth chapel, the addition is made of split-faced stone, such as was used in the Student Union. It is the first building on the campus with redwood on the exterior, Gingrich said.

Separated from the small chapel by a foyer, the main entrance to the auditorium is on the west, with doors entering the foyer from the north and south.

The ceiling of the auditorium is painted a very dark red and arches along the sides are stained a lighter red. Curved plywood panels on the side walls are of natural oak.

Pews and altar furniture are now on order, Gingrich said. The theater-like seats are to be upholstered in red mohair. Seating capacity of the auditorium is 469, he said.

The chancel is at the east end of the auditorium and small service rooms are at the northeast corner.

The auditorium is not attached to the central heating system of the campus but will have its own heating system. The building will also be air conditioned.

Dedication ceremonies are scheduled for April 17, Warren Rempel, YMCA director, said.

An outstanding speaker will be on campus then to give the dedication speech. Eleanor Roosevelt has been asked to speak. Other persons who will be asked in the event that she cannot attend are John Foster Dulles and Cardinal Spellman.

A guidance committee has been set up to work out policies concerning the use of the chapel addition. This committee is under the direction of RCC and the advisement of H. J. Wunderlich, dean of students, Rempel said.

RCC has organized the chapel uses under three general categories. These categories are religious programs, musical programs and forum-type meetings.

The chapel addition is paid for by contributions of alumni. It was originally planned to build a campanile and auditorium, but lack of funds made these impossible.

Professor Theodore Chadwick of the architecture department designed the building.

English Exam Produces Cases of Jitters, Shakes

By DON MARKER

The English proficiency exam last night produced the usual cases of jitters, shakes, and trips to Kite's.

The students who took the tests were visibly shook—both before and after their monumental effort to meet the standards of proficiency.

Topics ranged from "Financing a College Career" to "Military Service" and comments ranged from "I aced it" to "I've had it." Other often heard remarks were "Why did I ever leave the farm?" "That didn't have it!" "This just wasn't my night," and "It's snowing outside!"

One girl answered KU when asked where she had taken written communications I and she was jokingly informed that she had automatically flunked the test.

Students' emotions ran the gamut last night and undoubtedly some of the unluckier ones are looking forward to taking the test again next semester.

Art Reproduction Now on Display In Seaton Hall

An exhibit featuring the various media of art reproduction is on display on the second floor of Seaton Hall.

"It is considered to be one of the finest art exhibits in the country," C. Louis Hafermehl, director of the K-State Federation of Art, said.

Reproductions include etchings, drypoints, aquatints, lithographs, block prints, and serigraphs.

J. Cranston Heintzelman, professor of architecture, said the prints would remain on display until Thanksgiving vacation.

"The artwork should be of interest to students from a technical as well as an artistic standpoint," he said.

India Missed Boat

India Failed To Capitalize On Liberty, Says Muzumdar

By HARRY MACHIN JR.

India failed to take advantage of a golden opportunity to pave the way towards Gandhi's visionary nation when it was given its freedom by Britain, Dr. Haridas T. Muzumdar, noted lecturer on India, said this morning in assembly.

"India failed to abolish or abandon all military equipment and make her way peacefully with the other nations as Gandhi desired," Muzumdar said. "In maintaining a policy to keep the world's smallest army, India has become a 10th-rate copy of the western nations."

Dr. Muzumdar, introduced by Dean Pugsley as the "foremost Indian interpreter of Gandhi in America," drew a comparison between Gandhi's vision of a free India and the India developing under Nehru's leadership.

"Gandhi's India was to be free from bondage and patronage. There would be no room for the doctrine of the 'untouchables.' The poorest would have the right to an effective voice in their government, and all communities would live in harmony. India would not desire to exploit or be exploited by any nation, and would reserve the human right to err," Muzumdar said.

Muzumdar said that although Nehru was the spiritual heir of Mahatma Gandhi, it could not be said that Nehru follows closely the same strong principle of non-violence.

"So far as reconstruction is concerned, Nehru is doing an excellent job in redeeming his people's poverty, ignorance, and superstition.

"But in 1947, when the time was ripe, Nehru and other leaders were timid and did not carry through with Gandhi's plan," Muzumdar said. "It would be foolish now for India to abolish her army, however," he added.

Muzumdar believes that India's foreign policy is moving in the right direction. "Nehru has developed an image of Uncle Sam instead of John Bull. And I know that Uncle Sam has no evil designs on India or anyone. Uncle Sam wants only peace and good will in foreign nations," he said.

"Mahatma Gandhi believed that freedom is meaningless if one does not have the right to make mistakes. India now has that right and must take all responsibility upon themselves. They can no longer blame Great Britain for everything that goes wrong," he said.

4-H, Senior Grants To Help Equip Union

Donations of $4,750, given to the K-State Union by two groups last year, will be used to help furnish the new building, according to Loren V. Kottner, Union director.

Funds on hand are approximately $40,000 short of the amount needed to complete the furnishings of the building. A $4,500 gift from the Collegiate 4-H club will be used to furnish the browsing library and $250 given by the class of 1955 will purchase a display case, Kottner said.

He said that each donation made by a club, organization, housing group, individual or any other source will either be used to furnish a specific room or to buy specific pieces of furniture. Recognition plaques will be placed.

All donations will be individually accounted for, and none will go into a general fund.

Because of the lack of funds, the director said, no pianos, furniture for the arts lounge or television room will be purchased.

"Any equipment that isn't falling apart and can be used in the work areas will be transferred from the temporary union and Thompson hall," Kottner said. The television set and ping pong table, now in the temporary union, will be used in public parts of the new building.

Teachers Kept Hoppin' At KS Nursery School

A paint-splotted smock and the memory of a radiant face and piping voice saying, "I like teachers like you," are the emblems of a successful day to the child guidance students who work at K-State nursery school.

As one of the 59 students enrolled in the course leads the children in playing a game and another supervises the painting, they are getting practical experience in working with pre-school children at one of the first laboratory training schools in the nation for nursery school teachers.

One of the main activities of the children, ranging in age from two years and three months to four years and seven months, this semester was icing sugar cookies at Halloween. Through projects such as this the children learn to cooperate in working and playing together in their common interest groups.

Outdoor and indoor equipment is scaled to child size, which encourages the children to care for themselves.

Three groups of from 12 to 14 children are enrolled at one time, and fourteen or fifteen child guidance students at a time work with the children.

In listing the objectives of the nursery school, Mrs. Louise Langford, director of the school, said, "Its primary purpose is to be a place in which college students can learn to become better acquainted with pre-school children. Equally important is the concern of all connected with it in the safety and well-being of children."

Review To Honor Five Crack Shots

Five Air Force riflemen who shot second in national competition last year will receive awards at an AFROTC review Monday.

Stanley Braman, BPM Sr, Floyd H. Bayer, Chm Soph, Terry Poling, BPM Soph, Paul C. Parsons, IE Soph, and John T. Gangel, VM Fr, shot a score of 2,020 ranking them second in the nation at the Secretary of the Air Force Rifle match last year. Teams from the United States, Hawaii, Alaska, and Puerto Rico competed in the meet, according to Sgt. James B. Hart, instructor in air science.

The K-State team won first in their area which included 30 colleges from over Kansas, Arkansas, Oklahoma, and Texas. They will receive a plaque for this. It will be a circulating plaque to be passed on to the winner each year.

Floyd H. Bayer, Chm Soph, will receive an individual loving cup for having the second highest score in the national contest. The other members of the team will receive individual medals.

Angel Flight girl's honorary drill team will review with the regular air force groups. A military band from Smoky Hill Air Force base will be on hand to supply the marching music.

The review was planned by the student cadets, and will probably be conducted under their supervision, Col. C. H. Wilkins, professor of air science and tactics, said.

The review will be the last drill period for AFROTC cadets this semester, Wilkins said.

New Social Permit Rules In the Offing

New social-permit regulations will go into effect in February when the new Student Union opens, Bob Alexander, program director, told a meeting of social chairmen Tuesday.

Social permits will have to be turned in to Alexander in the activity center in the Union by 5 p.m. Thursday for events scheduled the following week. A weekly instead of a monthly calendar will be published next semester, Alexander said.

Activities planned for the next year may be scheduled and cleared with Alexander next semester. These activities will be entered on a master calendar in the activity center.

A calendar will also be printed next summer listing tentative activity dates for the following school year.

Dean Helen Moore suggested possibilities and opportunities for improving organized house social programs and Dean Herbert Wunderlich explained the mechanics and procedures of K-State's social set up.

Players To Open 'Angels' Tonight

Kansas State Players' first presentation of "My Three Angels" is to be at 8:15 p.m. in the Auditorium.

The play will repeated at the same time on Friday night, Earl Hoover, director, said.

Eight Debaters To Oklahoma For Tourney

Eight K-Staters will compete in the junior and senior divisions of the first annual Central State College Invitational Debate tournament at Edmond, Okla., Friday and Saturday.

Those competing in the senior division are Tom Bowman, ChE Soph; Larry McDonald, ME Soph; Bunny Cowan, Psy Soph; and Anita Grimm, TJ Soph.

Competing in the junior division are Ray North, PrL Soph; Jim Shane, Hst Soph; Dave Nuttle, AH Soph; and Dan Hahn, AR 01.

Schools from the Missouri Valley and throughout the Southwest are entered in the tournament.

The debate, consisting of six rounds, is scheduled to start Friday morning, Charles Goetzinger, debate team coach said. The top eight teams from the Friday and Saturday morning debates will go into an elimination tournament Saturday afternoon, he said. This means that one loss eliminates the team from further competition, Goetzinger said.

Caroline Drummond, instructor of speech, and Gerry Day, VM Sr, will accompany the debaters as critic judges, Goetzinger said. Each school is required to furnish a specified number to judge the debates, he explained.

Union Movie To Be Shown Today, Friday

A famous violinist, a former secretary-general of the United Nations, and the world's champion billiard player will star in a film to be shown today and Friday which tells of the possibilities of a student union, Bob Alexander, Union program director, said.

This film tells the story of the Memorial Union building at the University of Wisconsin. Some activities chosen are the campus dances, craft shop work, Union theater productions, and the outdoor program which includes mountaineering, sailing, and ski jumping.

Alexander said the film will be shown today at 2 p.m. and 3 p.m. in J 15, and 7 p.m. in the Temporary Union, and Friday at 3 p.m. and 4 p.m. in Rec center.

English Proficiency Is Nothing But a Once-a-Semester KS Farce

Another English Proficiency exam has come and gone. We wonder just how long this mess is going to continue. Are graduates really better trained in English composition since the inception of this exam or is it going to be a part of the College scene for all time? If the exam is resulting in better trained graduates then some purpose can be attached to it. If not, the once-a-semester farce should be scrapped.

The adherents of English Proficiency say the purpose of the test is to find out if a college student of a junior standing can write in an intelligent vein. They say if a junior cannot do this then he should not be graduated from College. We wonder why, if the junior cannot write intelligently, he was admitted to K-State in the first place.

But, admitting that entrance requirements can be lax and still be efficient in boosting enrollment, we wonder why, after taking Written Communications I and II, the junior has to take a proficiency test to prove to someone that he passed those courses in his freshman year.

Exponents of the test may say that hindsight is better than none at all and it is better to catch an illiterate student in his junior year so that he may be corrected than to fling him out in the world with a degree minus an inspired pen. These persons point to the gibbering of illiterate engineers, veterinarians, and education graduates—and journalists—who cannot transfer thoughts into the written word. Chances are these graduates should never have been allowed to graduate in their curriculum in the first place, and a portion of them probably should never have been allowed to enroll in college but did because the institution was eager to boost enrollment figures.

Some college administrators pass the buck to the elementary and secondary schools. They say that the quality and methods of teaching English has deteriorated in recent decades and that it is the duty of the College to correct these evils by subjecting freshmen to the rigors of Written Communications and juniors to the chaos of the English Proficiency exam.

These well-meaning souls say that if the college freshman had been taught English practices in grade and high school they would find English in college neither rigorous nor chaotic.

On the other hand, where were those inept pre-college teachers trained? We have to assume that K-State has had some role in the training of teachers. The circle is completed. The cause and effect can be found on the college campus. The best thing that can be said about this rat-race is that college educators know these causes and effects and are taking steps to correct them.

If this is the case—that college educators are working toward this goal—then he must assume that English Proficiency is but a step in the correction of the situation. Then, if this assumption is correct and English Proficiency is ferreting out all the English-language murderers, persons who graduate from K-State after passing English Pro are competent to speak and write the English language.

Therefore, in a few years, this lag—it has to be called a lag, since English Proficiency has made poor writing a temporary thing—will disappear and the need for teaching high school grammar in college and the English Proficiency exam will automatically disappear.

If this is not the case, and the situation cannot be solved in the future by (1) weeding out grammar misfits while still in college thereby (2) improving our standard of graduates, e.g. high school English teachers, and (3) raising English requirements when the "second generation" enrolls in college, then English Proficiency is not accomplishing a thing and should be shown to the nearest junk heap.—Don Kendall.

Folksy Tunes Are Becoming Popular

By Robert Coughlin

New hope casts a glow on yon horizon for those among us who hate hill-billy music (excuse the expression).

Change is rampant in the recording industry. The ever popular gravel voice is not so evident among the new releases. The trend seems to be toward a folksy presentation these days.

Those hillbilly artists who were blessed with good voices have been singled out by their employers to carry this new standard. There will be a hue and cry from the devoted fans of the old style of commercial hillbilly tunes, but the apparent success of the new style may soon leave these diehards far behind.

Genuine presentations of folk music caused the original stir, and have become increasingly popular. Even the dyed-in-the-wool long hairs will admit to the inherent beauty of folk tunes. Ever conscious of the commercial end of the recording business (sell lots of records, the hillbilly recorders turned to folk tunes for inspirations when they needed a new hit).

The pop recorders caught a glimmer of this rapidly rising trend among their lesser associates in the field of entertainment. Almost overnight the record counters were filled with folk music with the benefit of professional choral groups and big-name artists.

Then some solo artists turned up who devoted their entire career to folk music. Some big names in the hillbilly field have turned their coats and hopped on the band wagon that seems to be hitched to a rapidly rising star.

The field of folksy music is growing like jazz did just before the second World War. Jazz artists claimed national acceptance of their works when the first jazz concert was staged in Carnegie Hall. It may not be too long before we see a concert bill pasted on the site of the old red barn that expounds on the abilities of Tennessee Ernie, Harry Belafonte, Burl Ives, and of all people, Arthur Fiedler and his Boston Pops orchestra.

Read the fine print and you will find they are booked for one matinee and one evening performance only. The program will probably be a howling success.

Student Health Is Real Noisy; Walls Look Like Old Papers

Dear Editor,

I agree with the story on Student Health. My stay in Student Health last winter (12 days) was lousy.

It wasn't the people but the building. The only good atmosphere was the nurses and Dr. Grossman. The bed was comfortable and the care was great but the walls—they were the color of old newspapers and I spent my time counting the holes and cracks in the wall.

The smells and noise was enough to make anyone who wasn't already sick, sick.

I'm really in favor of getting a new student hospital and I think all the students should get behind it.

Sincerely yours,

Kidnaping Charge Filed Against Arthur Brown; John Graham Is Calm Before Arraignment

Kansas City, (U.P.)—State and federal officials moved swiftly today to bring to trial the case of Arthur Ross Brown, whose confessed murder of a Kansas City housewife could result in a death penalty.

A federal charge of kidnaping was filed in U.S. district court late yesterday against the sullen ex-convict, who has admitted the August 4 kidnap-slaying of Mrs. Wilma Allen.

Brown was arraigned before Charles H. Thompson, U.S. commissioner, nine hours after his return here from San Francisco. Brown waived preliminary hearing and was ordered held without bond pending the expected recall of a federal grand jury next week.

Earlier, the 29-year-old slayer led police to a snow-coated pasture area in Johnson county, Kan., where he pointed out discarded jewelry taken from Mrs. Allen's body.

Denver—John Gilbert Graham appeared outwardly calm and confident today a few hours before his scheduled arraignment before Judge Edward J. Keating on charges of murdering his mother, Mrs. Daisy E. King, 54.

There was no immediate indication whether Graham would plead innocent or ask for more time to consult his lawyers when he goes into court for the first time in connection with the sabotage of an airliner in which his mother and 43 others were blasted to their deaths November 1.

Since his imprisonment in the Denver county jail Graham has given no indication whether he will refute the confession he gave to the FBI shortly after his arrest Monday.

The FBI said he admitted planting a home-made bomb in his mother's luggage and sending her to her death on the airliner in order to collect $37,500 in trip insurance and to share in her estimated $150,000 estate.

District Attorney Bert Keating said he already had 16 witnesses lined up to testify for the prosecution of the 23-year-old explosives expert. He planned to press for trial early in January and demand death in the gas chamber for Graham.

Rebels Defeat Hillbillys In IM Basketball Play

The Hillbillys were beaten by the Rebels last night as independent teams played a full schedule of 9 games in intramural basketball.

In an 8:25 game, the Rebels edged the top-seeded Hillbillys 27-25. Ron Radford was high scorer for the Rebels with 9 points while Bob Garcia dropped in 10 for the Hillbillys.

The close scores prevailed in the 8:25 section as the other two games saw Jr. AVMA edge the Pushovers 27-26, and the Rho Alphas beat the Jumpin' Jacks 24-22.

The Phantoms came from behind at halftime to beat Sigma Phi Nothing 22-19 in a 7:35 game. The Gammas racked up high score for the evening to down the Highlanders 32-19, with Don Peterson scoring 14 points for the winners, and West Stadium rolled over House of Breck 30-17 behind Ralph Pfeifer's 12 points.

An opening game at 6:25 saw the Globetrotters jump to a 15-6 halftime lead over House of Williams and go on to win 23-18. Herb Hilgers' 12 points led the Hui-O-Makules to a 24-17 win over the Vets, and Mom's Boys downed OK House 22-18 in other opening games.

Tonight's schedule at 6:45 pits the Kansas City Athletics against the High Plains Leaguers on the west court, the Rum Dums against the Pawnee Riders on the center court, and Sigma Chi against Farm House on the east court.

At 7:35, Sigma Phi Epsilon goes against Sigma Alpha Epsilon on the west court, Beta Sigma Psi Psi against Kappa Sigma on the center court, and Alpha Gamma Rho against Delta Tau Delta on the east court.

8:25 games match Acacia and 1834 Club on the west court, Sigma Nu and Alpha Tau Omega on center court, and Delta Sigma Phi and Lambda Chi Alpha on the east court.

Legitimate Wrestling Offered by Colleges

By HARRY MACHIN, JR.

Little thought is given to intercollegiate wrestling by the dyed-in-the-wool "pro" fan who never misses a televised bout. He either forgets, or does not realize, that legitimate wrestling exists only in the colleges.

The fan who assumes that professional wrestling is an extension of amateur activity is sadly mistaken. Nothing could be further from the truth.

The truth, simply stated, is this. Collegiate wrestling is a genuine athletic contest. Professional wrestling is a gaudy fake, an entertainment feature—no more.

Professional wrestlers often display great physical skill and agility. The point is that TV wrestling should be recognized for what it is, and more attention thrown upon legitimate wrestling, as it exists today in our colleges.

The goings-on among the goliaths of the TV world are ever the source of amazement to college matmen and their loyal fans. A few illustrations might help to show the differences between legitimate and theatrical wrestling.

Collegiate matches, which are set up into three 3-minute periods, can be won on points, but professional matches are decided only by falls. Points are awarded for takedown, escapes, near falls, and reversals of advantage.

The professional lard tubs romp their way through an hour of acrobatics while the college athlete often emerges from a nine-minute match nearly exhausted.

The reason is simple. The amateur has pitted his entire strength against an opponent who did likewise. The pro merely engaged in a 60-minute tumbling exhibition which required great skill but did not drain his energy.

If a middle-aged goliath finds himself hard pressed to manage 60 minutes of tumbling, he resorts to the so-called "torture" holds. While twisting some portion of his opponent's anatomy, he and his opponent can set out a few minutes on the canvas and regain their wind.

Professional wrestling abounds with such trickery in order to keep the public fooled. Commonest among the many frauds perpetrated in the ring are the "sleeper" holds, the judo "cuts," the airplane spin, eye gouging, and drop-kick.

Ever consider that the man delivering the airplane spin turns around as many times as the receiver and therefore gets just as dizzy? As for the drop-kick—even a first-grader could dodge one. A man with normal reflexes can dodge a fist if he sees it coming. Know any wrestlers who can drop-kick faster than a fighter throws a punch?

Professional wrestling is not recognized as a legitimate sport by anyone except the fans themselves. There are, therefore, no authentic national or world champions.

This winter, get away from that TV set and watch your college matmen in action. You may discover something new in the sports field. You may discover wrestling.

Defensive, Offensive Plays Stressed in Grid Practice

CAT GRIDDERS watch films of the KU, Oklahoma A&M game after a one-hour workout in the cold yesterday.

The gridders worked out for an hour last night despite the cold weather and spent the time working on both defensive and offensive plays.

Following the practice session they moved inside for a chalktalk and saw films of the KU, Oklahoma A&M game.

Mertes said he was not concerned about any one phase of the game. "It's the danger of a letdown that has us worried."

"We have scored 67 points in our last two games and have not been scored on. We didn't do that by being caught short, but Oklahoma A&M could catch us 'not looking' and beat us before we wake up," Mertes said.

With only one day of practice remaining, ballhandling in cold weather was stressed. "We might get something like this at Stillwater," he said.

Injuries Hamper Nesmith, Regains Starting Position

KENNY NESMITH, Junior halfback, has regained a starting berth after suffering an injury in the opening game of the season. He ranks fourth in punt returns with a 13.7 average.

Kenny Nesmith, 5-10, 180-pound junior halfback, has regained the starting berth at that position after being hampered by injuries most of the season.

Kenny suffered a bruised hip in the first game of the season against Wyoming which caused him to see only limited action through the next 6 games. By the time the KU game was to be played he was free of injuries and has started the last two games.

Kenny graduated from Osborne high school in 1953 where he lettered two years in football, track and basketball. He was named to the all-state football team in 1952, a year in which Osborne went undefeated and was champions in the Sunflower League.

Kenny enrolled at K-State in the fall of 1953 and played on the freshman football team. Last year he saw considerable action on the varsity team, averaging 6.4 yards per carry and catching 5 passes for a net 58 yards.

He also lettered in track last year, in the broad jump event. He is undecided about going out this year.

"My football career started early," he said. "My father started coaching me right after I started walking. He showed me how to handle the ball and had me side stepping fence posts in our backyard."

Kenny's father, the late William C. Nesmith, was a high school and junior high football coach for 17 years.

Kenny has a sister, Lou Ann, who is a freshman at K-State. She is majoring in dietetics. Kenny is enrolled in accounting.

He believes K-State football has a bright future. "We will be losing a lot of good boys this year but Coach Mertes will put together what we have left and have a good team."

"Oklahoma A&M has won one game this season but they are going to be tough. They have the potential of knocking someone off and they'll be gunning for us," said Kenny, commenting on Saturday's game.

Emphasis Placed On Defensive Play In Cage Practice

The Wildcat basketball team, looking toward its opening game with Texas Tech December 6, continues to work on individual drills with the emphasis placed on defense.

The Cats will switch to more team drills when they move onto the field house floor next week.

"We have been able to concentrate on individual play while we have been working in the gym because of the number of baskets," Winter said. "When we get into the field house we'll start running five-on-five team drills."

"We feel that we got our offense pretty well set in spring practice, so we're spending most of our time perfecting our defense now," Winter said.

The move to the field house will also mean a cut in the squad, Winter said. "We have 21 on the roster now, including sophomores Don Matuszak, sidelined with a bad knee, and Bob Jedwabny, out with glandular fever. We plan to cut the squad down to 16 or 17 next week to give us a more workable number," he said.

Coach Loses Hat Again

Kansas State scored its second Big Seven upset win in a row Saturday and Wildcat line coach Pat Naughton lost his second hat. It has become a custom for K-State players to demolish a coach's hat after a win. Pat has fallen victim twice.

The 1931-32 K-State basketball team held Kansas to 11 points for the best defensive performance against conference foes. The Wildcats won 15-11. The 1949-50 team held Texas Christian to 17 points for the best defensive record against non-conference teams.

The 1952-53 Wildcat basketball team scored 42 field goals against Nebraska to establish a school record against conference opponents. The two teams scored 188 points as K-State won 108-80.

HOW TO BE A BMOC

Any man who wishes to be a BMOC—you show me one who doesn't and I'll show you a misspent youth—will do well to follow the few simple rules listed below.

The first requisite of a BMOC is, of course, a letter in athletics. This presents no great problem to the big, the strong, and the hulking. But what do you do if you are a puny little chap with a concave chest and muscles like tallow?

I'll tell you what you do: You go to the nearest letter store, buy a letter, sew it on your sweater, and wear it.

What does a BMOC smoke?

'BG' does not stand for 'Bowling Green.' It stands for 'Badly Gangrenous.'

So, you see, getting the letter-sweater is no large task. But that is only a part of BMOC-hood. Another, and equally important, part is to join the right fraternity. Let me emphasize—the right fraternity. Joining the wrong fraternity is worse than joining no fraternity at all.

How can you be sure that the fraternity you join is the right one? Very simply. Just ask the rushing chairman. After all, why should he lie to you?

Once the BMOC is established in the right fraternity, the next step is to get the right girl. A BMOC's girl must be beautiful, shapely, and go well with all his suits.

Girls answering this description are admittedly not easy to find. If you should discover that all the suitable girls on your campus are already attached, do not despair. There are several things you can do.

You can, for example, cut your throat.

Or you can pick one of the less attractive ladies on campus, veil her, dress her in houri pants, and tell everybody she is an exchange student from Istanbul. (A fellow I knew in school—Hardtack Sigafos by name—did just that. After several semesters he discovered to his surprise that he loved the girl. Today they are happily married and run one of the biggest Turkish baths in Ida Grove, Iowa.)

We arrive now at the question: What does a BMOC smoke? And the answer is—new Philip Morris, of corris!

Anybody—big man on campus or little man, big woman or little woman—anybody who is able to discern between harsh and gentle chooses new Philip Morris. Gentle is the word for Philip Morris. (Actually, of course, it isn't. Cigarette is the word for Philip Morris.) But gentle describes admirably the felicitous blending, the smooth, mild, pleasurable flavor, the nobly born and delicately nurtured tobaccos, that Philip Morris—and only Philip Morris—brings you.

The makers of Philip Morris, who bring you this column every week during the school year, cordially invite you to try today's new gentle Philip Morris in the bright new red, white and gold package, regular or smart king size.

PHILIP MORRIS, of corris!

Frosh-Principal Confab On Campus December 8

Kansas high schools having four or more freshman students enrolled at K-State this fall, have been invited to attend the fourth annual Principal-Freshman conference on transition from high school to college December 8.

"The purpose of this conference is to enable high school personnel to visit with former students and with College faculty to determine areas in which new college students are experiencing difficulty. The ultimate aim is to make the transition easier," E. M. Gerritz, director of admission and registrar, said.

The morning meeting of the students will provide discussion material for the afternoon session in which the high school and college staff members will participate. In the afternoon meetings the teachers will try to find answers to the problems in transition and then proceed to remedy the faults, Gerritz said.

Staters May Ask Foreign Pupils Home for Vacation

Students wishing to invite foreign students home for the Thanksgiving or Christmas holidays may do so until the day before each holiday, according to Charles Jacot, assistant dean of students.

Jacot is in charge of referring the names of foreign students wanting the experience of an American Thanksgiving or Christmas to those desiring students to come home with them.

When applying for a foreign student visitor, preference of homeland, curriculum and so on may be expressed, he said.

Visits for foreign students may be scheduled for either the entire holiday season or just the holiday itself, according to Jacot.

Jacot expressed his belief that this is actually a goodwill exchange between nations and should be a valuable experience to all concerned.

Several holiday dinners for foreign students who are unable to leave the campus are being scheduled, according to Jacot.

Lots of Practice

Jerry Weaver Aspires To Be Concert Pianist

By BEV RINGEY

One of the busiest students at K-State is Jerry Weaver, MAI Sr., who hopes to become a concert pianist.

Jerry lightly related his day's work as six hours of piano practicing, giving piano lessons to a class of 26 pupils, and carrying a college load of 20 hours.

Charles Stratton, music professor under whom Jerry has studied for 7 years, has this to say about him:

"Music is his whole existence. He is extremely industrious and works hard at it. His very good ear and sensitivity in music, combine with his capacity for hard work, will give him a good chance of succeeding at what he is undertaking."

And this undertaking, according to Jerry, is to train himself for the concert stage as well as to develop his faculties for teaching.

His music already has made him a 4-year winner of a Manhattan Music Club scholarship.

Jerry began piano practice at the age of 6. Due to an accident he suffered while swimming, he was on crutches for quite a while. It was then that he turned to piano practice as a time filler.

"Before that I practiced only for 30 minutes or so at a time, on my sisters' lessons. But I guess, after I started measuring my practice time in hours, I just gradually increased the time until until it has reached the point where it is now," Jerry said.

"During the summer and on holidays, I practice 8 hours a day and can remember practicing as much at 11 or 12 hours on occasions," he said.

Prof. Luther Leavengood, head of the music department, said "The thing that impressed me most about Jerry is his dedication to his chosen field, music, and his willingness to sacrifice pleasure for practice and application."

Jerry plans to study next summer in Duluth, Minn., under Frank Mannheimer, noted English pianist. He has studied under Mannheimer the past two summers, and during the complete fall semester last year. He plans to study in New York for a few years, and then will study in Austria.

Jerry has given several recitals, including one with Ross Miller, MEI Sr, flutist, and John Kugler, VM So, violinist. He also appeared with the Manhattan Civic band, playing the first movement of the Greig "Piano Concerto in A Minor," and has played for several radio broadcasts over KSAC. His next recitals will be January 16 and May 17.

Even with his full schedule, Jerry finds time for hobbies. He likes to swim, ice skate, and walk. He enjoys cooking, and is interested in preparing what he terms "exotic and unusual dishes," specializing in pastries, desserts, and meats.

Bill Himes Named New SC Member

Bill Himes . . . in Student Health

The Engineering council yesterday elected Bill Himes, CE Sr, to fill a vacancy on the Student Council. Himes replaces Mackie Murphy, CE Sr, who recently resigned.

Himes is vice-president of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers. He is also a member of Sigma Tau, honorary engineering fraternity, and Phi Lambda Upsilon, honorary chemistry fraternity. Himes has a 2.6 grade average.

He attended Arkansas City Junior college before coming to K-State.

Applications for the vacancy were also received from Larry Corbet, ME Soph; Winston Barr, ME Soph; and Gene B. Martin, ME Sr.

Himes is now in student health recuperating from an attack of bronchitis.

NUMBER 46

Baughman Is Chairman Of Political Convention

Melvin Baughman, Hst Sr, was elected national chairman of the K-State Mock Political convention at a meeting last night.

Other officers chosen were Denni Joy, EEed Jr, national secretary; Warren Keegan, ME Soph, national treasurer; and Roe Borsdorf, Ag Jr, national public relations officer.

The Mock Political convention organization was formed this year for the purpose of acquainting the students with the major issues facing the country, and to sensitize students to their responsibilities as citizens in a democracy, according to information released by the executive council.

The executive committee members who chose the officers are student and faculty representatives of organizations and clubs on the campus.

Representatives of student organizations include Marilyn McCready, Eng Soph, student council; Ruth Pickett, HT Soph, Panhellenic; Tom Bowman, ChE Soph, Interfraternity council; Keith Landis, EE Soph, IOHC; Melvin Baughman, Political Science Club.

James Hockensmith, BA Sr, Young Democratic Club; John McComb, PrV Fr, Young Republican Club; Daniel Farrell, PrL Jr, ISA; Rannells King, CE Jr, K-State eterans Organization; Denni Joy, Forensic Union; Dieter Meyer, Soc Fr, Cosmopolitan Club; Mark Elliott, PrV Soph, Pre-Law;

Lynn Perkins, Ag Soph, 4-H; and Cliff Gordon, PrL Sr, Pre-Law.

Faculty representatives include Charles Jacot, assistant dean of students; Louis Douglas, Professor of Government; Charles Goetzinger, Professor of Speech.

Sixteen hundred students are expected to act as delegates and alternates at the planned convention. Tentative date for the proposed two-day affair is April 16 and 17 of this year.

It will be modeled after the national conventions held by the national Republican party, and will consist of election of party officers, keynote addresses, elections of permanent

Four to College Press Convention

Four K-Staters and Prof. C. J. Medlin, manager of student publications, left for Detroit yesterday to attend the Associated Collegiate Press annual convention, Nov. 17-19.

Sam Logan, Royal Purple editor, Peggy Howard, Royal Purple business manager, Darrel Miller, Collegian managing editor, and Janet Meyer, Collegian business manager, are making the trip from K-State.

January Grads May Order Gowns

Seniors graduating in January may place their orders for caps and gowns at the Campus Book store. Orders will be accepted until December 22.

Seniors will be fitted at the store, Ray Pollom, store manager said.

Air ROTC To March In Review

Almost 1,000 K-State air force ROTC cadets are to parade Monday at 4:30 p.m. in Memorial stadium in the annual fall ROTC review, Cadet Colonel Donald R. Hill, has announced.

The wing, which held a full-dress practice review yesterday afternoon, is to form on the ROTC drill field west of Jardine hall, the military science building, at 4 p.m. and march to the stadium for the 4:30 review.

The 557th Air Force band from Smoky Hill Air Force base, Salina, is to furnish the music for the affair.

Two special attractions in the parade will be the 36-member Pershing Rifles exhibition drill team, which is to give a special performance, and the 52-member Angels Flight, made up of K-State Coeds. This air force ROTC auxiliary marching group is making its first appearance of the year at the review.

Honorary cadet colonel at the parade will be Jeanie Cooper, queen of the Military ball last year. Commanding the Angels Flight is to be Rosemary Derks, ML Soph.

Five air force ROTC riflemen will receive awards at the review. The five placed second in the national ROTC rifle competition last year. Team members are Stanley Braman, Terry Poling, Paul Parsons, Floyd Bayer, and John Gangel.

Bayer is to receive a loving cup award for having the second highest individual score in the contest. The other team members are to receive medals.

Student Health

Three girls and six boys are patients in the Student Health hospital today. The girls are Barbara De Lange, Emily Booth, and Jo Anne Francisco.

The boys are Billy Himes, Virgil Norton, Charles Wingert, Warren Godfrey, Merle Starr, and Keith Swenson.

student chairmen, debates, and balloting on various candidates brought up for elections.

The college will pay for the keynote speaker or speakers. The Student Council has already donated eight hundred dollars toward the development of the convention, which leaves another eight hundred dollars to be obtained for the approximate $1,600 expense of running the convention for the two days.

Details on organization of the convention are to be handled by the History, Government and Philosophy department and the Political Science Club, on campus. The meeting is "entirely a tentative plan which by necessity may have to be changed in part by the Mock Convention executive committee," the committee said.

Poultry Judges To Chicago Meet

Poultry judges named to compete in the International Judging contest in Chicago, November 29 and 30, are Nelson Galle, AEd Jr; Dale Tindell, PH Sr; Bill Brethour, AEd soph; and David Mugler, AEd soph.

Team coach Ray Morrison held several judging sessions this week to prepare for the contest and indicated that the team probably will hold practice sessions at various poultry farms on the way to Chicago.

Players Prove

Murder Can Be Hilarious

By MALCOLM COLDWELL

Three lovable convicts and their murderous antics delighted more than 500 people in the auditorium last night as the Kansas State Players presented "My Three Angels."

The play revolves around the capers of the three crooks who are serving time in a penal colony in French Guiana.

"Angels" opens on Christmas Eve with the three convicts working on the roof of a general store situated just outside the colony. The Ducotels who operate the store are discussing their financial problems and also the personal problem they are having with their love-sick daughter.

The convicts overhear the discussion and being imbued with the Christmas spirit decide to give the troubled family some help.

The laughs flow freely as the "Angels" go to work. They happily plan, work, and murder through the better part of two hours.

The play's dialogue is sharp and in a few places pleasantly risqué. The cast as a whole is convincing in their portrayals. Charley Peak, playing Jules, one of the convicts, gives a fine performance as a slightly wacky wife-strangler. Jan Louderman is excellent as the love stricken daughter of the Ducotels.

Outstanding performances were given by Melba Tetidrick, who plays Mrs. Ducotel and Peter Winsatt, who plays Henri Trochard, a crotchety oldster who makes life difficult for the Ducotels.

HATEFUL HENRI, played by Peter Wimsatt, enters the room not too early, but too quietly in the K-State Players' production of "My Three Angels," last night. The objects of Henri's wrath are James MacFarlane and Jan Lowderman in the roles of Paul Trouchard and Marie Louise Ducotel. The last performance of "My Three Angels" is tonight at 8:15 in the College Auditorium.

Kansas State Shafted Men! Arise! Forget That 'Dear John' Letter

By Ann Weathers

Hail to K-State's shafted men!! Arise!! Unite! You too can seek revenge against female matchbreakers. A male society has been organized at Iowa State entitled "The Noble Order of the Royal Shaft."

The society was started because members of two dorms were receiving an unusual amount of "Dear John" letters. They met, drew up a constitution, and unanimously voted to accept Captain Peter Townsend as an honorary member.

The declaration states in part, "When in the course of human events the agreement between man and woman, known in various circles as going steady, is dissolved for no apparent reason by the female involved, it is altogether in order with tradition that the male involved should seek sympathy with other males who have met with the same misfortune.

"It is not the purpose of such an association to exhibit maliciousness toward the opposite sex, but it is meant to show that we as males, through cooperation with each other, can overcome the grief which the female has, without concern for others but herself, so viciously thrust upon us."

The Colorado Daily is getting worried that dogs will soon outnumber students at the university. Seems that their Greeks are no longer satisfied with accumulating trophies and honors. They are now vying for "doggy honors"—the largest and ugliest dog available.

The Daily feels the university stands in peril of having dogs become the main attraction at football games, and the Greeks of being eaten out of house and home since each dog is beginning to "eat enough in a week to feed half of Hannibal's army."

'Course, if the situation gets bad enough, they can always do what some students at Mississippi State do to politicians. Seems that two boys were getting tired of visits from would-be politicians just prior to school elections. They posted a large sign on the door of their room conveying the general impression that vote-seekers would not be welcome. The sign said, "We shoot every third politician, and the second just left."

All K-Staters Shouldn't Receive Optional Attendance Privilege

By LARRY MCGHEE

Do you think attendance of classes should be made optional for students at K-State?

Seventy per cent of the students who were asked this question said no. The majority felt the grades of the whole college would drop if attendance of classes was left up to the individual. Those in favor of it expressed the opinion that if a person was old enough to go to college, he was old enough to decide whether he should attend his classes.

MEREDITH BRINK, MGS SOPH, "Kids would start taking advantage of the situation, and the grade level would fall."

JERRY KERBS, ZOO JR, "I think the present system works out all right. If it were changed, it would be bad for those with low grades."

DON MARKER, TJ JR, "Yes, it would enable a student to budget his time more. But it has its drawbacks in that it would benefit those more who went to class."

DELMAR RIEGER, AED SOPH, "No, guys like me would get too lazy to go to class, and our grades would drop."

DON LEWIS, HST SR, "I think those students that needed to attend class would discover this soon after school started. Some of the best educational experience may be found by research in the library and counseling with your instructors."

BARBARA KETHCART, EED FR, "Students should think it a privilege to go to class, not a privilege to cut them."

BOB QUANTZ, AH JR, "Some people can understand their studies without going to class and others can not. After the first semester they can tell if they should go or not."

BOB GIES, MT JR, "Tradition says we give optional attendance to those with high grades. If we adopt a new policy of optional attendance, grades will fall."

DON SEIBEL, PRV SOPH, "I transferred from a college that had the optional system. They gave the student credit for wanting to go to school, and it worked out well."

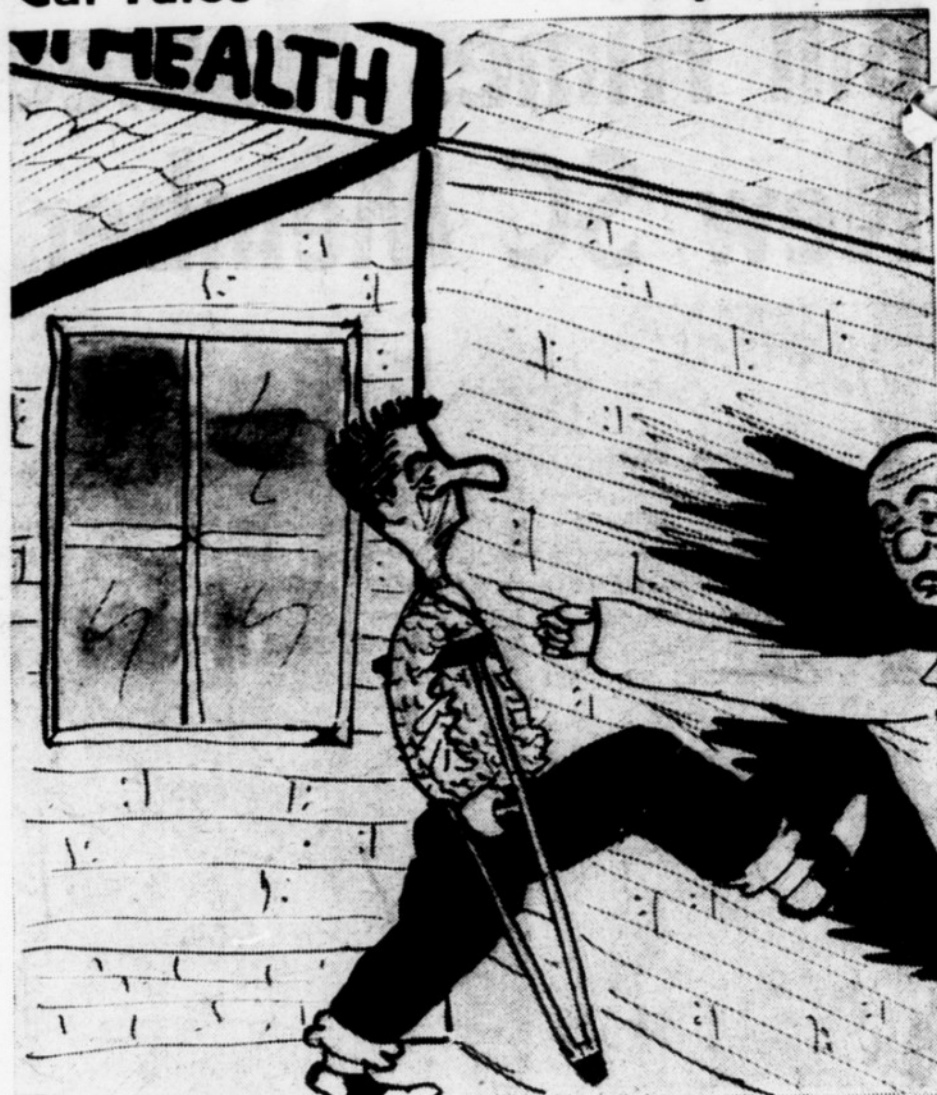

BUD FRYE, GEO. SOPH, "I think the setup like it is now is allright. If we changed, it might have adverse results."

KATHY BARTON, CHW JR, "If anyone is old enough to come to college, they are old enough to determine whether their attendance is essential."

CHARLES MICHAELS, AG SOPH, "Definitely not. It would lower the grades of the whole school."

'Deep Heart' Has Top Dancing; 'Desperate Hours' Is Thriller

At the Coed, through Saturday, "Deep in My Heart,"—the story of composer Sigmund Romberg presented against a backdrop of musical entertainment from 11 of his Broadway shows.

The picture traces Romberg (played by Jose Ferrer) from his early days as a writer of ragtime melodies to his professional peak in light opera.

The viewer may well wonder whether the plot is chopping up the entertainment or vice versa. The story's time element is badly disjointed and without Ferrer's ever-greying hair it would be totally lacking. But there's always the song and dance, and despite the tiring length of 124 minutes, it's good entertainment.—HLM

"The Desperate Hours," flicking at the Campus for the rest of this week and part of next, is an old-fashioned thriller that adds laurels to the rugged crown of tough-guy Bogart.

Three escaped cons invade a man's home and turn the condensed presentation of 36 hours into a nightmare for the whole family. The father is scared stiff, but musters enough courage to act like a rational human being through most of the action. Get a bucket of phenobarb and see this one.—R.C.

At Least 27 Are Killed in Plane Crash at Seattle

Seattle, (U.P.)—A non-scheduled airplane carrying 74 persons crashed in a light snow storm soon after taking off from the ice-covered Boeing field runway at Seattle, Wash., early today. Authorities said at least 27 persons were killed.

The plane was bound for points east, with the first stop scheduled for Billings, Mont., for refuelling and final destination was listed as Newark, N.J.

Graham Denies Planting Bomb

Denver—John Gilbert Graham denied in county jail yesterday that he time-bombed a United Air Lines DC6B and hinted that his mother—one of the 44 victims of the crash—might have set off the explosive herself in a suicide.

When asked if he put a "present or a bundle of dynamite" in his mother's luggage, Graham replied:

"I didn't put anything in her luggage. I only bought some straps to put around the luggage. . . . the hinges on the suitcase were breaking. I don't want to discuss the present."

Wildcats Seek Fifth Win In Oklahoma A&M Game

K-State will be shooting for an even break in the season's play when they meet Oklahoma A&M on Stillwater's Lewis Field. The Cats have won 4 and lost 5 after dropping 4 of their last 5 games.

The Aggies will be trying for their second win, owning a 14-0 win over Tulsa for their only win to date. Last week the Aggies lost to KU 12-7, typical of the A&M luck this season. Although they have lost 7 games their worst defeat was a 0-21 loss to Arkansas.

The series between the two teams dates back to 1908, although only 11 games have been played in it. K-State has won 6 games and A&M 5. The Wildcats last win came in 1936 when they won 31-0. The Aggies won 41-0 in 1950, the last meeting of the two.

Saturday's tilt might well feature the meeting of the Midwest's two top fullbacks. Wildcat Doug Roether has won plaudits for his blocking, tackling and running and Aggie Earl Lunsford is continuing to show the running ability that made him the top rusher in the Missouri Valley conference the past two seasons.

K-State scout Herb Cormack rated Lunsford as "probably the best fullback we have faced this season."

Ten Wildcat seniors will be playing their final collegiate football game tomorrow. They are tackles Ed Dunn, Ron Nery, and Frank Rodman; center Jim Furey; guard Burt Schmidt; fullback Doug Roether; ends Chuck Zickefoose and Jim Rusher; and quarterbacks Bob Whitehead and Bob Willibey.

Ten Aggies will be appearing in their last home appearance. The Aggies are hopeful that this final turn will be their best, since a win would even their season series with Big Seven teams with Oklahoma left to play.

Coach Bus Mertes plans no change in the Wildcat starting lineup from that which answered the whistle in the Cats last two outings. One Cat, Jerry Hayes, was injured in the win over Missouri, but the junior speedster will be ready to go against A&M.

Aggie Coach Cliff Speegle will start the same unit that has started most of the games this fall. The lineup includes four seniors, four juniors, and three sophomores.

The Aggie starters will be ends Choppy Spencer and Bob Curtis; tackles Dwaine Underwood and Jack Hutchinson; guards Wayne Coble and Buddy Ryan; center Vern Womak; quarterback Tom Pontius; halfbacks John Jacob and Forrest Campbell; and fullback Earl Lunsford.

The Wildcat starters will be Jim Rusher and Chuck Zickefoose; tackles Ron Nery and Frank Rodman; guards Ellis Rainsberger and Rudy Bletscher; center Jim Furey; quarterback Bob Whitehead; halfbacks Kenny Nesmith and Tony Addeo; and fullback Doug Roether.

The Cats left by plane this morning for Ponca City, where they will spend the night. They will travel to Stillwater by bus in the morning then return to Manhattan by plane following the game. They are scheduled to arrive at Marshall Field at 6:25 tomorrow night.

Loop Champion To Be Decided In NU, OU Tilt

The Huskers of Nebraska meet Oklahoma tomorrow in a game to decide the Big Seven champion. Nebraska has won all five of its conference games this season but are given little chance of defeating Oklahoma.

The Sooners will be seeking their ninth conference championship in a row. The string started in 1947 when they tied with KU for the top spot, and since then they have had the title to themselves.

Under Big Seven rulings, the same team cannot represent the conference two years in succession in the Orange Bowl. Nebraska was the representative last New Year's Day as the Sooners had played in the 1954 game.

In other games, Missouri and KU meet for the 64th time. Each team has won 28 games while 7 have ended in ties. Each team will be fighting to win this game with the loser assured of finishing in the conference cellar.

Iowa State journeys to Boulder to meet Colorado. With a win for Iowa State they could finish no lower than a tie for fourth place. A win for Colorado would give them a third place tie with Kansas State.

Varsity, Frosh Cage Meeting Set for Dec. 2

The Wildcat varsity basketball team will meet the freshmen in the annual frosh-varsity game December 2 in Ahearn field house. Game time will be 7:30 p.m.

The game will enable the varsity to get the feel of the field house floor under actual game conditions in preparation for the season's opener with Texas Tech December 6.

Frank Mosier, Wildcat ticket manager, announces that tickets will be available the night of the game. Activity tickets will not be honored for this game, he said.

Carrington Performs At Fullback, Halfback

By DON MARKER

Bill Carrington, 5-11, 210-pound junior from Kansas City, Mo., combines speed and power to add depth to the Wildcat backfield corps.

"Bill has helped us at a number of positions this year. He's played both right half and fullback and was even willing to play center if he was needed," said coach Bus Mertes.

Although Carrington carries considerable weight for a halfback, he's a fast starter. Quarterback Bob Whitehead says of Carrington, "He is hard to hit with a handoff. He comes out of that right half spot like a jet."

Carrington's thoughts are now centered on the Oklahoma A&M encounter. "I think if we play ball like we've been playing the last two games, we won't have too much trouble. We got off to a slow start this year, but we're finishing up in good shape," said Carrington.

K-State GI's Take Home Over $167,000 a Month

More than $167,000 a month is paid by the government to the 1,316 veterans enrolled at K-State under the G. I. Bill.

Wendell Kerr, veteran's service officer, said that there are about 650 veterans who are married and have one or two dependents. Veterans with one dependent receive $135 a month and those with two dependents get $160 a month. Single veterans carrying 14 or more hours receive $110 each month, said Kerr.

The majority of veterans—1,253—are attending school under Public Law 550, the Korean G. I. Bill. Of that number, three are women. Thirty-two men and one woman are going to college on the World War II bill and thirty disabled veterans are using Public Laws 16 and 894 to get their college education.

KMAN To Carry Saturday's Game

Four Kansas radio stations have contracted with the K-State sports network to broadcast the K-State Oklahoma A&M football game tomorrow afternoon at Lewis field in Stillwater.

Tickets are sold out for the Cosmopolitan club's annual Feast of Nations which is tonight in the First Methodist church's basement.

Dishes from six different countries will make up the menu. They are from Iraq, China, Brazil, Hawaii, India, and the United States.

The entertainment will consist of a Colombian exchange student from Shawnee Mission, a trio from McPherson college, and five K-Staters.

Blanca Uribe, the Colombian student, will play the piano. She has played piano with the Kansas City Philharmonic orchestra.

The McPherson college ladies' trio will present several numbers. The trio consists of Alma Goodfellow, Jo Eva Jones, and Marlene Jamison, accompanied by Berdine Jamison.

A Scottish dance by Doreen Low, FdN Gr, a Thailand folk dance and song by Malali Milindhaboom, HE Gr, and a Hawaiian uke solo by Don Matsuo, BPM Soph, will complete the program.

10,000 Feed Technology Booklets Now On Sale

Ten thousand copies of a new booklet on feed technology have been printed and are now on sale, J. A. Ehellenberger, department head, said today.

"These booklets will be sold for five cents each, and will be distributed to many of the high schools in the United States, Shellenberger said.

The new booklet is designed to aid high school students in undertaking the feed technology course and to interest them in K-State, Shellenberger said.

Staff members at K-State who were instrumental in the booklet's development were Shellenberger, Lowell Brandner, Agricultural Editor, Dean Arthur D. Weber, Max Milbourn, Director of Public Service, and President McCain.

KS Coeds Don't Reflect Individuality, Youth, Vitality in Their Dress-Craigie

By ROYANNE McMULLEN

Individuality, youth, and vitality are not reflected in the clothes of Kansas State coeds, and their reaction to current fads is slow.

These are observations of Barbara Craigie, art instructor, formerly on the art staff of the Women's Wear Daily in New York.

She said that in choice of colors and textures of materials, K-State coeds choose cool neutrals such as older women wear. They do not choose the rough textures and glowing colors of youth.

"Rough texture materials cannot be easily worn by older people, but they bring out vitality in a young girl," she said.

Miss Craigie thinks the coeds wear casual clothes in "town" colors. In their choice of neutrals; blues, blacks, browns, and grays, they choose the duller shades instead of the warm, outgoing, and brighter shades.

"Red is worn," she said, "and it shows vitality. When the girls want to combine red with other colors, black and white makes a more sparkling combination with it than grey."

"Girls should realize that they are in a period of growth. They will never be this young again or will they be able to wear all these glowing colors later," Miss Craigie said.

An example, Miss Craigie cited, to show that the coeds' reaction to current fads is that they didn't start wearing crinoline slips under their wide skirts until their use on other campuses was declining.

She thinks K-State girls do not seem as interested in the picture of youth as girls on other college campuses.

"If clothing worn on other campuses is not exactly suited to them, they could choose combinations of their own to express their way of life," she said.

Miss Craigie said that there is a friendly, warm atmosphere in this section of the country, but the girls aren't reflecting this part of the locale in their clothing.

The brown hair found here is not blackish-brown, it has tints of orange and red, but the girls do not highlight this coloring by using it in their clothes, she said.

An example of a pleasing combination for some girls on the campus is a dark tan skirt, yellow sweater, and orange scarf. She said that few girls wear such a combination but combinations like this are found in modern art and are suited to their coloring.

The conservatism of the girls comes out above all in their choice of accessories, she said. On other campuses, girls carry large bags, and in the summertime utilize such items as fishing and vegetable baskets for purses.

"In other words they force the environment to their wishes," Miss Craigie said. "They can express their 'fun touch' in accessories."

She is surprised not to see more shortie gloves worn that show the vulnerable wrist bones of youth.

"The coeds also muffle their anklets with heavy white cable socks. Sometimes these socks are all right. But other times they could match their socks and sweaters for a pleasing effect or they could wear the long bermuda socks more," Miss Craigie said.

In shoe styles she thought the girls should wear more neat, trim flats, instead of moccasins all the time.

"The important thing is that if the girls would take care in selecting their clothes and use their originality in working with inexpensive items, they could show the individuality, youth, and vitality that is truly them," Miss Craigie said.

NUMBER 47

KS Student Apartment Bids Over Engineering Estimates

Two Manhattan contractors and one at Junction City were apparent low bidders Friday for the construction of eight apartment buildings for married students here.

Contracts will not be awarded until the bids have been checked and approved.

The combined bids of $1,215,695 was more than $72,000 above the estimated cost.

"We hope by selecting alternating bids to keep the cost within available funds," said Arnold R. Jones, dean of financial administration.

Hunter and Lundberg, Manhattan, were apparently low on the general contract with a $993,000 bid. Another Manhattan firm, Powell Brothers, bid the apparent low of $212,798 on the plumbing, heating, and ventilating work.

Kan-Tex Electric company, Junction City, was apparent low bidder on the electrical work with a quote of $79,897.

A bond issue of $1,400,000 will finance the project, and will be retired by rental revenues. The Board of Regents is expected to act on the bond issue soon. The board could not issue the bonds before the bids were opened.

The apartments will be the first to be constructed at any of the state schools. The cost of each building will be about $83,000.

Each of the eight L-shaped fram buildings will be of two stories and will contain eight two-bedroom and 16 one-bedroom apartments. All apartments will also have a living room, kitchenette, and bathroom.

Completion of four of the buildings, located northwest of the campus, is scheduled for September 1, 1956. The remaining four units are scheduled to be completed by February 1, 1957.

Grad Student Wins Award For Research

Thomas J. Clark, graduate student in chemistry, has been presented the research excellence award given by the K-State chapter of Sigma Xi, honorary scientific research fraternity.

Clark received a scroll and a gift of $25 for the best master's thesis submitted in science or engineering during 1955.

The presentation was made by W. G. Schrenk, president of the honorary, at the annual fall dinner of the club Thursday night.

President McCain will ask the 1956 Legislature for $350,000 to build a new student health center for K-State.

The president was authorized to make the request by the state Board of Regents Friday following receipt of a letter from the Board of Health Division of Hospital Facilities condemning the present health center.

Roy N. Johnston, director of the division, said in his letter to the president that the health center had been inspected on October 28, 1955.

"I informed Dr. Lafene that I would send him a complete report of our findings. We also discussed at the time of our inspection many of the defects, fire hazards, and evidence of deterioration in the Student Hospital," Johnston said.

"We regret that we feel denial of license seems necessary, but I do wish to state that we called to Dr. Lafene's attention, on February 12, 1954, the fact that the facilities were unacceptable and did not meet the requirements of Kansas hospital standards.

"We will ask the College to appear before the next meeting of the Advisory Hospital Council which will, in all probability, be held sometime in the early part of December or in the early part of January," he said.

The estimated cost of the new building will be $450,000. A $100,000 surplus in the student health fund will be added to the funds appropriated by the Legislature, President McCain said.

"The surplus was accumulated over a three year period after the student health fee was increased to $10. Approximately $3 per student per semester has been saved because there has been no epidemic, no staff enlargement, and there has been such a large increase in the enrollment," he said.

Plans call for the new 30-50 bed hospital to be built south of the Military Science building and facing 17th Street Drive.

If the request is granted, the hospital will be put at the top of the building priority list, President McCain said.

If and when the money is allocated for the hospital, it will be at least another six months before work will begin on it, Superintendent of the Physical Plant, R. F. Gingrich, said.

"We are very happy to see that something is finally being done on the subject, but a 50-bed hospital may be inadequate," Dr. Lafene, director of Student Health, said.

Four Debaters Reach Finals In Tournament

Four K-Staters reached the sudden-death elimination rounds in the Central Invitational debate tournament at Edmond, Okla., Saturday before being defeated.

They were Tom Bowman, ChE Soph; Larry McDonald, ME Soph; Ray North, PrL Soph; and Jim Shane, Hst Soph.

Eight K-Staters competed in the debate in the senior and junior divisions. Bowman and McDonald debated in the senior division with Bunny Cowan, Psy Soph, and Anita Grimm, TJ Soph.

Senior Invitation Deadline Tuesday

The deadline for ordering senior graduation invitations is 5 p.m. tomorrow.

Orders can be placed in Kedzie 101. Everyone ordering invitations is required to donate 50 cents for a senior gift to the College, said George Atkeson, senior class president.

The 50 cents will be added to the cost of the invitations and is payable when the invitations are ordered, he said.

Pre-Season Ducats Available Dec. 1

Tickets for the pre-season Big Seven basketball tournament will be on sale through Kansas State's athletic ticket office after December 1, Frank Mosier, athletic ticket manager, announced today.

Students wanting tickets before December 1 may order them from the Municipal Auditorium ticket office in Kansas City, Missouri. Prices for the four-night event are $1, $2, and $3 each night, plus 25 cents for insurance and mailing.

Seat preference will be given those ordering tickets for all four nights, December 27, 28, 29, and 30, said Reaves Peters, conference executive secretary.

Citizen Revolts, Cries 'I Hate Thanksgiving!'

By ROYANNE McMULLEN

I hate Thanksgiving!

Life during the rest of the year seems wonderful. There's so much to do, but yet there's time to just go out and enjoy yourself. I like to be with my friends and discuss the various details and incidents of each day. The world has so much to offer—blue sky, sunshine, sometimes rain, trees, flowers, warm homes, true friends, and adequate food.

Then comes September and the schools are filled with students once more. October is filled with fall fun and Halloween pranks.

The air becomes nippy as the days pass. Everyone starts wearing heavy clothes, and every morning when I get up frost covers the ground.

November with awful Thanksgiving arrives. As I realize how close it is, I begin to get uneasy as the days pass. My world seems to lose some of its wonder. Instead of being happy, I am miserable. No one around me even notices my condition.

Toward the end of November everyone is planning their big Thanksgiving vacations and anticipating all the fun they are going to have. But me, what am I doing? No one seems to care about my feelings or pay much attention to how I would like to spend Thanksgiving day.

As the day dawns, everyone is joining with their families all over the country. The homes are filled with laughter and thankfulness. From every kitchen comes delicious, tempting aromas telling of the big meal that is to come.

What am I doing as everyone sits down at the dinner table—am I enjoying all these things? No! I'm there with them to be sure, but it's a sad day for me—I'm the turkey!

JUDY GLADISH, BMT Fr, slyly hides a hatchet behind her back as she tries to coax "Mr. Turkey" nearer. Tom wasn't fooled by Judy's come-hither winks, though, and escaped.

State Health Board Forcing KS Hospital

Thanks to the Regents, aided by a State Board of Health ultimatum threatening revocation of the K-State hospital license, it looks like K-State may get a new Student Health center fairly soon.

The Regents have authorized President McCain to ask the 1956 Legislature for $350,000 for student health funds. The other $100,000 of the proposed cost will come from a $100,000 surplus in the Student Health fund. This surplus has built up at the rate of $3 a student a semester for the past three years.

So, if the Legislature appropriates the $350,000, K-State students and former students will be chipping in to help build the new hospital. It's doubtful if anybody will kick, however, because everybody is anxious to get better facilities on the Hill.

For several years, the fear of every K-State student has been that he/she might be confined to Student Health. Perhaps that explains the low average of patients in the hospital each day. Students just wouldn't go to Student Health unless absolutely necessary. About the only good thing about the hospital has been the courteous and efficient treatment by the staff. A new hospital should change student attitude toward Student Health.

The College has been trying for quite awhile to get funds for the new hospital and it looks like the job might get done next summer. Let's hope so, anyway.—Gary Swanson.

You, Too, Could Be Dead

This week thousands of K-Staters will leave by auto for their homes scattered throughout the United States. In this day and age it will be miraculous if none is involved in an auto accident.

Don't let yourself be a statistic among the thousands who will be killed in the next several days. Just think a second before you pass that car on a curve or on a hill. You don't save much time by darting in and out of traffic, but you lose a lot of time if you're in an accident.

What kind of thanks could your folks give Thursday if their son or daughter were killed on the highway enroute home?

Remember—accidents do happen to fellows who say "It couldn't happen to me."

Just be careful going home and coming back to K-State. We like you around here.—Gary Swanson

This Is a Cotton-Pickin' World

That old saw about "he who laughs last" can be painful.

When K-State whipped KU 46-0 in football one recent hilarious Saturday, K-State fans were in their eighth heaven (that's one heaven better than seventh heaven). But . . . KU bounced back to beat Oklahoma A&M 12-7; K-State lost to Oklahoma A&M 0-28.

We'll give anyone Oklahoma A&M and 71 points that this is a screwy world.

Then there's this word for smokers.

A nicotine fiend in Knoxville, Tenn., reached in his pocket for a cigarette, put it in his mouth (the usual procedure), and lit it. Only trouble was, he pulled out a 2-inch firecracker.

They miss him in Knoxville.—Darrel Miller.

Dionne Quintuplet Ill; CAB Probes Crash

From UNITED PRESS
MONTREAL—Marie Dionne, the frailest of the four surviving Dionne quintuplets, was reported today to be in a "very precarious condition" with pernicious anemia.

SEATTLE—CAB investigators searched for "specific evidence" today in the probe of the crash of a DC4 last Friday in which 27 of the 74 persons aboard died.

The wreckage was under military guard in suburban Seattle near Boeing airfield.

Twenty-one of 47 survivors were still hospitalized with only one listed in "grave" condition.

DENVER—A Denver electric-shop owner has revealed that John Gilbert Graham, the accused airliner bomb plotter, worked in his shop six days last month to learn about electricity.

Graham confessed the bombing to the FBI, but later denied that he placed a dynamite bomb in his mother's luggage before she boarded the United Air Lines DC-6B in Denver.

LAS VEGAS—A mounted posse today returned to Ellis Air Force base the bodies of 14 persons killed in the crash of an air force C-54 transport plane atop towering Mount Charleston.

BAGHDAD, IRAQ—Four Middle Eastern nations and Britain met here today to inaugurate the Baghdad Pact, a mutual defense alliance against Communist aggression that would seal off the southern border of the Soviet Union.

The alliance of Turkey, Iraq, Iran, Pakistan, and Britain plugs the holes in a Western defense arc curving thousands of miles around Russia from the Arctic Ocean through NATO to The Philippines through the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

No Admission To KS Plays; Why Not Go?

To the Editor:

My wife and I attended "My Three Angels" Thursday night, the first College play we have seen since we graduated from school in 1947. Friday's Collegian estimated the attendance at 500 and this was generous from my impression of the size of the audience. Probably the total number of persons attending the two-night run was not more than one-fifth of the student body, with many of those attending coming from high schools, city and faculty.

I wonder just what is wrong with K-State students that they don't come to a show given by their own fellow students? Admission is free with an activity card; no conflict with other major College events; production supervised by top dramatic staff at K-State; and certainly a good show with some fine portrayals by several members of the cast.

We attended a "cow college" with an enrollment of about 1,000 students near a town half the size of Manhattan. Our college plays ran three nights and the small auditorium (about 500, including standees) was usually filled to capacity, many townspeople attending. There was less equipment, poorer facilities, inferior professional help, but a lot of enthusiasm.

The plays we gave were neither more polished nor were better acted than the one we saw Thursday. Our lighting and sets were not as good as those at K-State. But the students came and enjoyed the show and came back for more. Why the poor turnout at K-State?

I wonder how many students attended some of the assorted grade B movies in town this week or complained about lack of something to do. I wonder about those students who are concerned about increasing college fees yet do not take advantage of the activities for which they paid. I wonder how those students interested in dramatics have the drive to put on a performance when the turnout of students is so poor.

As an afterthought, maybe it's the drafty auditorium that keeps them away.

Henry Tucker, Asst. Prof.,
Mathematics.

Wyatt Earp Brings Justice to 'Wichita'

For those who love the whine of lead and the western ballads of one Tex Ritter, plus the heroics of one of the West's most famous silver-star carriers, go to the Coed. Joel McCrea as Wichita's Wyatt Earp more than does justice to the part of the feared lawman of the early Western frontier.

"Wichita," or rather "Saloonville," when Wyatt rides into town is wide open and anything goes. When he leaves all this has been changed by a moral conviction and his trusty .44.

For those who like the shoot-em-up Tony kind of show, this will appeal to the most avid.—W.W.

Blue Key May Equip Room in New Union

A committee has been appointed by Blue Key to investigate possibilities of furnishing a room in the new Student Union, Martin Eby, club president, has announced.

Another committee has been appointed to confer with H. J. Wunderlich, dean of students, on the possibilities of drawing up an Honor Code for the College constitution.

One or both of these projects will serve as Blue Key's outside project for the year.

Wampus Cats

The Wampus Cats will meet in A 201 today at 5 p.m., according to Dean Nehrig, president.

The purpose of the meeting is to elect officers, he said.

Union Tours Committee

The subchairmanship of the tours subcommittee of Union Program council's hospitality committee is now open, according to Roger Tointon, committee head.

Applications for the position are being accepted now, he added.

Interested students should apply in A 203 before 5 p.m. Tuesday.

Phi Delta Kappa

The Alpha Delta chapter of Phi Delta Kappa, honorary educational fraternity, will hold a joint meeting with the Kappa chapter from K.U. tonight at 6 in the Farm Bureau cafeteria.

Principal speaker at the meeting will be Prof. Boyd Brainard from the mechanical engineering department. He will give a talk on the educational phase of his recent trip to Burma and India.

Frog Club

The Frog club will meet tonight at 7:00 in Nichols 2 and 4. Refreshments will be served following the meeting.

Newman Club

A mixer is scheduled for 7 p.m. today in the temporary Student Union. There will also be a discussion group which meets at 7 p.m. in J 15. The topic to be discussed is "Love and Marriage." Four separate group pictures are to be taken from 7 to 9 p.m. in Illustrations building. Students may attend the mixer or the group discussion and go from these meetings to have their pictures taken.

FMOC Race Is Sparked By Posters

Picture posters of Favorite Man On Campus candidates are appearing on the campus and original skits are being presented to women's housing groups as campaigns for the FMOC title are underway.

The winner will be presented at the Snowball dance, December 3, in Nichols gymnasium, Betty Winkley, dance chairman said. The four runners-up will be attendants.

Only girls may vote in the election, and they must purchase a ticket to the dance to be eligible to vote, Miss Winkley said.

She urged all girls to ask their favorite boyfriends to the dance right away. Tickets will be on sale in Anderson hall and Calvin hall from November 28 to December 2.

Tickets may be purchased at the door, December 3, Miss Winkley said, but no voting can be done then.

Buying Class Plans Kitchens

Planning the kitchens in the proposed men's dorms is the current problem of students in the institutional purchasing class of Merna M. Zeigler, associate professor in institution management.

Since no plans have been selected for the dorms, the girls are determining the space needed and are drawing their plans merely from the amount of dining room space needed per person for 1200 men.

"Of course, the plans are theoretical," said Professor Zeigler, "but the space allotments and food routings would be quite satisfactory in actual use."

Wildcats Lose to Aggies In Season's Finale 28-0

A case of K-State fumbleitis, the hard running of Oklahoma A&M fullback Earl Lunsford, and the passing arm of Aggie quarterback Tom Pontius, combined to give Oklahoma A&M a 28-0 upset win over the Wildcats. The loss gives the Wildcats a 4-6 record for the season.

All four of the Aggie touchdowns were set up by Wildcat fumbles. The first A&M score came in the second period when Campbell, left halfback, plunged in from the 1. After a Wildcat fumble, the Aggies, with the aid of a 35 yard pass from Pontius to end Choppy Spencer, marched to the 1 from where Campbell crashed in. Flores converted for the extra point.

Vets Score Win Over Mom's Boys In IM Basketball

The K-State Vets beat previously undefeated Mom's Boys 32-12 to highlight action in intramural basketball Friday night. Jim Jacobs was high for the Vets with 12 points.

Two overtime games were played as the Jones Boys edged past the Brewster Boys 25-23 in a single overtime. Don Parsons was high point for the Brewster Boys scoring 9 points. In the other overtime game the ISA defeated the OK House 17-16. George Hohman paced the winners with 7 points.

In another close game, Phi Delta Theta downed Tau Kappa Epsilon 25-23. Sax Stone was high point for the Phi Deltis with 9 points.

The Kasbah remained undefeated in three games by virtue of their 17-7 win over the Disciples Student Fellowship. Larry Astle lead the winners with 6 points.

In other games, Beta Theta Pi beat Alpha Kappa Lambda 27-13. Marlon Brack was high point man in the game with 6 points. Mike Esterl of Phi Kappa scored 12 points as the Phi Kappa's were beaten by Theta Xi 19-16.

The Hui O Makules defeated the Eight Balls 25-14 after a halftime score of 9-8 in favor of the Eight Balls. Bob Rees scored 8 points to be high point man in the game. La Citadel defeated the 69-ers 27-10.

Today's 6:45 schedule: SPN vs. HOM on west court, Globetrotters vs. HO on center court, and Phantoms vs. West Stadium on east court.

7:35 games: Acropolis vs. Jr. AVMA on west court, Highlanders vs. Pushovers on center court, and YMCA vs. the Hillbillies on the east court.

8:15 games: Jumpin' Jacks vs. Rebels on west court, Wesley Foundation vs. Pawnee Riders on center court, and KC A's vs. the Rum Dums on east court.

The second Aggie TD was scored by Lunsford on a 1 yard plunge. Again the drive was started after the recovery of a Wildcat fumble. The big play of this drive was a 45 yard pass from Pontius to Spencer that carried to the Wildcat 6. An off sides penalty put the ball on the 1 setting the stage for Lunsford's plunge. Romans kicked the extra point.

Just as time ran out in the third period, Lunsford scored his second TD of the day and the Aggie's third on an eight yard run.

The final Aggie touchdown was scored with but 54 seconds left in the game. After recovering a Wildcat fumble, Pontius passed 40 yards to halfback Joel Favara to put the ball on the Wildcat 19. Lunsford carried to the 1 from where Favara took it over. Roman's try for extra point was good.

Schroeder Wins Final Grid Contest

Nicholas Schroeder, AEd Jr., won the final Pigskin Prognostication contest of the year by guessing a 21-0 win for Oklahoma A&M in Saturday's game with K-State.

He was one of three people that picked Oklahoma to win the game.

Schroeder was 47 yards off on the Wildcat's total yardage with a guess of 96 yards. They rolled up a total of 111 yards. He was 159 yards off on the A&M total with a guess of 186 yards. A&M rolled up 345 yards.

Board To Tabulate Prof Poll on Union

Results of the poll on faculty participation in the new Student Union will be tabulated this week, Loren Kottner, Union director, told the Union governing board yesterday.

Frank MacCreary, Manhattan, has been hired as games and night manager and Harry Parshall, Manhattan, has been hired as a building custodian, Kottner announced.

Applications are now being received for student help in the union, Kottner said, but the hiring will not be done until January.

He said that wages for Union jobs will be from 65 cents to 75 cents.

Kottner said that group activities have been scheduled in the new Union with few conflicts. He also said that if any other groups still want to use Union facilities and rooms next semester they should come to A 203.

The board members decided to send letters to all groups to explain about possible gifts that can be donated.

Kottner announced that folding tables and chairs, banquet tables, cash registers, dishes, linens, kitchen equipment, office furniture, silverware, and a safe have been ordered.

Council Okays Reduced Rate For Wives at Sports Events

An athletics council proposal whereby students' wives or husbands would be allowed to attend athletic events for reduced rates was unanimously accepted last night by the Student Council.

The immediate consequence of the 10-point program will be the establishment of a $10 season's ticket to this year's basketball games and spring sports for wives or husbands of K-State students.

The 10 points accepted by the Council were:

1. A system whereby married students can be identified from their activity cards.

2. Same privileges for a non-student husband of a student wife as for a student wife.

3. A season, student-section football ticket for student wives at $5 for four home games and $6 for five home games.

4. A season, student-section basketball ticket for this school year to sell for $10, and in subsequent years for $7.

5. Individual game tickets will be handled as in the past.

6. Admittance by the basketball ticket to all other regularly scheduled intercollegiate sports (with the exception of football) track, baseball, golf, tennis, wrestling, and gymnastics.

7. A proportionate refund on a student wives' basketball season ticket if her husband withdraws from school after completing the first semester.

8. Admittance to track, wrestling, baseball, gymnastics, tennis or golf contests at the lowest rate charged any person for that particular contest, if a basketball ticket is not purchased.

9. Student wife athletic tickets are non-transferable. Loss of the activity ticket will be the penalty for known violations.

10. The term "student wife" refers to the wife of a student who is not, herself, a student at Kansas State college.

In other Council action, Jim Graves moved that a three-member committee be set up to investigate the Student Council assuming final approval of student activity fee allotments by the apportionment board. This, Graves said, would stimulate the Council to "pay closer attention to things already within its realm."

The apportionment board currently has the final decision on the division of the student activity fees.

The motion passed with Newton Anderson dissenting. Bill Kennedy, Bunny Cowan, and Pat Wilkerson were appointed to the committee.

Student body president Gerry Day informed the Council that according to Article 3, Section VII of the constitutional by-laws, "Any member of the student council who misses three meetings will automatically be considered for impeachment by the Student Council."

Day reported that the current absences were faculty member Dennis Goetsch 5, Merton McIlvain 3, George Atkeson 5, Jim Graves 3, Charlotte Henry 3, Don Hunt 3, and Beverly Sargent 3.

Graves also moved that a committee be established to investigate charging fees for driving and parking on the campus. These fees would be used to aid in maintaining parking facilities on the campus, he said. His motion passed by two votes, 7-5, and he, Keith Swenson, and Kennedy, were named as the committee.

Senior Deadline For Invites Today

Today is the last day for seniors graduating in January to order graduation announcements in K 101, according to Byron E. Ellis, superintendent of the College press. No checks will be accepted.

Student Health

Patients at Student Health are: Mary Read, Carol Bowen, Anne Pederson, Shirley Benteman, Bill Swinson, Vance Stayner, Gayle Griffith, Delmar Conner, Wells Rader, Howard Falick, Jack Hewitt, and J. B. Sheets.

Gen. J. Bird To Visit Here

Brigadier General John F. Bird, commanding general of the first infantry division artillery stationed at Fort Riley, will visit Kansas State Thursday.

President McCain and Dean Weaver are to be hosts at a luncheon for General Bird at Thompson hall, according to the military department.

General Bird will discuss the army ROTC program with Colonel W. W. Harvey Jr, PMST at K-State. He will inspect the training facilities, and observe instruction being presented to army ROTC classes.

KS Ag Student Mag Wins Top Honor For February Cover at Chicago Meet

The K-State Ag Student won first place for the best cover on an agricultural magazine at the annual national agricultural college magazine association convention last Friday in Chicago, Robert Ecklund, AgJ Sr, editor of the magazine, said.

The February, 1955, edition received the award. The pictorial cover was photographed and schemed by J. R. (Whitey) McLeland, K-State grad, who now works for the illustrations department at K-State.

The magazine won second in presentation of material of interest to farm women. Janice Hipple, HEJ Sr, and Beverly Sargent, HEJ, Sr, cover the department.

The winning cover was selected from 39 magazines. Each school was allowed three cover entries, and 15 schools submitted contest entries.

The magazines were judged on cover presentation by Successful Farming, material of interest to farm women by Capper's Farmer, presentation of technical material by Farm Journal, and general excellence by Kraftsman.

"The primary purpose of the Ag Student is to train agricultural students in Ag writing and Ag magazine make-up, as well as business publishing," Ecklund said.

"The magazine tries to get stories of Ag experiments in the Ag school and experiment stations, of general farm interest, and of Ag school events such as the Barnwarmer and Little American Royal."

The magazine goes to all students in the School of Agriculture, FFA chapters, vocational schools, and county agents in the state. It has a subscription list of students' parents and alumni, and has an exchange with colleges in the Ag magazine association.

Convention Posts Open to Students

Students interested in committee posts for the K-State Mock Political convention should apply by letter to the executive committee at box 372, Mel Baughman, chairman of the committee, announced.

Applicants must submit a letter containing their major, classification, activities, committee preference, and other helpful information by Thursday, December 8.

Positions are now open on the physical arrangements, resolutions and platform, rallies, ideas and promotion, program, publicity, speakers, music, and delegations committees, Baughman said.

Groups Wanting To Use Union Should Get on Ball

It may seem a little early to get all hepped up about scheduling formals and other activities in the new Union, but many organizations are going to be out of luck in securing space for a particular date next semester if they don't get on the ball.

Applications now are being accepted on a first-come first-served basis. This means that groups wanting Union space for a particular night should reserve that space before it's taken by another group.

So far, only 15 of 48 organized houses and 28 of 146 campus organizations have turned in scheduling blanks reserving space in the Union for spring activities.

The Union is for the students and, if they want to use its space for dances and meetings, they'd better plan ahead.—Gary Swanson.

Classroom Barracks Bring Hardiness to the Forefront

The old pioneer hardiness may have disappeared from K-State—but not completely. Anyone who had a class in the Classroom Barracks yesterday was roughing it in the fine old tradition of our forefathers.

Those hardy souls (softened though they are by today's easy living) who walked across campus into a freezing north wind deserved better than they received.

No one but a true Stoic could study Stoicism with such a cold breeze playing around his toes. And no student of Epicureanism would be caught dead near a gas stove that was threatening to explode.

But those are occupational hazards for K-Staters unfortunate enough to be assigned to Classroom Barracks for such courses as Humanities I.

These barracks present something of a paradox on a campus that is expanding so rapidly it soon will need an intracampus bus system. They form a sour note on a campus where extensions are being built onto extensions.

We trust that underprivileged Arts and Sciences students will not be using the Classroom Barracks for many more decades.—Darrel Miller.

Kansas State Coeds Favor Pledging During Frosh Year

By MARILYN McKNIGHT

Question: "Are you in favor of deferred pledging in K-State sororities?"

The majority of the girls answering the above question were in favor of continuing to pledge freshman girls here at K-State.

However, several girls felt that the present system should be changed. They thought deferred pledging would give newcomers to K-State time to become acquainted before pledging; they also thought the girls would benefit by spending their pledge year living in a sorority house.

But the majority believed the value of sorority associations during the freshman year outweighed the points for deferred pledging.

The answers:

MARCELLA ECORD, PEW Sr—"I'm not in favor of deferred pledging because that means a girl has only three years to be a sorority member. Neither the sorority nor the girls benefits as much that way. I feel that a girl needs a group to be close to during her freshman year. This group can help her when she is first away from home. A girl wouldn't have anyone to feel close to if deferred pledging were used. I wouldn't want to be a freshman girl on trial before the sororities for a year."

DIXIE ROBERTS, HEA Soph—"I prefer deferred pledging because I waited until my second year to pledge. I now know more girls on campus, and have a better knowledge of the sororities and of where I'll fit best. It's helpful for a pledge to live in her organized house, because she gets to know the actives better and learns the functions of her house."

MARILYN DUNN, EEd Sr—"Deferred pledging would bring about unfair rushing. I, personally, wouldn't want to be stared at and watched during my first year, when I would just be becoming accustomed to the campus."

JOAN SARGENT, PrL Sr—"I'm in favor of deferred pledging because it would give sororities a chance to see how the girls would develop through their college years. Also, it would give a girl an opportunity to look over the sororities and decide which one was best for her needs, rather than which house she considered best from preconceived high school notions."

PEGGY HOWARD, HEJ Sr—"If a girls waits until her sophomore year to pledge, she is able to hold active membership for only two years. It is difficult to train girls for top offices in just two years. Sororities lose many members during the members' last two years of school, so it is essential that underclassmen be able to fill those members' places."

KAY BENJAMIN, EEd Soph—"I'm definitely in favor of deferred pledging, because I feel there would be a more unified pledge class. The girls wouldn't have their loyalties divided the first year at the dorm. Also important is the fact that the girls would have more time to look over the sororities. They would have more time to devote to studies and activities during the first year. Girls from small towns, who otherwise would not be known when they came to K-State, would have a chance to make a name for themselves. The girls in the dorms would become better acquainted, too."

JANICE GRAHAM, EEd Soph—"I believe that K-State would lose some of its enrollment if we deferred pledging. Lots of girls would go to a junior college or to a girls' school their first year, instead of coming here, if they couldn't pledge."

JEANNIE HUNTER, Sp Sr—"I feel that we would drive the forthcoming students to junior colleges until their sophomore year. We also need more sororities on campus."

MARIANNE PTACEK, Psy Sr—"Deferred pledging is a good plan. I believe it would be better for the pledges to get to live in an organized house. Under the present dorm system, the pledges don't have much contact with the sororities."

NATALIE HARWOOD, Mth Soph—"I think that pledging in the freshman year helps a girl to become better acquainted. I've heard that the schools that use the deferred pledging plan aren't satisfied with it. The girls are drawn closer together by pledging during their first year."

MARGERY CORNWELL, Eng Jr—"Under our present system, the house pledges receive better pledge training than the girls in the dorms. I believe that every girl should have the same kind of pledge training. Also, deferred pledging would tend to raise the scholarship of sororities."

JEAN COOPER, BMT Soph—"I believe when a girl pledges during her freshman year it is a stabilizing influence for her. It is an incentive to make good grades and to participate in activities. Each girl feels that she wants to uphold the chapter by her actions."

MARY LYNNE DEEWALL, EEd Soph—"Pledging during the first year helps a girl to get a good start on campus. She meets lots of girls during rush week. Also, she is required to join activities, and she can meet people and get acquainted that way."

'Top of World' AF Soap Opera

"Top of the World," which ends today at the Co-Ed, purports to be the story of the USAF air weather and air rescue forces stationed in Alaska. However, it turns out to be little more than a soap opera with airplanes.

Major Gannon (Dale Robertson) hates (?) his ex-wife (Evelyn Keyes), but has eyes for Lt. Mary Ross (Nancy Gates). Major Cantrell (Frank Lovejoy) is involved both with the ex-wife and with Lieutenant Ross.

The movie's only valid excuse is the depicting of air force survival and rescue operations near the Pole. But lack of realism in this department prevents "Top of the World" from being anything but an average picture.—H.L.M.

'Red Velvet Swing'

"The Girl in the Red Velvet Swing"—Now through Wednesday at the Wareham. Ray Milland as Stanford White, Joan Collins as Evelyn Nesbitt, and Farley Granger as Harry K. Thaw are the main characters in this combination love-murder story.

White, a prosperous, middle-aged architect, is the first love of temporarily naive Evelyn. After they break up for her own good, the eccentric but rich Harry Thaw gains Evelyn's attentions.

The plot from then on is based on the thoughts that enter Harry's mind concerning his wife and her ex-lover.—D.M.

'Quentin Durward'

"Quentin Durward"—from the movie of the same name—does battle at the Campus the fore part of this week. That's about all he does.

Careful attention to detail in settings and costumes, plus the usual advantages of Cinemascope, are the only fine points.—R.C.

Ike Will Run 'If Able'—Hall

From United Press

GETTYSBURG, PA.—President Eisenhower will run for re-election next year "if he feels he is able," GOP National Chairman Leonard Hall said after talking to the President yesterday.

"I can only speak on my own opinion, and I will say I am very much encouraged," Hall said. But Hall stressed that the President probably will not decide until he gets a physical checkup in January.

BERLIN—A "vigorous" protest has been drawn up by U.S. Army officials here after U.S. congressman, his wife, and an army officer were held four hours at pistol-point by Communist guards in East Berlin.

The Americans were arrested by the Communists because the army car they drove had a radiotelephone. This violated German Democratic Republic law.

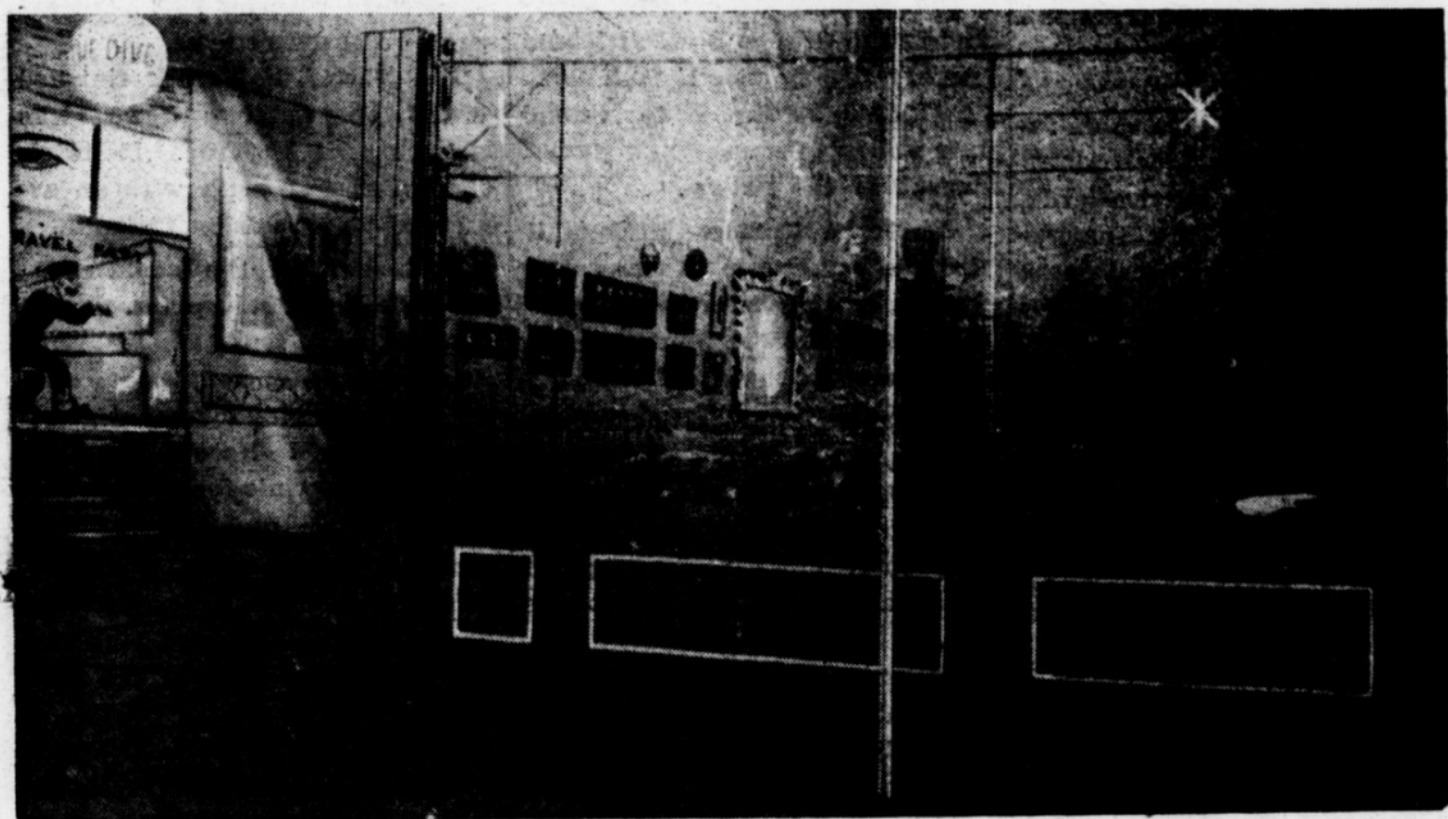

LOS ANGELES—Ex-President Harry Truman has flatly denied reports that he called Vice-President Nixon "that — — —!"

Truman is in Los Angeles to drum up funds for establishment of the Truman Memorial Library, a $1.7 million enterprise to collect records and papers of U.S. Presidents.

'The Dive'

Student Hangout in Union Will Have 'Clubby' Decor

THE DIVE—Student hangout in the new Union pictured above will feature bright red walls, ceiling, curtains, and floor. Black furniture and semi-darkness broken only by a small spotlight will create a "clubby" atmosphere in the room.

(This is the first in a series of feature stories on individual rooms or related areas in the nearly-completed Student Union.)

By PAUL JONES

Bright red walls, ceiling, curtains and floor, black furniture and semi-darkness, broken only by a small spotlight shining on the dance floor, will create the "clubby" atmosphere for the Dive, student hangout quarters in the new Union building.

The Dive, 24 feet wide and 75 feet long, is located just off the games area on the south side of the ground floor. It will be used for card playing, dancing and in general loafing. The room will contain booths, card tables, a dancing area, a coke machine and a juke box, according to Loren Kottner, Union director.

Motif will include a series of pictures on the north wall that will portray features in the history of the College. A mural will be painted on the east wall, and curtains will cover the large window area overlooking the parking lot on the south. The west end will be open.

A partition resembling an old-time store front will set off the card area from the dancing area.

Unusual, Kottner said, is that the history of a college would be portrayed in such a place as the Dive. However, most of the pictures telling of the history have been hand-picked to fit in with the atmosphere already created. They include the dean's report on the first student sentenced to jail, the first girls' hockey team (in girls' gym uniforms); early campus buildings (which, incidentally, are all still being used); bow ties used in 1914; a picture of girls and a May pole, showing the school social life in the 1920 era; and even a microscopic view of a cattle disease from the College labs.

If it is possible, Kottner said, a picture of school's worst basketball defeat will be obtained and used.

On the more serious side, a picture of the College's first president and of James Morrill, prominent figure in obtaining the land-grant act by which Kansas State was created, will be included.

Quaker To Speak At YMCA Meeting

A British Quaker businessman who did relief work in China during World War II, Colin Bell, will speak to the YM and YW on the revolution in China at a meeting Thursday at 4 p.m. in Rec center.

During World War II Bell's work with the British Friends ambulance unit took him to China where he served as manager of a surgical team working under the Chinese Red Cross, first on the Salween front and later in Chungking.

In 1946 he headed the foreign service staff of the American Friends Service committee which handled the Far Eastern programs in India, China, and Japan. Later he was in charge of the program of feeding Palestinian refugees in the Gaza strip.

At 7:30 p.m. Bell will speak on "Is the United Nations Worth Preserving?" at the First Methodist Church. The public is invited.

Nine KS Girls To Instruct Out-of-Town

Nine K-State senior girls will begin practice teaching in towns other than Manhattan on December 5. The girls will teach for one week and will be under the supervision of Mrs. Laura Baxter, associate professor of home economics and education.

The girls and the towns in which they will teach are Norene Blumberg, Denison, and Meredith Elliott, Louisburg, who will teach at Seaman high school; Phyllis Disney, Ellis, and Treva Moss, Atlanta, to teach at Council Grove high school; Gladys Fox, Burden, and Lois Howard, McDonald, to teach at Silver Lake high school; Hazel Sell, Melvern, and Betty Jean Worden, Olathe, at Wamego; and Kathryn Regier, Hampton, Va., who will be at Glasco.

4-H To Give Scholarships To KS Girls

College scholarships of $300 will be awarded Janice Fauss, HE Soph, and Barbara Pivonka, OGN Fr, at National 4-H club congress in Chicago this week.

Miss Fauss is a national winner in home improvement and Miss Pivonka a national winner in food preparation.

Another K-Stater, Rae C. Luginsland, Ag Fr, is sectional winner in the 4-H achievement activity.

The three are among 29 Kansas 4-H'ers attending national 4-H club congress November 27 to December 1.

Other K-Staters attending the congress and their state championships are Carol Gillen, HT Soph, dress revue; Barbara DeLange, HT Fr, canning; and Tom Swearingen, PrV Fr, best groomed boy.

Army Shooters Down Pittsburg

Army ROTC rifle team defeated the rifle team of Kansas State Teachers college, Pittsburg, at a recent meet.

Top scorer for the K-State team was Kenneth R. Veraska, ME Soph, captain of the team. Other high scorers included Richard Bair, AG Jr; Thurston E. Banks, EA Fr; Warren Sanger, EA Soph; and J. Darrell Arnold, EA Fr.

Phi Delts Win 43-7 In IM Basketball

IT'S ALL ARMS as Beta Sigma Psi and Alpha Gamma Rho scramble for the ball in intramural action last night. AGR won 32-20.

Phi Delta Theta used the combination of a full court press and a lot of noise from the sidelines to score a 43-7 victory over Alpha Kappa Lambda. In addition to the press, the Phi Delts controlled the back boards with regularity.

Nine Phi Delts got into the scoring act with five men scoring 6 points each.

Beta Theta Pi used the press and control of the back boards to good advantage as they scored a 28-15 win over Theta Xi. Because of the rebounds, Beta Theta Pi was able to use fast breaks in building up their victory margin.

Delta Sigma Phi held Sigma Nu to 2 points in the first half and went on to defeat Sigma Nu 21-13.

In other games: Sigma Alpha Epsilon defeated Pi Kappa 21-13, Sigma Chi defeated Sigma Phi Epsilon 25-17, Delta Tau Delta defeated Phi Kappa Tau 36-21, and Alpha Gamma Rho defeated Beta Sigma Psi 32-20.

Acacia beat Alpha Tau Omega 33-15 and Lambda Chi Alpha beat the 1834 Club 24-19.

Tonight's 6:45 schedule includes: Phi Kappa vs Tau Kappa Epsilon on west court, Jones Boys vs Kasbah on center court, and Brewster Boys vs the 69'ers on east court.

7:35 schedule: DSF vs La Cita-del on west court, ISA vs Hui O Makules on center court, and OK House vs the Kansas State Veterans on east court.

8:25 schedule: Eight Balls vs Mom's Boys on west court, House of Williams vs House of Breck on center court, and SPN vs West Stadium on east court.

Cats To Get Grid Awards Tonight at 6

Wildcat gridgers will be honored at the annual football awards banquet at the Wareham hotel today at 6 p.m. Dr. John C. Weaver, Dean of the School of Arts and Sciences, will be the speaker.

Varsity lettermen and freshman numeral winners will be announced at the banquet and the Wildcat seniors will give short remarks.

In addition to the letter awards, the winner of the Most Inspirational Player trophy and next year's co-captains will be announced. Ron Marcinjak was winner of the trophy last year and Jim Furey and Doug Roether were this year's captains.

Complete Pairings For Major Bowls

The pairings for the major bowl games to be played on December 31 and January 2 was completed yesterday with the announcement that Vanderbilt would oppose Auburn in the Gator Bowl.

Auburn finished the season with an 8-1-1 record and was ranked 10th in the nation in the latest AP grid poll.

Other bowl games pit UCLA against Michigan State in the Rose Bowl, Maryland against Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl, Texas Christian against Mississippi in the Cotton Bowl, and Georgia Tech against Pittsburgh in the Sugar Bowl.

Of the ten teams selected to play in the five major bowl games, seven of them are listed in the top ten ratings.

Sooners Top League In Four Departments

The Oklahoma Sooners, Big Seven grid champs, grabbed top honors in four of the league's seven final statistical categories.

The Sooners, who meet Maryland in the Orange Bowl at Miami January 2, pounded Oklahoma A&M 53-0 Saturday to extend their unbeaten string to 29 games, longest in the nation.

Halfback Tommy McDonald led the conference in two categories, scoring and rushing, and finished second in punt returns for the top Sooner individual.

Alternate halfback Clendon Thomas led in punt returns with 202 yards on 10 carries to top the Big Seven in that department. OU's total offensive average of 410.7 yards in 10 games was also tops.

McDonald scored 96 points in leading the conference. His closest rival was teammate Bob Burris, with 66. Ralph Pfeifer of K-State was fifth in the final statistics with 36 points.

The Sooner halfback gained 702 yards on 103 carries to beat out Nebraska's Rex Fischer for the conference lead. Wildcats Doug Roether, Pfeifer, and Tony Addeo ranked 14th, 15th, and 17th respectively in rushing.

Thomas was pushed to gain top honors in the punt returns department by McDonald. McDonald returned 11 kicks for 207 yards, an 18.8 average. Bob Whitehead finished third with an 18.3 yard average on three returns.

Ted Rhode of Kansas finished as the top punter with 20 kicks averaging 42.3 yards. K-State's Dick Allen was sixth with an average of 37.9 yards on 12 punts.

Missouri led the conference in both aerial categories. Dave Doane was tops among the passers with 52 completions out of 113 attempts for a net gain of 774 yards. Harold Burnine caught 44 aeriels for 594 yards.

KU's Wally Strauch was runnerup in passing with 28 completions out of 76 pitches for 498 yards. Dick Corbin was 12th and Bob Whitehead 15th in the final tables.

Frank Clarke of Colorado trailed Burnine in receiving, grabbing 11 passes for 386 yards. Don Zadnik was the only Cat in the top receivers, ranking 13th with 110 yards on 9 catches.

Three Titles Still at Stake In IM Sports

Three titles have been decided and three are still at stake in singles in intramural handball, horseshoes, and tennis.

In the fraternity tennis division, Keith Andler, Pi Kappa Alpha, defeated Bob Alley, Sigma Phi Epsilon, for the crown, (9-7) (6-1).

The finals in the fraternity division of the horseshoes, will pit John Breithaupt, Alpha Gamma Rho, against Bill Bryson, Phi Delta Theta.

Bob Whitehead, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, will play Mike Mullins, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, to determine who will meet Wendell Holt, Lambda Chi Alpha, in the fraternity handball finals.

The finals of the independent handball division was ruled by the Hillbillies. Roland Alexander downed Bob Mancuso, (21-18) and (21-6) for the title.

Lee Hildebrecht, Wesley Foundation, beat Jay Rush, Jr., AVMA, (21-15) and (21-15), to take the independent horseshoe title.

Charles Hudson, Jones Boys, will square off against Jack Hewitt, Hillbillies, in the finals of the independent tennis singles.

Roether Is All-Big 7 Back

Doug Roether

Ron Nery

Bob Whitehead

Jim Furey

Doug Roether, Cat fullback, has been named to the Associated Press and United Press all-Big Seven football teams. He also has been chosen to play with the Blue team in the Blue-Gray game at Miami December 26.

Three other Wildcat gridders have been chosen on the AP and UP Big Seven second teams.

Jim Furey, Ron Nery, and Bob Whitehead were picked for second team honors by UP, while Nery and Furey were named to the second team by AP.

Oklahoma had six men named to the first team by both AP and UP, with Bo Bollinger the only repeater from last season's first team.

Bollinger and Tommy McDonald, also of Oklahoma, were near unanimous selections for the team.

The first team selected by UP is: Jon McWilliams, Nebraska and Hank Burnine, Missouri, ends; Cecil Morris, Oklahoma and Bolinger, Oklahoma, guards; Sam Salerno, Colorado and Ed Gray, Oklahoma, tackles; Jerry Tubbs, Oklahoma, center; and Jimmy Harris, Oklahoma, McDonald, Oklahoma, Willie Greenlaw, Nebraska and Roether, K-State, backs.

The first team selected by AP is: Lamar Meyer, Colorado and Burnine, ends; Bolinger and Morris, guards; Gray and Laverne Torczon, Nebraska, tackles; Tubbs, center; and Harris, Robert Burris, Oklahoma, Rex Fisher, Nebraska, and Roether, backs.

Iowa State and Kansas did not place a man on the first or second team by UP.

Outside of Bolinger, McDonald, and Burnine the balloting for the other spots was close. In the poll conducted by UP Ron Nery, Al Portney, Missouri, Bob Whitehead, Joe Mobra, Oklahoma, and Rex Fisher, Nebraska drew many top votes.

UP's first team averaged 194 pounds a man, with the backfield averaging 178.5 pounds and the line averaging 202.8 pounds.

24 To Vie for FMOC Honors

Voting for the Favorite Man On Campus is underway in Anderson hall this week, Betty Winkley, Snowball chairman, said.

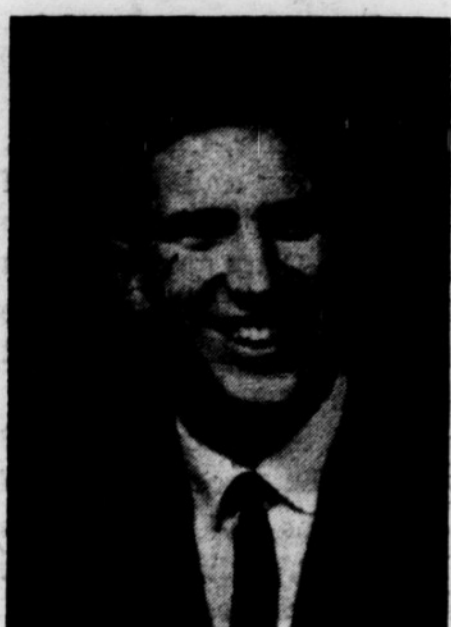

Twenty-four candidates from the men's living groups are running for this title, and the winner will be announced at the Snowball dance, Saturday night, she said.

Only girls may vote in the election, and they must purchase a ticket to the Snowball to be eligible to vote, Miss Winkley said.

Campaigns for the various candidates were going strong yesterday as the men's groups withstood the cold to post campaign posters over the campus and to take their skits around to the women's residence houses.

Jerry Smith Is President Of National Chancery

Jerry Smith, PrL Soph, Manhattan, was elected president of the national Chancery club for pre-law students at a national convention in Norman, Okla., recently.

His official title is supreme chief justice. Associate justice, or vice-president, is Paul Bass of Southern Methodist university.

The Chancery club, originated at K-State in 1950 directed by Prof. A. D. Miller, now has chapters at SMU and Oklahoma university.

In addition to his duties as president, Smith is chairman of the national convention and of the "supreme court," or national executive committee.

Math Club

The Mathematics club will meet Thursday at 3 p.m. in J 15.

Patrick L. Humphrey, actuary for the Kansas City Life Insurance company, will speak on the applications of mathematics to life insurance.

Dames Club

The sewing interest group of Dames club will do further work on Christmas projects tonight at 7:30 in the home of Mrs. Ernest Peck, 350 North Sixteenth, according to Mrs. Bernard Kolp, chairman of the group.

Club Cervantes

The Club Cervantes will hold a Spanish dance tonight at 7 p.m. in the temporary Student Union.

Scabbard and Blade

Cadets Allen D. Van Nice and Albert E. Steunenberg recently attended the 50th anniversary convention of the national Scabbard and Blade society at the University of Wisconsin.

Members at the national meeting discussed future plans, elected officers and climaxed the anniversary celebration with a dance.

The local chapter was founded in 1914; the present commanding officer is cadet Capt. Herman D. Santala.

Rifle Club

Kenneth R. Veraska, ME Soph, was elected captain of the army ROTC rifle team at a meeting recently. David W. Nies, AG Fr, was chosen team manager, Capt. R. L. Dineley, organizer of the team, said.

Veraska has turned in the highest practice scores of the team for the past two weeks, according to Dineley. He recently took part in a match with Michigan State which K-State won by default.

Blue Key

First reports from the Blue Key project committees will be heard at Blue Key meeting tonight at 5 p.m. in President McCain's office, according to Martin Eby, club president.

THIS?

For solution, see

HERE'S A DROODLE THAT PACKS A PUNCH. It's titled: Lucky smoke rings blown by prizefighter with tooth missing. It packs a moral, too: Why knock yourself out looking for a better-tasting cigarette when all you have to do is light up a Lucky? Luckies taste better, first, because Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. # Crop Judgers Win Second Saturday at Chicago Contest

Kansas State crop judgers took second place last Saturday in the International Livestock exposition crops judging contest at Chicago.

Texas Tech took top honors in the contest.

K-State ranked first in grading, fourth in crop judging, and third in identification to obtain their overall rating of second.

Dale Perkins, AEd Sr, was second and Arthur Armbrust, Ag Jr, third in identification. Perkins finished fifth in the entire contest and Armbrust took eighth. The third team member, Cletis Wilson, AEd Sr, was 13th in the contest.

The judgers placed third in the intercollegiate judging contest last Tuesday in Kansas City, Mo.

Texas Tech and Oklahoma finished ahead of K-State in the final standings.

The team ranked first in commercial rating, third in identification, and sixth in judging.

Armbrust, was high on the K-State team. He was fourth in grading, sixth in judging, and fourth in the entire contest. Dale Perkins, AEd Sr, was fourth in identification and sixth in the contest.

E. L. Mader, associate professor of agronomy, is the team coach.

Latest Styles Highlight Trip To KC by Clothing Classes

Fur coats, high-styled suits and dresses, and a Christian Dior creation highlighted a recent field trip to Kansas City by the Selection of Clothing classes.

Forty-six girls and three instructors, Alpha Latzke, Alberta Curry, and Gertrude Lienkaemper, made the trip.

The girls who went on the trip were: Joan Brockman, Catherine Carrel, Elaine Eisele, Marilyn Froetschner, Carol Kellog, Gail Meyer, Mary Ann Milbourn, Linda Paulson, Janet Phillips, and Betty Ann Benson.

Norma Bollinger, Barbara Brown, Sondra Cool, Lois Corke, Barbara Duncan, Gertrude Egner, Betty Emery, Edna Esslinger, Janell Garrell, and Nancy Jo Gilkeson.

Jean Hamilton, Virginia Herzog, Irene Hollingsworth, Helen Lauxman, Ila Lawson, Charlene Lentz, Jo Ann Lydick, Carolyn Moore, Loretta Magers, and Beverly Sharp.

Irene Davey, Janet Eason, Ellen Flotman, Sylvia Griswold, Rhea Lake, Mynie Lou Mundhenke, Sally Jo Newman, Sue Percival, Key Steele, Janis

Stivers, Kay Straub, Phyllis Thomas, and Darlene Wilson.

At Harzfeld's on the Plaza, the girls were shown expensive name-designer suits and dresses. Some of the creations were by such well-known designers as Maurice Rentier, De De Johnson, Adele Simpson, and Christian Dior.

An Adele Simpson short formal was admired by the group. The gown was of rich-looking satin in the popular long torso style. A crisp bow enlivened the front of the dress.

Another designer, Mr. Mort, specializes in styles for the younger set. He believes that even though the straight-look is high-style, billowing full dresses are equally good for the young.

At Nelly Don's clothing factory, the girls visited the designing rooms, the shipping department, and observed the large-scale production of clothes.

At Shukert's Fur company, luxurious furs, from Alaska seal to mouton, were brought out for the girls to see.

"Competent guides explained the intricacies of making fur coats," Miss Lienkaemper said.

Norman Cousins To Discuss Man's Survival at Assembly

Norman Cousins, editor of The Saturday Review, will talk on "Who Speaks for Man?" at the all-College assembly at 9:30 a.m. Friday in the College auditorium.

Although a young man, Cousins is a world citizen whose influence upon critical issues in America has been profound, Dean A. L. Fugsley said.

Recently Cousins returned from his fourth world-survey tour in six years. His last trip took him to Saigon, Tokyo, Hiroshima, Singapore, Hong Kong, and Bandung.

Several years ago when he was lecturing in India, Pakistan, and Ceylon, he listened to the people speak about their lives, their problems, and their opinions.

Other trips have been to Japan; Germany, where he served on a committee to study Germany's progress in establishing democratic rights for the individual; and to Bikini, where he observed the atomic explosions.

These trips reflect his concern for the condition of man in our time. His dominant interest is the human community. In the sense he confesses to an obsession—the need for survival of values as much as the need for the survival of man himself.

He developed this theme in a book called "Who Speaks for Man?" an argument for ending the age of world anarchy and beginning the age of world law.

Cousins became editor of The Saturday Review in 1940. Since that time, The Saturday Review has expanded in scope and influence from a purely literary weekly to a journal dealing with ideas and the development of our national culture.

Cousins will also speak at a faculty dinner Friday at 6 p.m. in Thompson hall.

Play Tryouts Set For Next Week

Tryouts for student-directed one-act plays are open to any students interested, and will be held Monday from 3 to 5 p.m. and Thursday, December 8, at 7 p.m. in G206, according to Assoc. Prof. John Robson of the speech department.

The plays, which will be presented in February, include "The Cave of Salamanca," by Cervantes; "Ten Blocks on the Camino Real," by Tennessee Williams; and "Yes Is for a Very Young Man," by Gertrude Stein.

Student Health

Five girls and sixteen boys are in the Student Health hospital.

The girls are Mary Reed, Carol Bowen, Sharon Stiles, Jodee Baird, and Shirley Benteman.

The boys are Gayle Griffith, Mohinder Sabholok, Stanley Hightower, Delmar Conner, Wells Rader, Howard Falick, Robert Circle, Jack Hewitt.

J. B. Sheets, Bill Swenson, Larry Benton, Paul Faidley, Donald Rosebrook, Lawrence Gale, Leonard Legault, and Vance Stayner.

Elgart Band To Be Here December 9

Les Elgart and his "band with the sophisticated swing" will present a concert in the auditorium and furnish music for the "Frost Fantasy," Christmas dance, December 9.

Elgart's band, nominated by Mademoiselle magazine as the most likely to succeed and as the most promising swing band by the National Ballroom Operators association pool, will present the concert from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. The dance, which will be the setting for crowning of the Royal Purple queen, will be held in the Ahearn field house gymnasium from 9 p.m. to midnight.

Featured in the band, dubbed by many as the number one college band, will be Les's brother, Larry, playing an alto saxophone, as well as Les playing a trumpet.

Ticket prices, the dance committee of the Union Program Council has announced, will be 75 cents a person for the concert and $2 a couple for the dance. However, a package of one dance and two concert tickets will be sold for $3 during the advance ticket sales

Webb, George J. Yapp, Roger F. Orban, Gene L. Youngstedt, and John D. Landon.

Davis To Sing At Northwest

An hour long musical program will be presented by Earle Davis, starting at 7 p.m. Thursday, at Northwest hall.

Davis, head of the English department, will play the guitar and sing American ballads and folk songs.

Davis has performed at several college programs, the latest being the recent talent show held during the Homecoming festivities.

'King's Men' Is Free Movie

"All the King's Men" will be the free movie shown by the English department Wednesday and Thursday afternoon at 4 p.m. in J 15.

Broderick Crawford portrays Willie Stark, a prototype of Huey Long, a former political dictator in Louisiana, who promoted a "share-the-wealth" program.

The movie shows his rise as a man of the people from the farm to the study of law, and then his entrance into politics. It reveals the depths to which ambition and power can bring a man.

The movie is based upon Robert Penn Warren's work of fiction, which took the Pulitzer prize in 1947.

Doug Roether Named 'Most Inspirational'

Doug Roether was named winner of the "Most Inspirational Player award" at last night's grid banquet held at the Wareham hotel sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

Doug is a three-year letterman at K-State. He recently was named to the Big Seven all-Star team for his play at fullback this season.

This season he started all the fullback position and was leading ball carrier with 272 yards gained in 74 carries.

In the balloting for next season's team captain, Ellis Rainsberger, sophomore tackle, won over Kerry Nesmith, junior halfback, on the second ballot.

Coach Mertes praised the football players and his coaching staff for the success they achieved this season in a speech to the large banquet crowd.

"What hurt most of all this season was the loss to Nebraska," he said. The win over Marquette was his greatest memory of the season.

KS Men! Find Out if Your Girl Is a Stinker. Study Her Lipstick

By Ann Weathers

Men! Do you want to know your girl friend's true personality? Swipe her lipstick and see if it fits one of the descriptions below.

Heilology, the science of character analysis via examining a woman's lipstick after she has used it, is believed by some psychologists to indicate a woman's true personality, the Daily Texan reports.

Here are the types—take your choice!

Flat—Positive personality; apt to be impatient and may tread on a few toes; determined; persevering; ambitious.

Round—Methodical at heart; considerate; cheerful and amusing; economical; energetic; good at details.

Diagonal—Versatile; creative; demonstrative; vivacious; possesses great love for family; fluent talker; has a retentive memory.

Oval—Realist; aloof, but has quiet charm; independent, seldom confides; pleasant.

Hollowed (the mark of the brush user)—Thrifty soul; less apparent is her need for reassurance and love, her sensitivity; fond of sports and travel.

Grooved—Complicated character; playful on outside, but basically serious; artistically inclined; sincere, warm.

Pointed—The hallmark of the woman who likes smartness in clothes, friends, surroundings; outspoken; flair for dramatic; attracts admirers.

What's your type? I'm not talking!!

Monday isn't always dreary, according to the University of California paper. They celebrate with a traditional Blue Monday.

Anyone caught wearing red, be he BMOC or LMOC, is dragged up before a kangaroo court. The punishments are many and varied—ranging from the member of the judo team who had to teach a girl to throw someone over her shoulder, to the chorus line of girls who had to dance the can-can in tight skirts.

Men at Northern Illinois State college are beginning to get nasty about Bermuda socks (it happens every winter).

They grant the fact that the socks look great with Bermuda shorts, but they think they just don't seem right with skirts.

They also grant that the girls will put up the argument that the long socks are nice and warm, and are practically a necessity on a bitterly cold campus in winter.

But the men still insist that the Bermuda socks-wool skirts outfits always leave them with the impression that "something slipped."

World News Briefs

Faure May Fire French Assembly

PARIS, (U.P.)—Premier Edgar Faure decided tentatively today to dissolve the French national assembly—a move that would provoke France's worst political crisis since 1877.

The assembly voted no confidence in Faure yesterday by a vote of 318 to 218. Instead of resigning automatically, the stubborn premier dumfounded parliament by announcing he would send it home and call for new elections.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—Despite two personal pleas from President Eisenhower, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek was reported determined today to block the admission of Outer Mongolia to the United Nations, by veto if necessary.

BUENOS AIRES—Government spokesmen said a decree would be published at noon today restoring the newspaper La Prensa to its legitimate owners, the Paz family.

SAN FRANCISCO—Former President Harry S. Truman leaves today for Kansas City after charging the Republicans "have just about ruined the country."

Miller's High Life

Any resemblance between the title of this column and a certain well-known beverage is not coincidental, and will be recognized immediately by most K-State men and not a few coeds.

It is customary when beginning a column such as this to state the purposes and objectives of said column. I guess you could call this a humor column—and that it will be (if I have to steal every joke in Max Shulman's new anthology of humor).

I will now come up with a couple of doozies (pronounced DOUGH-zees) just to prove what a funny fellow I am.

First hilarious word of wisdom is this: "Never run after a streetcar or a woman—another will be along presently." (If someone says he's already heard that one, it's possible. I may not be original, but I'm selective.)

Here's another joke. I don't understand it, myself, but my friend laughed like hell—"Love is the delusion that one girl is better than another."

Now that I've reeled off a couple of doozies to prove what a funny fellow I am, you're probably all relaxed and ready for some more.

Right in line with the name of this column is a recent bulletin from Yale university's laboratory of applied psychology.

It has been proved unequivocally that 3.5 beer CAN'T make you drunk.

Any symptoms of drunkenness after a few steins (a word I picked up in Germany) of beer can be attributed to psychological and social factors. And the hangover you think you have is just that—something you think you have.

When I told all this to the fellows in Kedzie, they just laughed. Unaccustomed as I am to such things, I'll go along with Yale.

If you see a fellow walking around town with his trousers hanging lower than Wyatt Earp's sixguns, call the FBI. Don't approach the guy, for he may be dangerous.

Why is he dangerous. That's simple—he wants to keep his pennies.

This warning comes from the U.S. mint at Denver. A stockpile of seven million dollars worth of pennies has disappeared in just a few months. No discarded pennies are being turned in, and the mint goes on minting about $3,000 worth of pennies a day.

Maybe they're all going to the K-State Student Union for 7-cent coffee.

Which (for no reason) reminds me of Ben Franklin's old saying: "A penny saved isn't worth a dern."

The U.S. Post Office has gotten tough with a comic book for not being obscene enough.

A recent United Press story told of the publishing company that sued postal authorities for holding up the mailing of its "for men only" cartoon book.

The post office acted on grounds that the firm was engaged in a fraud because it promised obscenity and "did not deliver."

Shades of Cotton Mather!

Co-op Book Stores Last About 10 Years

To the Editor:

It might be of interest to those students who are thinking of establishing a co-op book store in the Union building to know that 50 years ago there was a students' co-op book store that handled the greater part of the book and stationery business at the then KSAC campus.

About 1900, a small group of students put up $5 each and ordered as many text books as their cash would pay for. The books were sold to members of the association at list price. At the end of the term a small rebate was distributed to the shareholders, and the remainder was used to purchase additional goods. The business expanded rapidly. Shares were sold at $5 and this money went into expansion.

As the business grew, larger quarters were rented and a full-time manager was employed. Later a lot at Manhattan avenue and Moro street was purchased and a building was constructed on that corner.

Additional lines of merchandise were added to the stock: jewelry, clothing, luggage, alarm clocks, and many other accessories of campus life. The progressive "go-getter, live-wire" element took control and started a program of expansion intended to supply "everything a student needs." Shortly thereafter, the association was bankrupt; the business and building were sold for what they would bring; and the whole venture was liquidated.

The details of the debacle were too complex to be enumerated, but the basic cause seemed to be that control was in the hands of a majority of the shareholders.

The same thing has caused the failure of 90 percent of all of the co-ops that have been organized in America. If a manager is found who can make a success of the business, he will very likely decide to go into business for himself.

Result: The normal life expectancy of a co-op is about 10 years.

Harold Munger,
Associate Professor of Applied Mechanics

Speaker To Talk About Old Scrolls

"The Significance of the Dead Sea Scrolls" will be the subject of a speech by Irving Levitas in Danforth chapel this Friday. He is sponsored by the Hillel foundation.

The scrolls are believed by archaeologists and scholars to be the most important Biblical documents of pre-Christian times ever to be discovered. Two books dealing with this development have been published recently.

A Bedouin shepherd, searching for some of his lost goats in 1947 found the scrolls sealed in jars in some caves near the Dead Sea in Palestine. Since this time, they have been translated, and it was discovered that they contain much new information on the background of Christianity and the religious writings of Judaism.

The scrolls are believed to be the remains of a library of a monastic Jewish sect called the Essenes, whose philosophy apparently became the basis of Christian thought.

Also found was a book of Isaiah dating from about 150 B.C., which is nearly identical to the present-day Hebrew book of Isaiah.

Irving Levitas, who will speak on this subject, is the director of education for Congregation B'nai Jehudah in Kansas City, Mo., and is a recognized scholar in this field.

His speech will follow a Sabbath-evening Jewish religious service at 7:30 p.m., which will be conducted by Rabbi Harold Spivack, Jewish military chaplain at Fort Riley.

Field House Being Readied For Basketball

The basketball team isn't the only group preparing for basketball season. The physical plant is busy laying the playing floor, erecting the bleachers, and improving the public address system.

"The basketball floor is already down in Ahearn field house, complete with the change in the width of the free throw lanes," R. F. Gingrich, superintendent of the physical plant, said.

"The width of the lanes has been changed from 6 feet to 12 feet by making this lane a solid purple instead of sanding out the old lines and refinishing the whole floor. It gives the floor a 'new look' in the bargain," he said.

The bleachers are being set up and the accoustical materials and new microphones have been ordered for the public address system, Gingrich said.

"We will be fortunate to be finished with the public address system improvements by January 1, he said.

John Helm To Get $100 Honorarium For Top Teaching

John F. Helm, professor of drawing and painting, will be honored by the College faculty at a dinner in the College cafeteria Wednesday, December 7 at 6 p.m.

Each semester the faculty plans to recognize outstanding K-State faculty members in a lectureship program. Significant contribution to a particular field of endeavor is the basis of selection for honors.

In addition to delivering a lecture on "The Changing Symbol in Painting," Professor Helm will receive a $100 honorarium at the dinner. The development fund council makes this award possible.

Lunches To Be Auctioned By Independents Tonight

An old fashioned box supper will be sponsored by ISA tonight at 7:30 in rec center, Carol Wilkins, president of the club, said.

All independent students are invited and the girls are asked to bring a box lunch. The lunches will be placed on sale and the boys will buy a lunch and then eat with the girl that packed the lunch that he buys.

The girls are not to put anything to drink in the lunch, as the club will furnish cokes, Miss Wilkins said.

Dames Swimming Group

The swimming interest group of Dames club will discuss a Christmas project at its meeting tonight in Nichols gym, Mrs. Newton Anderson, group chairman, said. The regular group swimming times will be observed, Mrs. Anderson said. Beginners will swim from 7-8 p.m. and intermediates will swim from 8-9 p.m.

Mertes, Glassford Named League 'Coaches of Year'

Bus Mertes was named along with Bill Glassford of Nebraska as Big Seven "Coach of the Year," by the Kansas City Star.

The Star also selected an all-Big Seven first and second team. The first team included 6 players from Oklahoma, 2 from K-State, 2 from Nebraska, and 1 from Missouri.

The second team included 4 players from Oklahoma, 3 from Missouri, 2 from K-State, 1 from Nebraska, and 1 from Kansas.

Ron Nery and Doug Roether were the K-State representatives on the first team while Jim Rusher and Jim Furey were selected for the second team.

Nery had been selected by both

Iowa State and Missouri on their all-opponent team for 1955. Ellis Rainsberger, grid captain for the 1956 season, was also listed on Missouri's all-opponent team. Nery has been selected by AP and UP for their all-Conference second teams.

Roether has been selected on the all-Conference first team by both AP and UP and has been chosen by the North coaches to play in the annual Blue-Gray game on December 26.

Furey was picked on the all-conference second team by both AP and UP and will be a member of the West squad in the annual East-West game at San Francisco on January 2.

Rusher was on the Star's all-Conference second team in 1954.

In his first year as head football coach at K-State, Mertes guided his team to a 4 won, 6 lost record. Three of the wins were against conference competition which gave the Cats a third place tie in conference standings.

The victory over KU was the worst defeat a Wildcat team ever handed the Jayhawks, and the win over Missouri was the first for the Cats since 1938. Their other conference win was a 9-7 victory over Iowa State. The non-conference win was a 42-0 victory over Marquette.

K-Club To Meet Tonight at 7:30

K-Club will meet today at 7:30 in the K-Room of Ahearn Gym. K jackets or sweaters are to be worn to this meeting.

K-Club pictures will be taken tomorrow night. The time and place will be announced at tonight's meeting.

Jones Boys Victors Over Kasbah 22-19

The Jones Boys beat previously undefeated Kasbah 22-19 in intramural basketball last night and thereby kept their own record clean.

Trailing until the closing minutes of the game, the Jones Boys rallied to post their 3 point victory margin. The second half told the story as the Jones Boys hit for 12 points while holding the Kasbah to 8 points.

Robert Eshelbrenner was the big gun for the winners with 13 points, 7 of which came in the second half. Kasbah spread their scoring evenly between five men.

West Stadium won the Group III championship by beating Sigma Phi Nothing 23-16. West Stadium controlled the back boards and hit a good percentage of shots. Coupled with a strong defense, West Stadium had an easy time of it.

The Disciples Student Fellowship defeated La Citadel 19-17 although they ended the game with only four men on the court. Only six DSF players showed up for the game. Two of them fouled out with nine minutes left to play.

In other games, Phi Kappa beat Tau Kappa Epsilon 23-19, the Brewster Boys beat the 69'ers 38-15, and the Hui O Makules beat ISA 27-21.

The Kansas State Veterans defeated the OK House 16-11, the House of Williams defeated the House of Breck 26-20, and Mom's Boys defeated the Eight Balls 40-22.

Tonight's 6:45 schedule includes: Globetrotters vs Phantoms on west court, Gammas vs Pushovers on center court, and Acropolis vs Highlanders on east court.

7:35: Rho Alphas vs Rebels on west court, YMCA vs Jumpin' Jacks on center court, and High Plains League vs Rum Dums on east court.

8:25: Wesley Foundation vs Kansas City Athletics on west court, Farm House vs Sigma Phi Epsilon on center court, and Pi Kappa Alpha vs Sigma Chi on east court.

Annette Moser Wins $300 Award At 4-H Congress

Chicago, Dec. 1—(U.P.)—A Kansas girl was among six winners of the Health Program awards of the 34th National 4-H Club congress last night.

Annette Moser, 18, of Powhattan, was presented with a $300 scholarship and cited for working to improve the health of herself, her family and her community.

The Kansas State college freshman was chairman for two years of the Brown County 4-H club Health committee and helped with the State X-Ray mobile. She was State Health winner in 1954.

Plans Drawn For Elevator, Barn—Gingrich

K-State's new barn, to replace the one destroyed by fire last summer, is to be constructed northwest of the veterinary research laboratory, R. F. Gingrich, physical plant superintendent, announced today.

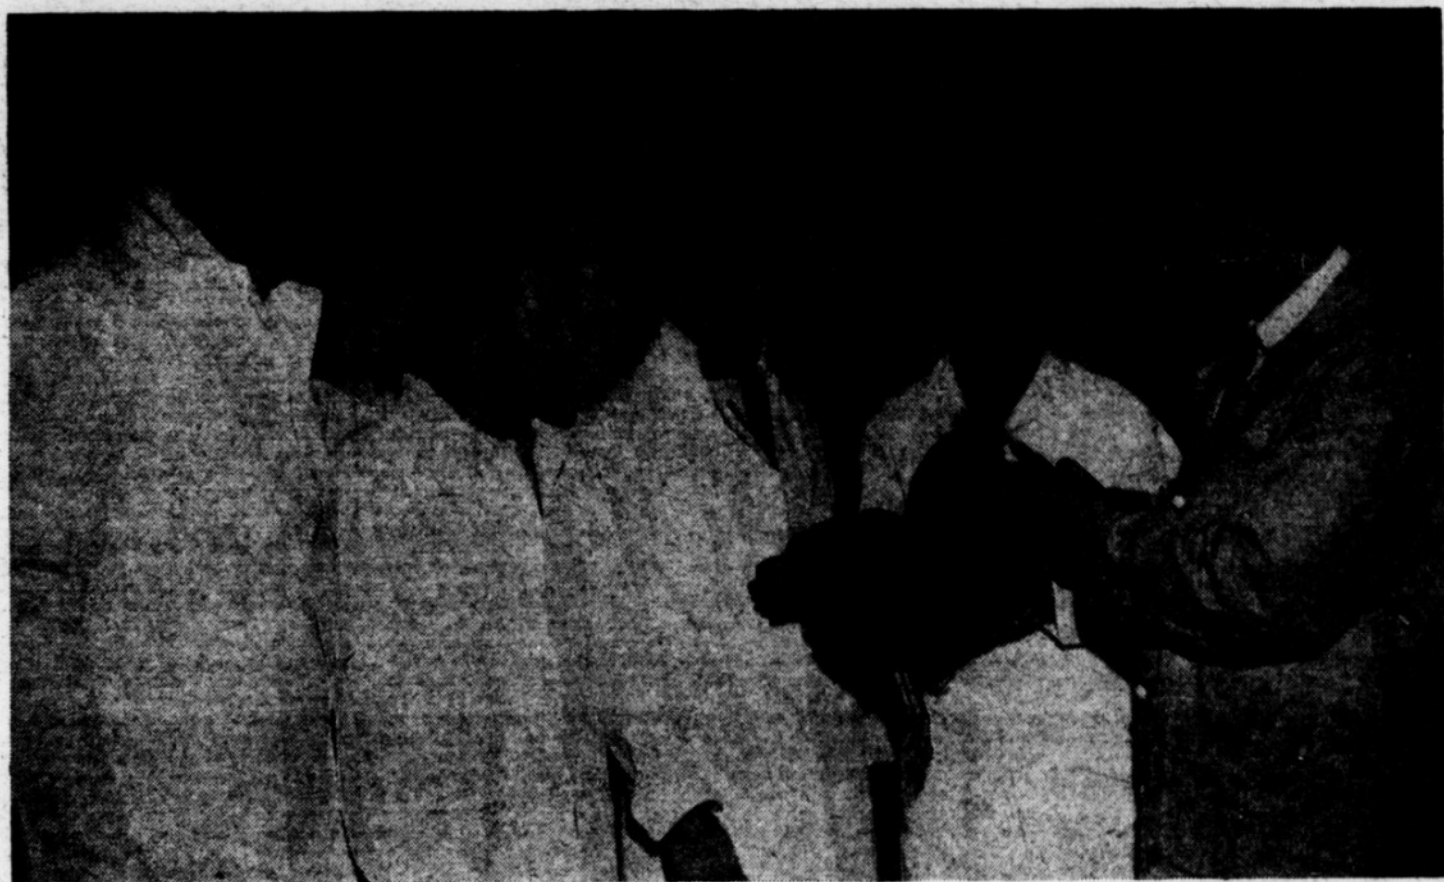

A new elevator is to be erected west of the new sheep barn location.

Gingrich said the cost of the building and elevator is estimated at $207,781. Plans are being drawn for the new structures, and the 1956 Kansas legislature will be asked to appropriate funds so that a contract can be let as soon as possible.

The stone walls of the old horse barn—all that remained after the fire which gutted the building—were pushed over last week.

At International Contest

Poultry Judging Team Ranks 4th

The K-State poultry judging team placed fourth in the International poultry judging contest in Chicago yesterday.

Twenty teams were entered in the contest. Arkansas university placed first, Texas university second, and Rutgers university, New Brunswick, N.J., third.

Ray Morrison is the new coach of the K-State team, replacing T. B. Avery this year. Avery is now head of the poultry husbandry department.

In the past 13 years, K-State has won five international titles. It has placed second 4 times, third place once, fourth place twice, and seventh place once. They have won the international title 9 times in the past 31 years. In winning in 1954 in Chicago, K-State retained their third rotating cup—each of which had to be won three times for permanent possession.

Student judges who made the trip to Chicago were Nelson Galle, AEd Jr, Dale Tindell, PH Sr, Bill Brethour, AA Soph, and David Mugler, AA Soph. The team is expected to return from Chicago tomorrow.

Christmas Cards On Sale Now

A modern Christmas tree and an abstract Santa Claus are two of the designs used on the Art club Christmas cards. The cards will be on sale in Anderson until Christmas. The profits from the cards will be used for the activities of the club.

Members of the club submitted card designs and the six used were chosen by a judging committee.

Today and Tomorrow

State Horticulturists Here for Meeting

K-State will be host Thursday and Friday to the 89th annual meeting of the Kansas State Horticultural society.

Featured speakers this year include J. P. Fulton, plant pathologist from the University of Arkansas; Audrey D. Hibbard, horticulturist from the University of Missouri; and Victor M. Watts, head of the University of Arkansas department of horticulture.

The annual business meeting of the society, at which new officers will be elected, will be combined with a dinner at the College cafeteria at 6 Thursday night.

Other highlights will be a trustees' breakfast at 7:30 Thursday morning, and a trip to the horticultural farm Friday afternoon.

The Thursday morning program will be devoted to talks on irrigating horticultural crops by Watts and Hibbard, to be followed by a general discussion.

Thursday afternoon K-State horticultural specialists will report on trials with watermelons, cantaloupes, strawberries, sweet potatoes, control of fireblight, and vegetable crop insect control.

Student Health

Four girls and twelve boys are in the Student Health hospital.

The girls are Mary Reed, Carol Bowen, Sally Coleman, and Beverly Sims.

The boys are Gayle Griffith, Mohinder Sabhlok, Joe Evans, Tom Allen, Delmar Conner, Wells Rader, Larry Karlen, Robert Circle, J. B. Sheets, Larry Dean Benton, Bill Swenson, and Paul Faidley.

Cow's Chassis Must Be Classy—Weber

Cows as well as gals have to watch their diets these days if they're going to do well in front of the judging experts.

This seemed to be the story at the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago last week at which Dean A. D. (Dad) Weber picked the grand champion steer.

Dr. Weber said he was thinking like a housewife when he picked a teenage girl's streamlined angus as the grand champion steer of the exposition.

Housewives are laying down the rules for cattle judging these days he said and he kept that in mind when he picked the steer as king of the big farm show.

"The housewife doesn't like fat—she trims it off," Weber said. For that reason, the current trend is away from "too fat" animals.

"An animal with a sagging waist-line can't get by a cattle judge any more than a gal with a 'spare tire' around her waist would stand a chance with Atlantic City beauty contest judges," he said.

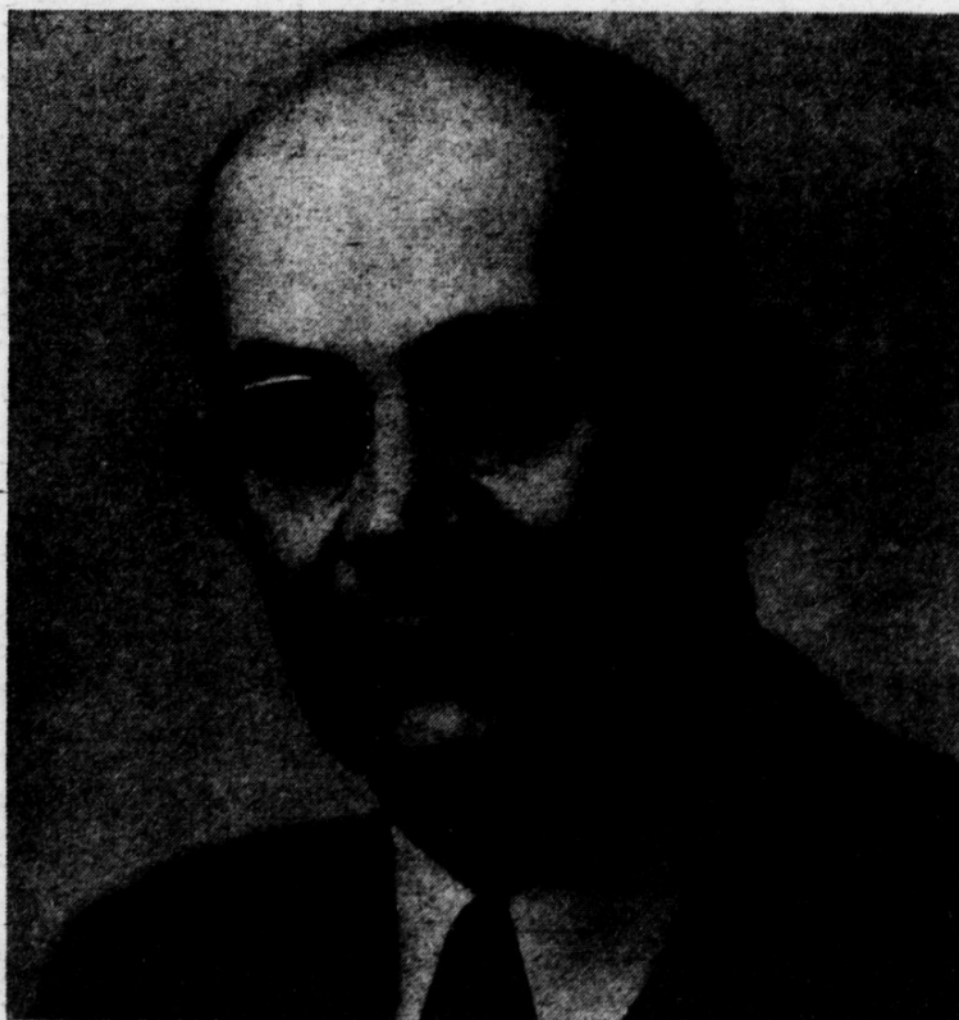

Weber, who has picked the grand champion for eight straight years, said a certain amount of fat is necessary on a top steer however, to provide flavor.

"In judging steers, the quality of the meat is also considered," he said.

Weber's comment on beef finish—the amount of fat an animal carries—was regarded by some feeders as one of the most significant changes in the industry in the last 50 years.

Elaine Olson, Ag Jr, placed third in her class with a steer.

"It was a very strong class," Weber said.

Dr. A. D. (Dad) Weber
"... trim that fat"

Would You Pay Fee To Fix Parking Lot?

A proposition regarding charging a fee to park and drive on campus currently is being studied by a Student Council committee.

A possibility the committee is considering is to charge about $1 a year, with the amount collected used to aid in maintaining parking facilities on campus.

Some persons feel it is only right for students who use the lots to help in lot maintenance. Money collected for maintenance would lessen the amount to be provided by the College in upkeep, and would give the College more money for faculty salaries, etc.

Should Ask Drivers

Charging a parking and driving fee is okay—if car owners are willing to pay it. The Council shouldn't force a fee upon campus drivers if they don't want one. A poll or some other means could be used to test car-owner reaction concerning a fee.

Most car owners probably would be glad to pay $1 a year to drive and park on campus, if parking facilities would be improved. As one K-Stater put it, "If paying $1 would help straighten up the mess in the parking lot, I'm all for it."

Some owners might object to a fee because "persons not paying a fee would be messing up the parking lot I'm paying to maintain." But most of these persons would be helping to maintain the parking through payment of taxes to the state. They kick in quite a bit indirectly each year to help maintain Kansas State.

Lot To Be Surfaced

The College plans to blacktop the Student Union parking lot next summer, and plans to initiate one-way drives and diagonal parking. It may cost a little more for maintenance each year than the College is able to absorb so a parking fee might come in handy.

If, after studying the situation, the Council decides to levy a fee on campus drivers, we hope it isn't a trend toward charging a fee for everything around here. We have just about enough fees.—Gary Swanson.

At White House Conference

Kansas Adds Enrollment Puzzle To National Education Topics

Increasing enrollment is one of the biggest problems facing Kansas schools today, according to a report by the recent governor's conference on education.

The report was to be presented at the White House Conference on Education which ends today in Washington.

This enrollment problem also faces K-State, as pointed out by President McCain recently. "Enrollment at K-State will pass the 10,000 mark in another 10 years," McCain said.

Prof. Finis M. Green, head of the department of education, says this problem, along with Kansas' manpower requirements, was added to six topics originally sent out by a White House committee for all states for study.

Serious consideration of federal aid for schools was one of Kansas' major recommendations to the national conference.

Considerable controversy has been aroused this week at the Washington conference by Dr. John K. Norton of Columbia university, who said the federal government should quit "marking time" and give substantial aid to education.

In rebuttal, Ruth Cole, president of the Los Angeles board of education, argued that federal aid would make states like California pay for schools in states that now have inadequate school facilities. There is no evidence that any state cannot afford proper schools, she said.

A final conference report on the financing issue is due today.

At the Movies

'We're No Angels' Is Murder-Type Comedy

"We're No Angels," playing at the Co-ed tonight, is a comedy revolving around the sometimes murderous antics of three convicts escaped from a French penal colony.

The convicts hole up in a French storekeeper's house. They find out that the family is in financial trouble and that the daughter is having beau trouble. They decide to help, and proceed to do so in a hilarious but illegal fashion.

"Angels" is a happy comedy, and makes entertaining viewing. Humphrey Bogart turns in an excellent performance as the leader of the three convicts. Peter Ustinov and Aldo Ray turn in top performances as the other two convicts.

Over the Ivy Line

Rhino Steps in the Snow Just a Big Practical Joke

By Ann Weathers

"Gad, Whitley! It's a rhinoceros!" gasped one Cornell professor to another a few years ago as they followed large tracks in the snow across the campus. The tracks ran down to the shore of a lake from which the university draws its water supply.

The rhinoceros tracks led out over the frozen lake to a point about fifty feet from the shore, then ended at a large, gaping hole. Clearly, a vagrant rhino had wandered onto the ice, crashed through, and drowned.

The local newspapers trumpeted the story and, almost at once, half the population at Cornell quit drinking tap water. Those who continued to drink it swore that they could taste rhino.

How'd it get there? Well, it seems that a student was visiting a friend's home one day and noticed a wastepaper basket made from a rhinoceros foot. He borrowed it and, with a friend's help, filled it with scrap metal to make it heavier, then tied clothesline to either side of it.

The two men then moved across campus, holding the ends of the clothesline at a distance of about 30 feet from the rhinoceros foot, and raised and lowered it at rhinoceros-step intervals.

The University of North Dakota is jumping on the "more freedom for coeds" bandwagon on an experimental basis until after Christmas vacation.

Starting December 1, closing hours for women's residence halls will be midnight during the week. Shades of Susan B. Anthony! Women are being emancipated again!

Coeds, if you wish to walk out of your house after hours, there's a simple solution to the problem. Kill a black cat and make a pair of gloves from its hide. It's guaranteed that, wearing these gloves, you can walk around in the dark without being seen.

What's that? You'd rather stay in at night? Pshaw, there's no spirit of adventure in the younger generation. This is just one of the many superstitions designed to make the life of a college Joe or Jane easier.

For instance, if you're trying to avoid Student Death, (pardon, "Health") it's handy to know that "cobwebs applied to a wound will staunch the flow of blood," and that "eating hailstones will prevent fever."

A few more hints for the student: "The seventh son in a family could become a successful doctor." Also "a girl with teeth far apart is very passionate;" "Never untie a ribbon on a diploma; always slip it off, or you will have bad luck."

Suddenly, from out of nowhere, this poem flashes into sight:

"Tests, tests, everywhere,
With drops and drops of ink;
And never a prof who'll leave the room
And allow a guy to think."

French Premier Fires Assembly

From United Press

PARIS—The government of Premier Edgar Faure decided last night to dissolve the French national assembly in preparation for national elections in 20 or 30 days.

The decision, which postponed fixing a definite election date, was without precedent in French history for more than three-quarters of a century.

The move came after the assembly voted no confidence in Faure Tuesday by a 318-218 vote.

CHICAGO—"I'm more hopeful than ever" that President Eisenhower will be a candidate for President next year, Leonard Hall, GOP national chairman, told party leaders here last night.

Eisenhower "has never looked fitter," Hall said.

CHICAGO—Death came to the nation's highways early on this safe-driving day. Reports from United Press and other news services showed five dead by 8 a.m.

This is the second-annual observance of S-D Day, a day set aside to bring to citizens' attention the toll that highway accidents take.

TEL AVIV, ISRAEL—Israeli forces repulsed Egyptian attacks in the Kissufim area near the Gaza border strip yesterday, the official Israeli military spokesman said today.

Egyptian forces opened fire on an Israeli patrol in the area, while a second Egyptian force attempted to advance into the outskirts of the settlement, the spokesman said.

HONG KONG—Former Pvt. Richard Tenneson of Alden, Minn., an American turncoat who elected to remain with the Communist Chinese, failed to appear at the Hong Kong border today.

The Chinese Communists had announced his release. U.S. Consul S. M. Backe went to the border to meet the train from Red China.

The sale of 137 graduation invitations and the collection of $68.50 in senior fees was announced today by the Kansas State College Press.

This year's sales were termed "above average" by Byron Ellis, Superintendent of College Press. A total of $692.45 worth of announcements and name cards were sold.

Thirty-two boys and eight girls ordered name cards in addition to announcements. Twenty-nine seniors ordered printed cards and 11 ordered engraved name cards.

The invitations and name cards will be available about two weeks before graduation, Ellis said.

Varsity Cagers To Meet Frosh Friday Night

LOOKING FORWARD to an improved season over the record of last season's team is the K-State varsity, they are from left to right, Parr, Fischer, Stone, Schneider, and Vicens.

A "potentially better" K-State varsity quintet will show a sample of its wares when it meets the freshman cagers in Ahearn field house tomorrow night at 7:30.

Last year the varsity had to hustle to pull out a 114-97 win. This year Freshman Coach Howie Shannon believes the margin of victory for the varsity will be greater.

"We're not as deep this year as last, but we do have a few good boys who could help the varsity in coming years, but as far as this game goes, the varsity will murder us," Shannon said.

Varsity Coach Tex Winter doesn't think so. "I am well pleased with the freshman team. I think they will give the varsity a pretty good tussle."

"The freshman team is reinforced with four good sophomores who are eligible for the varsity. They have been a little slow in practice and we are letting them work with the freshmen till they come around," Tex said.

The four sophomores are 6-4 Chuck Hollinger, 6-4 Henry Pierce, 6-5 Bob Jedwabny, and 5-11 Don Matuszak.

Winter announced his probable starting varsity lineup as 6-3 Dick Stone and 6-5 Larry Fischer at forwards; 6-9 Jack Parr at center; and 5-9 Pachin Vicens and 6-3 Fritz Schneider at guards.

Probable starting lineup for the frosh, according to Shannon, is Matuszak and 6-0 Jim Holwerda at the guard spots; 6-7 Robert Boozer at center; and Hollinger and 6-0 Gene Miller at forwards.

Varsity, Frosh Grid Awards to 61 Men

Twenty-eight football players won grid letters for their play with the 1955 Wildcat team, Head Coach Bus Mertes announced this week.

Guards Ellis Rainsberger, E. St. Louis, Ill.; Wally Carlson, Vermillion; Burt Schmidt, Newton; Rudy Bletscher, Detroit; George DeBittetto, White Plains, N.Y.; and Tom Gowing, Spring Hill; Centers Jim Furey, Newark, N.J.; and Kerry Clifford, Wichita.

Quarterbacks Bob Whitehead, St. Louis, Mo.; and Dick Corbin, Stafford; Halfbacks Ralph Pfeiffer, Hays; Kenny Nesmith, Manhattan; Dick Allen, Knoxville, Tenn.; Tony Addeo, Newark, N.J.; Jerry Hayes, El Dorado; and Keith Wilson, Birmingham, Ala.; and fullbacks Doug Roether, Milford; Bill Carrington, Kansas City, Mo.; and Ray Glaze, Baltimore, Md.

The 28 Wildcat gridders were honored at a football banquet presented by the Manhattan Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night. Wilbur Stocks, Newton, also received a monogram for his work as student manager. Stocks, former Wildcat end sidelined with an injury, is the first student manager ever to receive a letter.

Freshman football players at Kansas State who won frosh numerals for this season include 33, 26 of them from Kansas.

Announced along with the varsity winners at the annual K-State football banquet Tuesday night, the yearlings honored include Joe Amayo, Kansas City; Dwight Bennett, Sterling; Ronald Beshk, Chicago; Charles Blevins, Ft. Scott; Richard Boyd, Mankato; Bill Brown, Pittsburg.

Bill LaLonde, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Ronald Leonard, Quinter; Jim Luzinsky, Chicago; Gene McCurdy, Hays; Joe Malott, Lawrence; Don Martin, Broughton; Gene Meier, Bunker Hill; Louis Melsner, Cleveland; John Mike-sich, Bonner Springs; Gerry Overtton, Kansas City; Jerry Sand, Beatrice, Neb.; Robert Schmidt, Corbin; Dean Skaer, Augusta; Mike Solatka, Waukegan, Ill.; Jaydee Stinson, Lawrence; and Frank Trusky, Braddock, Pa.

The frosh lost both games they played this year. The first game was played at Lawrence against the KU frosh, the final score being 18-13. The second game was played against the Nebraska frosh, with the visitors winning 3-0 on a field goal scored in the last 25 seconds of play.

K-Club Initiation, Pictures Tonight

K-Club will initiate all senior football players and others who have not yet been initiated today at 7:30 p.m. in the K room in Ahearn gym.

All K-Club members will meet at Illustrations hall at 8 p.m. for the club picture. Letter sweaters or jackets are requested to be worn for the picture.

You'll be pleased with a Collegian want ad.

KU has been established in some circles as the favorite to win the Big Seven basketball crown this season.

This leads us to ask just what the Big Seven can produce in the way of national rankings? If KU wins the conference, the KU frosh will be established as the best team in the Big Seven by virtue of their 81-71 win over the KU varsity recently.

Even with Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain, this was quite a feat. In fact, it's the first time the KU freshmen ever beat the varsity.

But there's the question of just how much this freshman-varsity game meant. It could be that the varsity was playing "under wraps" to give the 7-foot Philadelphian a little more publicity.

If that was the idea, the KU cagers probably succeeded. For the game got top play in Eastern newspapers.

The 14,000 persons who turned out for the game probably set another record for frosh-varsity play at KU. And it reminds me of a similar situation at West Virginia a few years ago.

"Hot Rod" Hundley, West Virginia's all-American, packed them in when he was a freshman, too. One visiting team was surprised to come into the field house there and find a capacity crowd where usually there were only a few staunch fans.

The visitors soon found out the reason. When the freshman game was over, most of the people got up and walked out. They were interested only in the sensational Hundley.

Talk around town has it that Big Seven coaches won't have to worry about their jobs for the three years following this one.

The figuring is that, with Wilt the Stilt at KU, the Hawks will have the league sewed up so tight that the pressure will be off the other Big Seven coaches.

Things just don't work out that way, however. As an example, look at Big Seven football. Bud Wilkinson and his Sooners have had the conference crown cinched for seven years. Is there pressure on the other teams to win?

For the answer, look at what has happened to Jules Sikes, Abe Stuber, Bill Glassford, et al. Now the wolves are making hungry glances at Chuck Mather, Dal' Ward, and the split-T daddy, Don Faurot.

If any team dominates the conference in any major sport for too long, things start to get rough for all the coaches. It's a matter of produce, or else . . .

Don't sell the Cats short in the Big Seven basketball race. They've been looking good in practice, and should come around to give Big Seven quintets plenty of trouble.

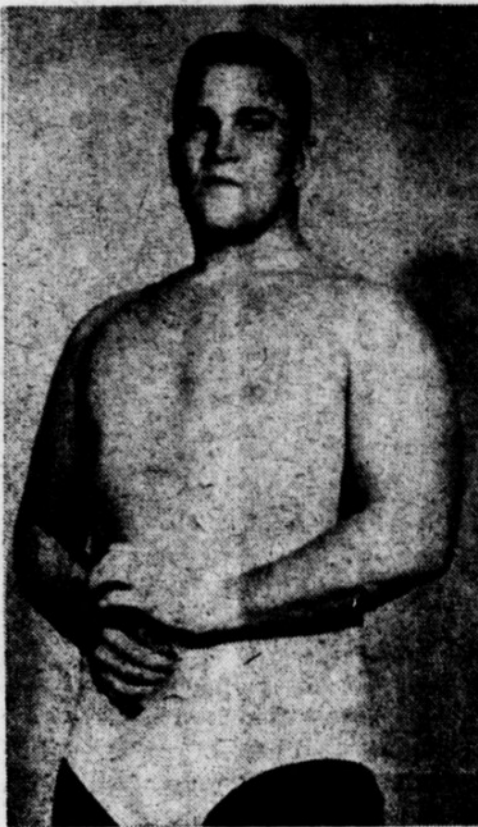

If 6-9 Jack Parr comes through as expected at the center post, and if Dick Stone and Pachin Vicens continue their fine play of a year ago, the Cats could be as good as any recent Cat team.

Army Inducts Cat Wrestler

Kenny Ellis, captain of last season's wrestling team, was inducted into the army last week.

Ellis, who has been awarded two wrestling letters in his three years of college, placed second in the NCAA wrestling meet in both 1953 and 1954, and accumulated a total of 33 points last season.

"Kenny has run up a fine wrestling record while in college. He took part in 27 matches, winning 19 and losing 8," Coach Fritz Knorr said.

Kenny Ellis
Heavyweight wrestler

"He weighed in at 250 pounds for action this season and was K-State's bid for the NCAA wrestling championship," Knorr added.

Ellis will be replaced on the squad by Ellis Rainsberger, who was named football captain for the 1956 season at Tuesday night's grid banquet. "If we had to wrestle next week, Rainsberger would fill the vacancy left by Ellis and fill it well," Knorr said.

Two other heavyweights have reported for wrestling action since the close of the football season, they are Rudy Bletscher and Raymond Glaze.

Glaze received a monogram for freshman wrestling last year. This will be the first season that Bletscher has bene out for the sport.

Double Overtime Win to Rho Alphas

The Rho Alphas downed the Rebels 27-25 in a double overtime game in intramural basketball last night to throw their division into a three-way tie for first place. The Rho Alphas, Rebels, and Hillbillies all have 3-1 records to share the top spot in Division five.

The Pushovers moved into first place in Division four by edging the Gammas, 27-23. The Pushovers showed a balanced scoring attack. Larry Olson of the Gammas was top scorer of the evening with 15 points.

A tie game was declared between the Globetrotters and the Phantoms after their game stood 28-28 at the end of a double overtime. The game will be figured as a tie in league standings. The High Plains Leaguers edged the RumDums 26-25 after leading by one point at half-time.

Sigma Chi beat Pi Kappa Alpha 25-7 in a fraternity division game. Ron McKinnie led the Sigma Chi's with three field goals.

The Jumpin' Jacks, after a half-time tie, held YMCA to two points in the second half while scoring twenty to win 28-10.

The Sigma Phi Epsilon team used the fast break to win its first game of the year, 36-10, over winless Farmhouse. Nine men scored for the Sig Eps and six Farmhousers scored in a display of balanced offenses.

The Highlanders overcame a two point halftime deficit to win over Acropolis 26-17. Norman Beneke and Darrel Walingsford led their respective teams with nine points apiece.

Crowning an overtime-plagued session, the evening's final game was won by the Kansas City Athletics, in a single overtime, as they defeated Wesley Foundation, 34-30.

Tonight's schedule:
6:45—west court—Kappa Sigma vs Alpha Gamma Rho; center—Phi Kappa Tau vs Beta Sigma Psi; east—Acacia vs Lambda Chi Alpha.

7:35—west—Alpha Tau Omega vs Delta Sigma Phi; center—Sigma Nu vs 1834 Club; east—Beta Theta Pi vs Phi Delta Theta.

8:25—west—Theta Xi vs Tau Kappa Epsilon; center—Phi Kappa vs Alpha Kappa Lambda; east—Men's Boys vs Vets.

K-State Coed's Angus Steer Places 3rd in Chicago Meet

White Foot, the black Angus steer of Elaine Olson, TJ jr, stepped into third place at the International Livestock exposition in Chicago last Monday.

In gaining a triumph for Elaine, the 1,050 pound Angus steered honors away from 70 head in the summer yearling Angus class. Competition in this class is limited to steers born between May 1 and September 1, 1954. This same class produced the Grand Champion steer of the show.

K-State was well represented at the Exposition in both the showing and judging fields. Arthur Weber, Dean of Agriculture and director of the agricultural experiment station was the first American selected to judge the show. The honor has previously gone to judges from foreign countries. In regard to the summer yearling Angus class, Dean Weber described it as "a very strong class."

White Foot, a grandson of Black Peer 28 Angus Valley, was purchased in October 1954, by Elaine and her twin cousins, Phil and Bill Patterson of Junction City. Phil and Bill, who own half interest, fed the steer through the winter and then when school was out last spring they returned White Foot to Elaine's home in Council Grove.

Elaine spent a great deal of her time working on the steer during the summer. "I spent at least two hours a day brushing White Foot. The work paid off when he was reserve champion Angus steer at the American Royal in Kansas City in October," she said.

"I arrived in Chicago in time to help Phil and Bill fit the steer," Elaine said. They won trips to Chicago as members of Geary County's state champion 4-H livestock judging team.

"We knew competition could be

tough," she said. "I was very pleased about the place White Foot received. The steer that won the show was outstanding."

Although she is just 20, Elaine is rapidly achieving a reputation of being able to raise cattle that can come away with honors in major competition.

Elaine is the only Kansas 4-H club member to show the grand champion steer for two years at the Kansas State Fair at Hutchinson. She showed one in 1949 and in 1953.

In 1952, she was the 4-H state beef champion and won a trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago. Her father, Andrew Olson, prominent Angus breeder, won the same trip in 1929.

Elaine has had the top-light-weight Angus steer at the American Royal two years in a row. She has also had the reserve grand champion junior steer once and has had a couple of reserve champion Angus.

After his triumph in Chicago, White Foot was sent to the C. E. Yoder and Sons farm in Muscatine, Iowa. They are feeding the steer until he is sold.

White Foot's next showing will be in the National Western Livestock Show at Denver in January.

Genies, Powder, Girls Plague 'Aladdin' Director

Genies, flash powder, and dancing girls are causing Don Hermes, director of the forthcoming play, "Aladdin and the Wonderful Lamp," a lot of trouble these days.

Every time the genie appears in the play he is supposed to be preceded by a flash of fire and a puff of smoke. The problem is how to obtain the type flash powder used by photographers 30 years ago, Hermes added. The powder would be ideal, but it is practically out of production, he said.

The genie is made of cloth and will hang on springs from a special frame work. His appearance and disappearance was also a problem, Hermes said. It was solved by putting the genie behind a transparent screen. Lights will be turned on in front of the screen making the genie invisible. When he is to appear the lights will dim and the genie itself will light up and show through the screen, Hermes explained.

The genie is supposed to produce a fairy castle in one part of the play, and how this is to be done is also a problem, Hermes said. Projecting a slide on a light back drop is being experimented, he said.

Even if this method is satisfactory, Hermes said that he still has to locate a color slide of a fairy castle.

The dancing girls' costumes present a major problem, Hermes said. It seems that the prescribed costumes for dancing girls require a strategically placed jewel. What is worrying the director is how to anchor the jewels onto the strategic spot.

Added to the above problems is that of rehearsals, Hermes said. Often the College Band and dramatic groups need the Auditorium at the same time, he said.

"Aladdin" is to be presented in the Auditorium on the evening of December 16 and the morning of December 17.

The Army is the oldest of the armed services. Officially organized on June 14, 1775, it can trace its history, with unbroken continuity to the Continental Army. The Navy and Marine Corps, established in November and December of 1775, were disbanded following the Revolutionary War and re-established several years later.

Coed Becomes Acquainted With Kansas Newspapers

Doreen Cronkite

"I bet I know the officers of more clubs and the backgrounds of more queens than any person on the campus."

Those are the words of Doreen Cronkite, who works for the K-State News Bureau. Job of the Bureau is to inform home town papers of the social and academic doings of citizens at K-State. "Most of the stories I write are about people," she said.

"There are over 300 weeklies and 50 dailies in Kansas, and I've written to most of them at one time or another," she said. "The work is interesting to me because it gives me the chance to inform people about what's going on, both on and off the campus," Doreen said. "I like to do public information work anyway and I enjoy typing."

Doreen said that the job did not affect her grades and that last nine weeks grades were the best she's ever posted. "I don't think the job has hurt my grades any," she said. "It does interfere with my library work, though."

Doreen, who worked at a book store during her freshman and sophomore years at State, puts in about 15 hours a week at the News Bureau. "The job is not an absolute necessity, but it's nice to get the income it provides," she said. "I think I'm getting paid enough, although some workers on the campus are underpaid."

Snowball Is Scene Of FMOC Honors

By ROYANNE McMULLEN

The Favorite Man On Campus is to be crowned at intermission of the Snowball, Saturday night by Dean Doretta Schlaphoff of the School of Home Economics.

The girl-ask-boy dance, sponsored by the Home Economics Council, will be in Nichols gymnasium beginning at 9 p.m. Bill Heptig will play for the semiformal affair.

The FMOC will be presented by Kathy Burns, president of the Home Economics Council.

Betty Winkley, Snowball chairman, will present the four runners-up who will be attendants, and introduce other candidates.

Voting was to end today in the contest. Only ticket holders are allowed to vote.

A lighted Christmas tree and a decorated sleigh will carry out the Christmas theme of the dance. Couples will enter through a white door, and snowflakes will hang from a false ceiling of crepe paper.

Committee chairmen and the home economics clubs they represent are: Peggy Howard, FMOC; Susie Cliborn, decorations, Art club; Dorothy Crawford, ticket sales, Teaching; Gaye Fryer, publicity, Journalism; Pat Burton, refreshments, Dietetics and Commercial Demonstration; Marjory Bearg, coat check, Clothing and Retailing; Elizabeth Grimble, presentation, Nursing; Ardella Rusk, setting up, Extension; Betty Straub, clean-up, Child Welfare; Kathryn Regier, floor, and Ruth Kohr, dorm skits.

KU Ex-Chancellor Sends Kin To K-State

By PAT CLARY

Former chancellor of the University of Kansas, Dean Malott, has advised at least one undecided high school graduate of the value in attending K-State.

Joel Mallot, nephew of the former KU chancellor, accepted the advice of his uncle and is now a physical education freshman here.

"He (Chancellor Mallot) said I'd get a good general education here and I think he was right," said Joel. "He advised me to come to Manhattan, and the rest of my family approved, too."

It wasn't as simple a decision as it sounds, though, because Joel spent two weeks at East Texas State Teachers college early this fall. Football coach there is Jules V. Sikes, former KU coach.

"I just didn't like the school," Joel said. "As he returned to Kansas, and Kansas State gained a freshman halfback."

"I thought I'd have a chance to play under a better system here more than anywhere else," he said. "I want to play good football, and this is a good place to try."

Joel, four-year letterman, at Lawrence high school thought the better team won when K-State and KU fought it out two weeks ago. "There didn't seem to be much of a game to it," he said.

As for the Kansas State-Kansas university freshman game he said, "K-State should have won; KU was just lucky." The score of that contest was 18-13, favoring KU.

Joel is preparing for a coaching career, and before graduation of course, he would like to letter in varsity football.

"I can't see much future in playing professional football, even if a guy's good enough," he said.

Joel isn't the only K-State football product from Lawrence. Jay-dee Stinson, ArE, freshman guard, is also from down the Kaw.

Could it be that someday K-State football fans will be thankful for the time a former University of Kansas chancellor advised his nephew to enroll at K-State for "a good general education?"

Organizations Ignore Bids For SU Space

Unless financial reports, organizational reports, and advanced schedule reports for use of the new Student Union are turned in by the campus organizations to the Student Activities board by December 10, the scheduling privileges will be withdrawn, Pat Loyd, chairman, said yesterday.

Notices were sent to 146 campus organizations, and only 38 of them returned the data, he said. A second notice was sent to the delinquent organizations but nothing has been received from them yet.

Mortar Board Plans Banquet

The K-State sophomore girls who had the highest grade averages in their freshman year to be honored by a dinner Monday at 6 p.m. in the College Cafeteria.

Sponsored by Mortar Board, the scholarship dinner is an annual affair and all girls, women faculty members, and Mortar Board alums are invited to attend, Doreen Cronkite, publicity chairman, said yesterday.

U. S. Made Serious Error Skirting Asia Meet—Cousins

Norman Cousins

By HARRY MACHIN, JR.

When the United States skirted attendance at the Bandung Asian-African Conference last April, they missed a supreme chance to gain the support of a majority of the world's people, Norman Cousins, Saturday Review editor, said this morning at the all-college assembly.

Cousins, introduced by President McCain as a distinguished writer and authority on world affairs, said the United States believed the Bandung conference to be an attempt to set up a Communist inspired "Asian UN" and so was not represented there.

Cousins was at the Bandung conference and said it was not the intention of the Asian-African peoples to reject the United Nations in any way.

The Asians made it clear that their people do not want outside rule from any nation.

"It was more than a conference, it was a celebration. It seemed that Asian peoples had stood on different lines for centuries waiting for this chance to mingle equally," Cousins said. "By misjudging the importance and sponsorship of this meeting, the UN lost ground in the cold war."

"Like other Asians, India has been undergoing a change both in pride and faith. Anyone who presented himself as a champion would get a reception, probably an ovation," Cousins said.

Russian leaders, among them Chou En Lai, were present at the conference and were ready to offer the Asian and African peoples what they wanted.

"Communist strategy has shifted. They aim to speak for the majority of the world's people and feel that the UN cannot," Cousins said.

"They know that if one more major nation should go under their domination, then for the first time Communism would speak for the majority."

Cousins does not believe that the United States and the United Nations are well enough informed on the Asian situation to match Communism's offers in such a showdown as existed at Bandung.

"We of the United States have rather distorted ideas about India and Indian government. Nehru has been identified as a stooge of the Communists. But Nehru is as far to the right as you can go. The rest of India is to his left," Cousins said.

"Recently, America's largest magazine printed an incomplete and inaccurate story about Nehru and the Bandung conference which intimated that Nehru was a stooge of the Communists," Cousins said. "It was primarily due to the magazine's going to press before the conference was completed and therefore before all the facts were known."

Cousins attributes much of America's mistaken ideas about Asia and India in particular to the American press.

According to Cousins, the press suffers from these principle diseases. These are:

1. The obsession with a deadline. If news is missed by a deadline, it is often forgotten. "History cannot be blamed if big events happen after the publication has gone to press," Cousins said.
2. Cravings for a brawl. The clash of personalities are raised to a monopoly status. Sometimes inspired agreements among men produce great historic events, Cousins pointed out.
3. The obsession for the "inside story." This search often leads us to miss visible and important events, Cousins said.

Meats Judgers Place Seventh At Chicago Meet

The meats judging team placed seventh out of twenty-three teams competing at the Intercollegiate Meats Judging contest in Chicago Tuesday.

High individual in beef grading was Francis Menghini, PrL Jr, while Walter Martin, AH Jr, took second in pork judging.

Iowa took first in the contest, followed by Wisconsin and Ohio State.

The K-State team was seventh in beef judging, fourth in lamb judging, and eighteenth in pork; in grading classes, the team took fifth in beef and third in lamb.

Besides Menghini and Martin, Jim Withers, Ag Soph, and Dick Roesler, AA Jr, represented K-State at the Chicago meet. The four were chosen to make the trip out of a squad of eight meats judgers.

Council Cancels Planned Preview Of Student Union

K-State students won't get to see the inside of the new Student Union before it opens sometime around February 1, Bob Alexander, program director of the union, said yesterday.

A Promotion Week, planned by the Union Program Council to be held during the week of December 12 to 17, have been called off because the building is still in the hands of the contractor and it will be impossible to find time to hold such an event between the time it is turned over by the contractor and furnished for the opening.

Eight Staters To Debate In Nebraska

Eight K-Staters are to debate in a speech tournament at Wayne State Teachers college, Wayne, Nebraska, December 2 and 3.

Those competing are Kay Ep-lee, Clo Fr, Nancy Porter, Sp Soph, Robert Paulson, ChE Fr, Calvin Adams, AgE Soph, Ed McCoy, PrL Soph, Robert Owen, Sp Sr, Barbara Denton, EEd Fr, and Ron Buchanan, ME Sp.

The tournament is divided into team debates, individual discussions, and special individual events, Charles Goetzinger, director of forensics, said yesterday.

Everyone is to compete in team debates, McCoy will compete also in individual discussion. His topic will concern racial desegregation in public schools, Goetzinger said.

Storytellers Tour Schools

Aladdin's Story

... for the younger set

The Kansas State Players, currently working on their production of "Aladdin and the Wonderful Lamp" to be given in the Auditorium December 16 and 17, are going to tell the story of Aladdin to Manhattan fourth and fifth graders next Thursday afternoon.

Three of the five K-State story tellers who will relate the adventures of Aladdin at the various Manhattan grade schools are shown above. They are Claudette Frank, EEd Jr; Elaine Raile, EEd Sr, and Dorothy Spitzer, EEd Jr. Also in on the story telling, but not shown in the picture are Margaret Rose, EEd Sr, and Sally Salisbury, EEd Jr.

Glamorous Reputation, Condescending Attitude Hurt America in Eyes of Foreign Students at KS

By Bev Ringey

Two main things are wrong with relationships between the United States and people of foreign countries, Subhi Qasem, plant pathology senior from Jordan, believes.

"One thing is the fabulous and exciting picture of the United States that is painted for the foreign countries. The other is the feeling of superiority and the condescending attitude that some Americans have towards foreigners," Subhi said.

"I like the United States, and am impressed by the high standards of living and the technological and agricultural advancement of the U.S., but I still think it is given too glamorous a buildup in other countries," he added.

Some students on campus have a bad attitude toward foreign students. Tolerance of foreigners is at its lowest point in the K-State freshmen and sophomores, Subhi said. It also apparently is with him," Subhi said.

"I live with an American student, and you might say that by living with him I have made him half Arab in his thinking and he has made me half American," he added.

"Coming here with a completely different cultural background I found it quite easy for me to integrate into the American way of life. Most of the people I have met have been very nice to me."

While there are things he dislikes, there also are things he especially likes. He thinks all of the instructors he has had have been understanding of his problems, and have given much time to help him adjust. He thinks the Cosmopolitan club could be a fine organization and better do the purpose for which it is set up—promoting understanding between nations—if there were more American students in the club.

"Americans know very little, really, about other countries, but there is a wealth of information just for the asking in Cosmopolitan club," Subhi said.

Subhi plans to do graduate work somewhere in the states and, after he gets his Doctor's degree, will go home to "do his best to improve conditions" in his own country.

At the Movies

Spillane's 'Kiss' Rough, Tough

"Kiss Me Deadly" finds rough and tough Mike Hammer (Ralph Meeker) on the trail of a hot box. What's in it is anybody's guess, but the Manhattan atomic project doesn't have anything hotter.

Shoes, knives, sports cars, and lovely corpses pile up as Mike's bloodhound scent gets stronger. Just what was in Mickey Spillane's brain-box when he wrote this one is beyond this writer's imagination. The movie producer went wild with trick shots, making the photography really novel. Those who love tough-boy antics and the pose of death shouldn't miss this one.—W. W.

"Damn, look at that line! I forgot it was assembly day."

25 Cents Isn't Much

But Why Pay Twice To See Cats Play?

Why do K-State students have to pay 25 cents tonight to watch OUR basketball team play the freshmen? Haven't we paid a good sum to support K-State athletics this year?

It's true that tonight's contest isn't a regularly scheduled game. But why should we be able to get into ONLY regularly scheduled games with our activity tickets?

It looks like the athletic department is trying to squeeze just a little more money out of the students to finance an athletic program which actually doesn't seem to be designed for the students. Take for instance the fact that we had only four home football games this year, and will have only four next year.

Twenty-five cents isn't much money, and the admission price won't keep many students away from the game tonight. But it's 25 cents that the student shouldn't have to pay.—Gary Swanson.

64 Die on S-D Day; French Assembly Out

From United Press

CHICAGO—Safety experts expressed disappointment today over the nation's poor showing on Safe Driving Day.

The 24-hour period ending at midnight last night showed 64 persons dead on the nation's streets and highways.

The figure was well above the 51 persons killed in the first S-D Day on December 15 last year.

TOKYO—The Republic of Korea is ready to war on Japan to halt Japanese violations of the so-called Rhee "peace" line in the waters off South Korea, Radio Seoul said in its first Japanese-language broadcast.

PARIS—Premier Edgar Faure dissolved the French national assembly today, then hotly rejected accusations that he had violated the constitution.

The assembly ceased to exist with publication of a decree in the "Journal Officiel" and France prepared for its first winter elections since February of 1876.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was reported confident today that Nationalist China will not block admission of 13 free nations to the United Nations by refusing to admit Communist Outer Mongolia.

Dulles seemed convinced Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek ultimately would yield to personal pleas sent him by President Eisenhower.

WASHINGTON—Harlow H. Curtice denied today that General Motors corporation has resorted to unfair or questionable business practices to become the world's largest industrial concern.

Miller's High Life

Wow! What a headache I've got. You'd be amazed at the amount of research that goes into a column of this type. Oh well, at least, I'm not the only one having a rough time.

Think of the poor girls who are to play the parts of dancers in the K-State Players' production of "Aladdin's Wonderful Lamp." They have the problem of finding a way to fasten diamonds to their (if you'll pardon me) tummies as part of their dance costumes.

They first thought of trying rubber cement, but gave that up. At last report, they planned to glue the stones to flesh-colored tape, then fasten the tape in the proper position.

That sounds like a gem-dandy idea.

Speaking of rough times, I mustn't forget the poor sports official.

An official at a high-school football game in Illinois learned the hard way that "every dog has his day."

This pupdog didn't content himself with merely running out onto the field. He daringly bit the official in a tender spot as said official was bending over a pileup.

The dognipped official contemplated slapping a 5-yard penalty on the pup, but couldn't figure out which goalline Rover was defending.

Hindsight always is best. When the headline, "Poultry Judging Team Ranks 4th," appeared in yesterday's paper, I immediately had one of my brainstorms.

"Chicken Pickers Rank 4th" sounds much better to me.

Which reminds me of a recent news story from Georgia that told of the cotton picker who murdered his psychiatrist.

Right then and there I decided to quit using the words "cotton picker." From now on, I stick to "pea picker."

Name Contest Set For Mock Politicos

A contest to name the K-State political party in the mock political convention next spring is being conducted by the executive committee of the convention, Roe Borsdorf, public relations officer, said yesterday.

A prize will be given to the winner, who will be announced December 19, Borsdorf said.

Since the convention is to be nonpartisan and one-party in nature, some name must be selected to carry out that theme, he said.

THE TRUE AND TRAGICAL TALE OF HAPPY JACK SIGAFOOS

Who would have thought that Happy Jack Sigafos, the boy the sky never rained on, would ever teeter on the edge of a life of crime?

Certainly there was no sign of it in his boyhood. His home life was most tranquil and uplifting. His mother was a nice plump lady who hummed a lot and gave baskets to the poor. His father was a highly respected citizen who could imitate more than four hundred bird calls and once saved an elderly widow from drowning in his good suit. (That is, Mr. Sigafos was in his good suit; the elderly widow was in swimming trunks.)

.....Mr. Sigafos was in his Good Suit.....

Happy Jack's life was nothing short of idyllic—until he went off to college.

In college Happy Jack quickly became a typical freshman—tweedy, seedy, and needy. He learned the joys of rounding out his personality, and he learned the cost. His allowance vanished like dew before the morning sun. There were times, it grieves me to report, when he didn't even have enough for a pack of Philip Morris—and you know how miserable that can be! To be deprived of Philip Morris's gentle flavor, its subtly blended tastiness, its trauma-repairing mildness, its ineffable excellence—why, it is a prospect to break the heart in twain!

Happy Jack tried to get more money from home. He wrote piteous and impassioned letters pointing out that the modern large-capacity girl simply could not be maintained on his meagre allowance. But all Jack got from home were tiresome homilies about thrift and prudence.

Then one day a sinister sophomore came up to Jack and said, "I know how you can get more money from home." Jack said, "How?" and the sinister sophomore handed him a sheet of paper. "For one dollar," said the sinister sophomore, "I will sell you this list of fiendishly clever lies to tell your father when you need extra money."

Jack read the list of fiendishly clever lies:

1. A bunch of us fellows are getting together to buy a new house for the Dean of Men.
2. A bunch of us fellows are getting together to buy a headstone for Rover, our late, beloved dormitory watchdog.
3. A bunch of us fellows are getting together to buy the college a new fullback.
4. A bunch of us fellows are getting together to endow a chair of fine arts.
5. A bunch of us fellows are getting together to build our own space satellite.

For a moment, poor Jack was tempted; surely his father could not but support all these worthy causes. Then Jack's good upbringing came to the fore. He turned to the sinister sophomore and said, "No, thank you. I could not deceive my aged parent so. And as for you, sir, I can only say—Fie!"

Upon hearing this, the sinister sophomore broke into a huge grin. He whipped off his black hat and pasty face—and who do you think it was? None other than Mr. Sigafos, Happy Jack's father, that's who!

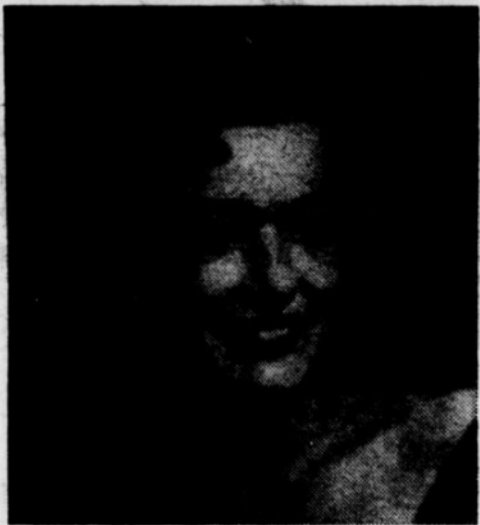

"Good lad," cried Mr. Sigafos. "You have passed your test brilliantly." With that he gave Happy Jack a check for a half million dollars and a red convertible containing four nubile maidens.

Crime does not pay!

Winning Teams Pick 31 Points for Score

The 7:45 p. m. intramural games last night produced the feat of all the winning teams scoring the same amount of points, 31. Kappa Sigma downed Alpha Gamma Rho 31-18, Beta Sigma Psi beat Phi Kappa Tau 31-20, and Acacia beat Lambda Chi Alpha 31-17.

The largest point spread of the evening occurred when Tau Kappa Epsilon romped over Theta Xi 38 to 17. After leading at half time 13 to 9, the Tekes pulled away to win easily.

Four men lead the scoring parade for the evening, one getting 14 while the other three collected 12. Al Tompkins was the leading scorer in guiding Kappa Sigma to their win over AGR. Beta Sigma Psi had two men, Bob Schumann and Jim Raffety, racking up 12 points while Garold Hodges was sacking 12 for Acacia.

In other games last night, Phi Kappa beat Alpha Kappa Lambda 29 to 14, Sigma Nu beat 1834 club 24 to 15, Beta Theta Pi beat Phi Delta Theta 20 to 19, Alpha Tau Omega beat Delta Sigma Phi 19 to 16, and the Vets downed Moms Boys 20 to 15.

The Vets-Moms Boys game was played to determine who would meet the Hui-O-Makules for the championship of group II of the independent division. The three teams ended the scheduled games in a tie for first. The winner of the group will be determined when they meet Monday night.

Three other group have ties that will have to be played off to determine who will enter the final tournament for the intramural championship.

In group V of the independent division, there is a three way tie among the Hillbillies, Rho Alps, and the Rebels. A drawing will be held today to decide the playoff schedule.

Group VI of the independent division has a two way tie between the High Plains Leaguers and the Kansas City Athletics. This playoff will be held Monday evening.

In the fraternity division, group II has a three way tie among Delta Tau Delta, Kappa Sigma, and Alpha Gamma Rho. The drawing for the playoff will be held this afternoon.

Two teams in both the independent and the fraternity divisions have won their group titles. West Stadium won the group III title and the Pushovers won the group IV crown in the independent division.

The group I crown in the fraternity division was won by Sigma Alpha Epsilon while Delta Sigma Phi took the group III title.

Tonight's games are the ones that were postponed from November 15. The 6:45 schedule: Delta Sigma Phi vs. 1834 Club on west court, Lambda Chi Alpha vs. Alpha Tau Omega on center court, and Phi Kappa vs. Beta Theta Pi on east court.

At 7:35 Tau Kappa Epsilon vs. Alpha Kappa Lambda on west court, Phi Delta Theta vs. Theta Xi on center court, and Jones Boys vs. DSF on east court.

Rounding out the night's games at 8:25 are La Citadel vs. Brewster Boys on west court, 69'ers vs. Kasbah on center court, and ISA vs. Eight Balls on east court.

AAA Baseball to Wichita

Wichita—(U.P.)—The arrival of American Association baseball was greeted warmly by most Wichita fans today.

The move that brought the Toledo team of the Milwaukee Braves to Wichita came as a surprise, but a welcome.

The Braves announced yesterday that they would move their Toledo franchise to the Kansas city after studying schedules that included Miami as a possible Association team.

Ray Dumont, president of the National Baseball Congress, Wichita, said this city is "a fine sports city and we welcome the American Association. More baseball fans, no doubt, will be created and the sport in general will benefit."

Emery Cox, park board director, said Wichitans should support American Association baseball "better than Western League."

The move was made on the recommendation of Joseph F. Cairnes, Milwaukee vice president.

Gridiron Foes Held Scoreless In 10 Quarters

Kansas State's football team held opponents scoreless through 10 consecutive quarters of the last four 1955 games. They shut out Oklahoma in the final period, blanked Kansas and Missouri through eight periods, and held Oklahoma A&M scoreless in the first quarter.

Cat Cagers Expect Improved Season

By BILL WHISTLER

Tonight the wraps come off the K-State varsity basketball team when they meet a spirited but undermanned frosh team.

The frosh are shallow in depth, but the team could produce a few good boys for the varsity in the coming years, frosh Coach Howie Shannon says.

Varsity Coach Tex Winter, and his starting five for tonight's game are enthusiastic about the way the team is shaping up.

"We are a little behind where we were at this time last year," Winter said, "but we are working two sophomores in with last year's regulars and have had to revise our offense due to the 12-foot free throw lane."

"I think all the conference teams are better this year with the exception of Missouri and Colorado," he said.

"Both teams, however, will be contenders again this year, as both return several outstanding boys," he said.

Wildcat senior forward, Dick Stone, says, "We have a good team. The way things shape up we should do better than we have in the last couple of seasons."

Pachin Vicens
Guard

Guard, Pachin Vicens is looking forward to a great season for the Cats, he says, "We have a well balanced ball club. We have a much better bench than last year which will give us added depth. We all feel we can win and we are going to try hard to do it. We also feel that Parr will make a big difference for us at center."

Fritz Schneider, junior guard, said, "It will be a wide open race this year. Anyone can win the conference crown but I feel this year will be our best chance for it."

Sophomore forward Larry Fischer says, "We are going to be great guns this season. The boys have a terrific attitude and we all have the desire and hustle to win."

Jack Parr, Sophomore center, says, "We're coming along alright. What I need is experience but I think we have real good possibilities as a team. We have good depth and we have a lot of boys with equal ability. I think we can win it."

Missouri opened play for Big Seven teams last night with a 71-46 victory over South Dakota. Norm Stewart scored 22 points for Missouri and was high scorer in the game.

Shockers To Open Season with Utah

Wichita, (U.P.)—Wichita Wheatshockers open their basketball season Saturday night when they meet Utah, now coached by Jack Gardner, former K-State coach.

In addition to being opening game of the season for the Shockers, they will be dedicating their new $1,500,000 field house. The field house is called the newest and most modern in the nation. It has 10,235 permanent seats and room for 1,000 temporary ones.

This season the Shockers meet such foes as Kansas, San Francisco, UCLA, Texas Christian, Southern Methodist and Santa Clara.

'56 Grid Schedule

Kansas State football schedule for 1956, announced today, shows the Wildcats playing the same opponents they met in 1955 with one exception, Michigan State.

September 22—Oklahoma A&M at Manhattan.
September 29—Colorado University at Boulder.
October 6—Oklahoma University at Norman.
October 13—Nebraska University at Lincoln.
October 20—Missouri University at Manhattan.
October 27—Wyoming University at Laramie.
November 3—Kansas University at Manhattan.
November 10—Marquette University at Milwaukee.
November 17—Iowa State at Manhattan.
November 24—Michigan State at East Lansing.

Nery, Roether Gain All-American Honors

Two K-State gridders, fullback Doug Roether and tackle Ron Nery, were given honorable mention on the Associated Press all-American team, announced this morning.

Roether had previously been named to both the AP and UP all Big Seven teams and Nery was on both second squads.

Tommy McDonald, fleet Oklahoma halfback, was the Big Seven's only representative on the all-star team. His teammate at OU, guard Bo Bolinger, was named to the second team.

Named to the first team by AP were: ends, Beagle, Navy, and Schnellenberger, Kentucky; tackles, Wiggins, Stanford, and D'Agostino, Auburn; guards, Brown, UCLA, and Bisceglia, Notre Dame; center, Pelligrini, Maryland; quarterback, Morrall, Michigan State; halfbacks, McDonald, and Cassidy, Ohio State; and fullback, Swink, TCU.

Beagle and Cassidy were repeaters from last year's team.

Wiggins, at 233 pounds, was the heaviest man on the squad and McDonald, at 170, the lightest.

Many outstanding individual performances are found in the statistics of the team. Morrall, quarterback of the Rose Bowl-bound Spartans, was the nation's leading punter with an average of 42.9 yards a kick.

Swink, TCU scatback, was the leading scorer on the team with 125 points. He was the Southwest conference's leading back and led the Horned Frogs to a berth in the Cotton Bowl January 2.

Cassidy, winner of the Heisman trophy as player of the year, has been called by his coach, Woody Hayes, as "the best back ever." He was the big punch in the Ohio State backfield that gave them the Big Ten championship for the second straight year.

Beagle, Navy's great end, teamed with the Middies' quarterback George Welsh, to make up a potent and dangerous passing attack.

The center of the strong Maryland line, which meets Oklahoma in the Orange bowl, was led by Bob Pelligrini. His jarring defensive play helped Maryland to an undefeated season and a third place national ranking.

McDonald, along with Wiggins and Swink, the only juniors on the squad, paced the Big Seven in scoring and rushing with 96 points and 702 yards.

A Campus-to-Career Case History

HE'S BUILDING A FOUNDATION FOR HIS FUTURE

Paul Guild, E.E., Purdue, '49, started as a student engineer with Long Lines—the Bell System unit that interconnects Bell Telephone Companies. In the student training program he became familiar with all operations of the business.

After that he spent two years on technical and engineering projects that took him to Indianapolis, Cleveland and Atlanta.

March of 1953 found Paul in Cincinnati working on the construction of radio relay routes. He worked with the newest microwave equipment that transmits television pictures and telephone conversations simultaneously.

In 1955, as part of his further development, Paul was transferred to a completely different assignment. He now supervises the important planning job of balancing a working force of 900 Long Distance operators with the ever-changing work load.

"I use my engineering background on this job, too," says Paul. "It's extremely interesting and has lots of responsibility. Besides, you need experience in more than one department to give you background."

Paul Guild is typical of young engineers in the Bell System. Similar career opportunities exist in the Bell Telephone Companies, Bell Telephone Laboratories, Western Electric and Sandia Corporation. Your placement officer has more information on these companies.

SU Will Have Group Offices

(This is the second in a series of feature stories on individual rooms or related areas in the nearly-completed Student Union.)

By PAUL JONES

In keeping with the idea of using the Student Union for activities other than those connected directly with the building, a room in the south wing of the second floor has been set aside for an organization office area.

"Purpose of the room is to provide student organizations with headquarters so they can perform functions that will provide the campus with a good social and cultural program," Loren V. Kottner, Union director, said.

A master events calendar will be kept in the room to list all campus events, he said.

"This will provide one spot where all events of concern to students can be posted. This will help avoid conflicts, and will give each event maximum opportunity for success."

The room will have seven desks, grouped in a circle. These will be assigned to organizations that have no headquarters. Kottner said they will be assigned for different lengths of time, depending upon need.

A modernistic ring of lights will be placed on the ceiling above the circle of desks, with one for each desk. The circular desk arrangement is a new trend in office layout, Kottner said.

Included in this area will be a room set off by wood and glass partitions for the office of Union Program Director Bob Alexander. The program assistant, Mrs. R. E. Waide, will have a desk in the same area.

The area also will contain a conference table and chairs, organization and activities files, typewriters, ditto machines, and a "line-o-scribe" printing press.

All of these machines will be available to students and organizations.

Alexander said he believes the "environment in itself will be a terrific stimulus to organizational expansion and growth."

The program director and program assistant will be close at hand to help students and organizations set up their activities. The machinery will enable them to make bulletins, notices, and posters.

The K-State Union will be a pioneer in having the Union staff assisting groups that are not directly connected with the Union.

For Married Persons Only

By SHIRLEY SAMUELSON

If you missed Wednesday's Collegian, perhaps you haven't heard about this column. It's about and for you—the married students at K-State.

The married element is large, and growing each semester. With so many married persons on the campus, many with children, there should be a great deal of informative and entertaining news.

Anyone who has news tips should call 68951. When odd or amusing situations arise in your neighborhood, we're interested.

For instance, one such amusing incident occurred last week when this reporter locked herself out of the house three times. When you're on the outside, and two crying babies are on the inside, it's not too funny, though.

The maintenance men didn't think it was funny either. In fact, they say they receive three or four calls each day to unlock doors in Hilltop and Elliot courts. The moral of this story is to not lock yourself out. It's cold out.

Word has been received of the birth of a son, Richard Wade, to Mr. and Mrs. Tom Sullivan on November 24. Tom was a 1954 graduate. They have two other children.

Dick Hooker and his wife increased Hilltop's population November 29 when a son was born to them. They have two other children.

Ever had a neighborhood pitch-in dinner? They're fun, and are a grand way to get to know your neighbors better. Convenient, too, when kiddies are involved, as no babysitter is needed. Everyone brings a dish and dinner's ready in a jiffy. Pinochle or bridge is later.

Don't forget to call us about the goings-on in your neighborhood. To make this column interesting, it will have to include news from you!

GOODNIGHT LADIES—Modeling their nighttime attire are Ginny Forbes in a track warmup, Wilma Ludwig in dad's white shirt, and Joline Boehner in a football uniform.

Coeds' Bedtime Attire Is Novel

By NAOMI TRUMBULL

Twas the night before Christmas and K-State coeds were nestled all snug in their wintry beds. But, even nestled in bed, a K-State coed will set a style of her own.

A peek into this nighttime phase of the fashion world reveals perhaps the most individualistic of all forms of attire.

Sports are expressed even in nightwear. When the mercury drops low, K-State coed Virginia Forbes wears a track warmup with a big number 75 on its back. On these cold winter nights, Mary Ellen Douglass also finds track warmups, complete with hood, fulfill her requirements for cozy sleeping.

Track is not the only sport reflected by starlight clothes.

Football is portrayed by Joline Boehner with a blue rayon jersey shirt and cotton bermuda shorts. The ensemble is completed with a white felt letter and knee-length socks. The socks are decorated with white stripes to match the ones on the shirt sleeves.

Some coeds weather the winter in shortie pajamas such as the flannels Noema Braman dreams in. Still upholding the K-State spirit, Noema chooses material of white background with purple dots and purple trimming.

Pat Roberts uses prison bars for a theme, but alternates gay bright red and feminine white instead of the cold traditional black and white stripes.

Women can economize one way or another in almost any field. Wilma Ludwig shows her economical and hereditary spirit by sleeping in her dad's shirts.

It doesn't matter if the coed is attired in ruffled nightgown, tailored pajamas, or an original novelty garment. Each dusk-to-dawn costume shows the coed's individuality and personality.

Tomorrow

Y-Mart Will Offer Gifts From Europe

Japanese prints, foreign dolls, brass from India, and Swiss wood carvings are only a few of the items on sale tomorrow at the YWCA's annual Y-Mart, Mrs. Paul Koefod, executive director of the YW, said.

Southern mountain weaving, Mexican pottery, trivets, French lollipops, decorated French candies, and magic sea shells from Japan will be other international gift items on sale.

Mexican glassware consists of casseroles, glasses, cream pitchers, and sugar bowls.

Fancy soaps, unusual stationery and college stationery, will be on sale.

Home-made cakes, pastries, and candy will be sold as well as hot dogs and coffee.

"The Y-Mart is planned each year as a co-operative and educational project for the girls," Mrs. Norton Knedlik, adviser, said.

The Y-Mart will be from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Rec center tomorrow.

Collegian Editor, Business Manager Positions Open

Applications for editor and business manager of the Kansas State Collegian for the second semester are now being accepted, announced Prof. Ralph Lashbrook, Board of Student Publications chairman.

Application blanks are available in Lashbrook's office, K 205. Each application should be submitted, with a covering letter, to Lashbrook's office by December 20.

Any regularly enrolled student of the College who is scholastically eligible, may apply for Collegian editor or business manager.

Each applicant should obtain a copy of the Collegian Desk Manual when the application forms are obtained and should have a knowledge of its contents at the time he or she presents an application, Lashbrook said.

One-Act Tryouts Today, Thursday

Tryouts for student-directed one-act plays will be today from 3 to 5 p.m. and Thursday at 7 p.m. in G 206.

The plays, to be presented in February, are open to any student.

Mortar Board Dinner Tonight At Cafeteria

Scholarship will be honored at the Mortar Board scholarship dinner tonight at 6 in the Cafeteria.

The three girls with the highest grade average from last year's freshman class will be recognized at the dinner.

Emily Booth, EdN sophomore, and Geraldine Woodward, HT sophomore, holders of Mortar Board scholarships, will also be introduced at the dinner.

Dr. Howard T. Hill, retired head of the speech department, will be the speaker.

Members of Chimes, honorary scholastic organization for women with junior standing, will be introduced. Over 50 Mortar Board alumnae are expected to be present at the dinner.

The scholarship dinner, sponsored by Mortar Board, is an annual affair. All girls, women faculty members, Chimes members, and Mortar Board alumnae are invited to attend, according to Doreen Cronkite, Mortar Board publicity chairman.

Gene Gustafson Crowned Favorite Man at Snowball

Gene Gustafson, ChE Soph, was crowned Favorite Man on Campus at the Snowball Saturday night by Dean Doretta Schlaphoff of the School of Home Economics.

Gustafson, a member of 1834 Club, Delta Upsilon colony, was elected from 24 candidates nominated by K-State's various men's living groups.

He was escorted by Kathy Burns, president of the Home Economics council, between two lines of home economics girls and was crowned before a background of a lighted Christmas tree and a sleigh.

Gustafson said since the honor was unexpected he was not prepared to give a speech but he extended a big "thank you" to everyone. He received gold cuff links engraved with "1955 FMOC."

His attendants were Delmar Copner, Farm House; Ross Miller, Pi Kappa Alpha; Gene New, Acacia; and Neil Scott, Lambda Chi Alpha. They received small pocketknives.

The other candidates were introduced by Betty Winkley, Snowball chairman.

Approximately 300 couples danced to Bill Heptig's band under a false ceiling of blue crepe paper and snowflakes. In the center of the ceiling, white crepe paper formed a semicircle. Small Christmas ornaments hung from white streamers around the walls of the gym.

Yule Vespers Will Feature Three Soloists

Christmas vespers will feature the A Cappella choir, College orchestra, and several soloists Sunday, at 4 p.m. in the Auditorium.

The major work, Mass in E minor by Anton Bruckner, will have the A Cappella choir accompanied by the woodwind and brass sections of the College orchestra. The work is written in the form of a symphony and is performed infrequently in America.

Georgiana Rundle, MAV Soph, mezzo-soprano, and Royce Johnson, MGS Soph, Manhattan, baritone will be featured soloists in the program. Peggy Hodge, MAV Soph, contralto, will be the soloist in a Russian church anthem.

Robert Wilson Hays, College organist, will play a group of organ solos as well as the accompaniment for the traditional processional.

"Fanfare for Christmas Day" by Shaw is the first number of the vesper program which includes "Sing to the Lord a New Song" by Schutz, "Heavenly Light" by Benjamin, and "Jesus, Jesus, Rest Your Head," arrangement by William R. Fischer of the K-State music department.

JANICE FAUSS, HE Soph, has received a $300 scholarship from the Sears-Roebuck Co. Janice was one of eight national winners in the 1955 National 4-H Improvements Awards program to receive a scholarship and an all-expense trip to the 4-H Congress held recently at Chicago.

Debaters Stalled By Blizzard, Ice

Snow and bad roads kept K-State debaters from participating in a speech tournament at Wayne State teachers college in Wayne, Neb., Saturday.

Charles Goetzinger, assistant professor of speech who accompanied the debaters, said that blizzard warnings and a "highway of ice" forced them to turn back at Lincoln, Neb.

Danforth Speakers Offer 'Challenge'

Disciples Student's Foundation will furnish the speakers for the morning devotions in Danforth chapel next week. Their theme will be "Our Moral Challenge."

Speakers for the week will be Don Arganbright, Ray Swarinton, Carolyn Clark, Don Sumner, and Ed Dillinger.

Devotions are from 7:00 to 7:30 every morning Monday through Friday. These meetings are interdenominational and open to anyone interested in attending.

Y-MART CHAIRMEN, left to right, Janet Myer, Mth Sr, Joan Guyer, Art Jr; and Leann Graber, HE Jr, look over a Chinese wastebasket which will be sold at the Y-Mart tomorrow.

Education Conference Recommendation

Federal Aid for Schools in Ike's Legislative Program

"Be sure to give my child special attention."

Washington (U.P.)—The White House Conference on Education has advised President Eisenhower that the nation must "spend more of our wealth" on schools.

The advice was contained in a formal report telling the President that the 1,800 delegates favored more federal money for public schools by a better than 2-to-1 margin.

The pro-aid stand, indicated by the delegates earlier, was confirmed at the final session of the historic four-day conference. President Eisenhower called the meeting to advise him on how to cope with urgent problems facing the nation's schools.

Marion B. Folsom, secretary of health, education and welfare, responded to the conference's more-aid plea with a "confident" prediction that the administration will submit to Congress next year a "broadened and improved" program of federal help for building schools.

Folsom's prediction came true Saturday when Eisenhower's legislative program for next year was made public. It included a call for more federal aid for schools.

Sen. Pat McNamara (D-Mich.), an observer at the conference, said he now believes there is an "excellent probability" that Congress will approve a school-aid bill. McNamara is a member of the Senate labor and education committee.

Sen. H. Alexander Smith of New Jersey, ranking Republican on the same committee, said he already is working on an aid bill with committee chairman Lister Hill (D-Ala.).

Federal aid was the most controversial issue before the conference in its discussion of how to meet a current shortage of 203,450 classrooms and 141,000 qualified teachers, plus other school problems.

The conference urged that teaching pay scales be set high enough "to compete effectively with other fields bidding for quality manpower." It said the "prestige and status of teaching" must be made comparable to that of other professions.

"The American public must be reawakened to the fact

Recommendations . . .

FEDERAL AID—Recommended federal aid for public school construction; the 1,800 delegates split almost evenly on aid for operating expenses; conference opposed aid to private and parochial schools.

FEDERAL CONTROL—Opposed any federal control over educational programs.

STATE-LOCAL FINANCING—Recommended more state aid, particularly to help poorer school districts; favored easing legal restrictions on state and local borrowing and taxing powers, if necessary; recommended uniform statewide standards for property assessment.

TEACHERS—Called for higher pay and greater fringe benefits for teachers; more attractive working and living conditions for them; more money for teacher-training schools; more scholarships for students who want to be teachers.

SCHOOL ORGANIZATION—Recommended consolidations to reduce number of small and inefficient school districts.

OFFICE OF EDUCATION—Favored strengthening U.S. Office of Education.

SCHOOL COURSES—Said schools should teach civic responsibilities and "ethical behavior," as well as three Rs.

that teachers work with our most precious resource—our children."

Mediocre Record

Quality of Wildcats' Play Shown by Honor Teams

Despite a mediocre season record, several members of the Wildcat football team plus coach Bus Mertes have received ample shares of postseason honors.

Most highly honored was Doug Roether, Cat fullback, who was picked on three all-Big Seven teams. He was named "Most Inspirational" player of this year's team; has been selected to play in the Blue-Gray game at Miami; and received all-American honorable mention.

Another chosen on an all-Big Seven team was Ron Nery, who repeated at tackle. He also received all-American honorable mention.

Making Big Seven second teams were Nery, Jim Furey, Jim Rusher, and Bob Whitehead. Ellis Rainsberger was named to Missouri's all-opponent team.

Coach Mertes was honored by the Kansas City Star as "Co-Coach of the Year" in the Big Seven along with Bill Glassford of Nebraska.

Looking back over the season, most disappointing to K-State fans was the inability of the team to win in its four home games. But for those who went to KU for the 46-0 win over the Hawks, this disappointment soon was forgotten.

Anyway, now that the season is over, football experts have confirmed what most K-Staters knew all along—that we had some mighty good players and a top-flight coach.

Who knows, maybe we'll beat Michigan State next year.—Gary Swanson.

Miller's High Life

A nineteen-ought thirty-six K-State journalism grad came down from Leavenworth to visit in Kedzie hall Saturday. He introduced himself as "Ninety-three seventy-two."

"But that ain't your real name, is it?" our startled editor asked.

The former K-Stater smiled winningly: "Naw, it's jist me pen name."

While on the subject of pens, I am reminded of a fellow from Los Angeles who'll probably end up in one.

This fellow, an admitted bigamist, was accused of murder for shooting one of his wives. She had stepped out with another man.

"I guess I lost my head," the fellow admitted.

Then there was the citizen in Denver who apologized to police for setting fire to a hotel lobby.

"I didn't realize it was the wrong hotel until after the stairway was on fire," he said.

A woman in Miami, bending over a store counter, felt a strange draft. And no wonder—her skirt had been cut from waist to hem in a half-dozen places.

The culprit told police he has an overwhelming urge to slash flaring skirts to ribbons.

All of which proves that people are not only funny, but also are "funny"—screwy, unpredictable, a bunch of slob (pea pickers).

And it doesn't help any when the police, those shining protectors of society, are as inefficient as a certain patrolman in Detroit. This fellow was locked in a cell as he was checking prisoners. The wind blew the door shut.

I don't mean to intimate that all Detroit policemen are inefficient. When another Detroit patrolman arrested a robber, said robber gave the police department a fine testimonial—"I always thought Los Angeles had the best police department. But now I like yours better."

If all of this has you depressed, you've got a right to be. Why, things are so bad that recently the secretary of the National Foundation for Highway Safety was arrested and fined for illegally passing on the right.

It seems only fair to wind up this dissertation on a bright note. So, forthwith comes a bright note: Taking a page from students who hang football coaches in effigy, students at a residence hall at the University of Idaho hanged their cook in effigy.

He was burned up. They were stewed.

At the Movies

'The Tender Trap' Has Lots of Snap

"THE TENDER TRAP," at the Campus, is the happy story of a bachelor who likes girls but isn't interested in marriage. This could lead to all sorts of complications—and does.

Originally a musical comedy, MGM cut the music and left the comedy; witness the pantomime scene of a walking hangover that kept the audience in stitches for five minutes.

If attendance is any criterion, this one is a smash. Don't take my word; go see it yourself.—R.C.C.

"LADY GODIVA," at the Wareham through Wednesday, is based on the fight between the Saxons and Normans in early England.

The film, for the most part, is historically inaccurate and somewhat incredible. Maureen O'Hara and George Nader have the main roles, with Miss O'Hara taking Lady Godiva's famous ride through the streets of Coventry toward the end of the show.

There are some beautiful white horses in this film.—M.C.

"BATTLE CRY," or it might be titled Battle Cry, is a story about the marines that has been re-released and is showing at the Co-ed through tonight.

Varsity Hoopsters Prep for Opener

Kansas State basketball fans got their first look at the prospects for K-State this season when the Varsity played the Freshman in the annual game Friday night in Ahearn field house. The Varsity won 74-63 as they sharpened their play for the season's opener with Texas Tech tomorrow night.

The Varsity hit 46.5 percent of their shots, as they made 34 of 73 attempted. Jack Parr, sophomore center, led the varsity as he scored 14 points and made 6 of 10 field goal attempts.

Leon Smith was leading scorer for the freshman as he scored 13 points, 12 of them in the final quarter when the freshman rallied to come within 7 points of the varsity at one time.

The score was 43-24 at half-time, with the varsity leading as Coach Tex Winter played his starting five the entire twenty minutes. The starting lineup for the varsity was: Parr at center, Dick Stone and Larry Fischer at the forward positions, and Pat Vicens and Fritz Schneider at the guard positions.

Winter started an entirely different squad the second half and only Parr, of the varsity starters, saw action for the varsity in the last half. In all 16 men saw action for the varsity while frosh coach, Howie Shannon, used 12.

Starting lineup for the freshman was: Charles Hollinger and Gene Miller at the forward positions, Bob Boozer at center, and Don Matuszak and Jim Holwerda at the guard positions.

Stone, senior forward, scored 12 points for the varsity on 6 field goals. Vicens scored 8 on 4 field goals.

While the varsity was hitting the high percentage of their shots from the field, the freshman did not fare so well as they hit only 28.8 percent. However, from the free-throw line the freshman out-scored the varsity as they hit 25 of 39 shots to 6 of 18 for the varsity.

The Wildcats open the season tomorrow night in Ahearn field house. The scheduled game time is 7:30.

Furey, Roether To Play In Post-Season Games

Both Kansas State grid captains of the past season will participate in post-season feature games. Jim Furey, center and captain, has been named to the West squad for the annual East-West game in San Francisco. Doug Roether, fullback and alternate captain, will play with the North squad in the Blue-Gray game at Montgomery, Ala. Both games are slated for December 31.

This marks the third consecutive year that a Wildcat has been selected for the East-West classic. Veryl Switzer, now playing professional football with Green Bay, was named to the West squad in 1953; and Corky Taylor, currently running with the Los Angeles Rams, was selected in 1954.

Only former Wildcat to run in the Blue-Gray feature was guard Tom O'Boyle in 1953.

IM Basketball Playoffs Start Tonight at 6:45

Playoffs to determine group champions in intramural basketball play will begin tonight.

The Rebels and the Hillbillies will start playoffs of a three way tie in Group V of the independent division when they meet at 6:45 on the center court. The winner will meet the Rho Alphas Wednesday night for the group crown.

Kappa Sigma will play Alpha Gamma Rho at 6:45 on the west court in another three-way tie playoff. The winner will play Delta Tau Delta Wednesday night for the fraternity Group II crown.

In 7:35 games tonight the Kansas State Vets will play the Hui O Makules on the east court for the independent Group II championship and the High Plains

Leaguers will meet the Kansas City Athletics on the west court for the Group VI crown.

Frank Myers, intramurals director, announced that division playoffs will start Thursday night and continue through Friday and next Monday.

Cats Open Hoop Season Tonight

EXPECTED TO LEAD the Wildcat attack against Texas Tech tonight are Pachin Vicens, Dick Stone, Jack Parr, Joe Powell, Fritz Schneider, and Gene Wilson. All but Parr are lettermen.

Kansas State's 1955-56 basketball season opens tonight in Ahearn Field House against Texas Tech, the first of eight nonconference opponents.

It will be the first cage meeting with Texas Tech for any Wildcat team. Loyola of Los Angeles, Houston, and College of Pacific are also new teams added to the Wildcat cage schedule.

Texas Tech tied West Texas State last season for the Border conference crown and won the year before. They have played three games this season, defeating St. Michael's 94-49, Texas Christian 76-64, and lost last night to Missouri 92-60.

The Tech team, averaging just less than six feet five inches is one of the tallest teams the Wildcats will face this season. The tallest man on the squad is starting center, Gene Carpenter, at six feet eight inches. He averaged 14.5 points a game last season and hit 37 percent of his field goal attempts.

Other members of the Tech starting five are DuWayne Blackshear, senior forward; Jim Reed, senior forward who averaged 22 points a game last season; Ned Underwood, junior guard; and Walter Newton, guard.

Against this tall Texas Tech group, Tex Winter, K-State coach, plans to start a squad containing one senior, two juniors, and two sophomores. They include forwards Dick Stone, senior, and Larry Fischer, sophomore; center Jack Parr, sophomore; and junior guards Fritz Schneider and Pachin Vicens.

Parr, second tallest center in Wildcat history at six feet nine inches, could provide a big boost to Wildcat fortunes with his pivot play. He is an excellent shot and has shown steady improvement in floor play. Hefty enough at 200 pounds to hold his own at rebounding, Parr's only major need at this time is experience, Winter said.

The other sophomore in the lineup, Fischer, offers further rebounding aid. With good speed for a big man and ability to handle the play-making assignments, Fischer should add needed height to the Wildcat lineup.

Schneider hit 35 per cent of his field goal attempts and hit 65 per cent of his free throws.

When asked to comment on Missouri's win over Texas Tech last night, Winter said he had no comment, except that Missouri had lost to Purdue and were probably up for the game last night.

Pre-Advisement For Students To Start Soon

Pre-advisement for currently enrolled students concerning the spring semester's program will begin December 12 to January 14, E. M. Gerritz, director of admissions and registrar, said.

Any currently enrolled student is urged to visit his adviser during this period. Students who don't know their advisers name, may secure that information from their deans or department offices, Gerritz said.

Line schedules for the spring semester are now on sale at the Post Office in Anderson.

HS Educators To Meet Here On Thursday

Educators from nearly 50 Kansas high schools will be at K-State Thursday for the annual fall conference of principals and counselors on "Transition from High School to College."

The conference is to be held in the Extension building between 10 and 12 a.m. Students attending the meeting will be excused from classes, according to Charles Jacot, assistant dean of students.

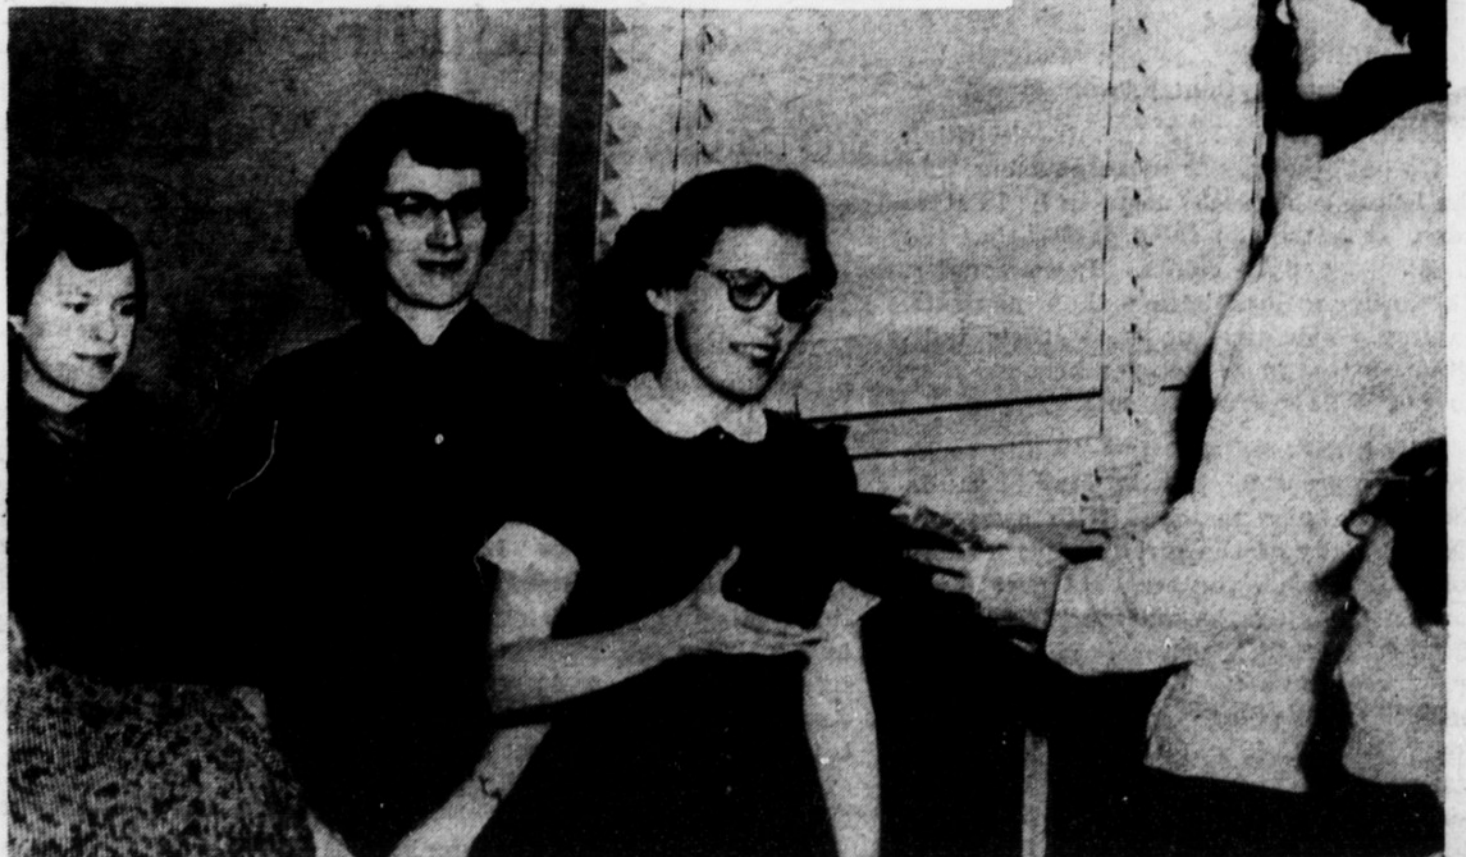

Purpose of the sessions is to learn what problems students face in making the transition from high school to college.

A questionnaire is being circulated to freshmen asking them to write down the problems they've encountered and suggestions as to how high schools can improve their curriculums to make the transition easier.

Following a noon luncheon, the educators will meet with members of the K-State staff to discuss the problems raised during the morning conferences, and to consider what might be done, both by the high schools and the College, to ease the shift.

According to E. M. Gerritz, director of admissions and registrar, high schools having four or more freshmen enrolled at K-State this fall were invited to send representatives to the conference.

SC Proposes

Parking 'Contributions' For KS Traffic Violations

Students who receive their third or fourth traffic tickets may be able to "contribute" to a parking improvement fund in lieu of being restricted from driving on the campus or being expelled.

A proposal for establishing a traffic violation "donation" fund was submitted to the Student Council at a meeting last night by Bonner Staff, Psy Jr, a member of the traffic appeals review board.

The proposal was tabled for further study.

Ten such reversals would be allowed each student, then the penalty currently in effect for the third and fourth tickets would be assessed. The third ticket now brings restriction from driving on the campus, and the fourth an automatic recommendation for dismissal from school.

An interpretation of state law by Attorney General Harold Fatzner had previously ruled that traffic fines as such were illegal, however, Staff said that his proposal would get around this interpretation since the "donations" are not compulsory. "In essence it is a monetary fine system and I believe the students would favor it," he said. "Maybe after a year or two we could put in legal fine system."

Staff added that perhaps the policy could be combined with the traffic fine study made previously by the Council in which a graduated scale of fines, or this case, "donations" would be assessed.

George Atkeson commented that he was opposed to the 10 possible reversals. In this case, he said everyone would violate regulations with little concern about the punishment. However, Bunny Cowan asserted that a graduated scale would be high enough to discourage offenders.

Gary Rogers argued, "it seems we're violating the spirit if not the letter of the law." At this point, Bill Kennedy declared that this shouldn't be considered a violation of state law since the "donations" were not compulsory.

A motion amending the by-laws of the student governing association constitution in regard to Council meeting absences was tabled until next week.

The amendments suggested by the Council's committee on constitutional revision, would change article III of the by-laws to read: "Any member who misses three meetings will automatically be considered for impeachment by the Student Council unless properly excused by the chairman of the Student Council."

This change would add "unless properly excused by the chairman of the Student Council," to the by-law.

Another change would add a subsection number 1 to article I, Section 3, stating that the chairman of the Student Council shall have the power to excuse members who are absent for legitimate reason from Student Council.

The Council voted acceptance of three-point policy recommendation by the committee on rules and procedure. This recommendation stated: 1) Any motion for Council action must be submitted in writing by 5 p.m. on the Thursday prior to the meeting at which the motion is to be discussed. 2) All committee reports will be in writing stating the attendance of the last meeting and the time for the next committee meeting. 3) A two-thirds majority of members present can set aside the above rules in emergency legislation.

Frosh Can Help High Schoolers By Discussing Frosh Problems

A chance for K-State freshmen to talk over their problems and, in doing so, help friends in high school will present itself Thursday at the annual conference for high school principals and College freshmen.

Principals and counselors from about 50 high schools—those having four or more freshmen at K-State—will be on campus to discuss with frosh from those schools the transition from high school to college.

Freshmen who tell their high school principals and counselors of their troubles in making the transition from high school to college will help students back home, who may profit from freshman experiences. Also counselors may be able to advise the freshmen about some of the problems they're encountering.

Cooperation by the frosh is necessary to make the Thursday affair a success. Students will be excused from class from 10 a.m. to noon to attend, so they've everything to gain and nothing to lose by taking part in the conference.—Gary Swanson.

Time-Bomb Scare in I.S. Dorm Brings Out Yo Yo, Flasks, Etc.

By Ann Weathers

The discovery of a false time-bomb planted in an Iowa State girls' dormitory, apparently as a joke, has set off a series of investigations to uncover a possible "inside man."

Housemothers—assisted by policewomen—are "frisking" all coeds as they come into the dorm. Though no explosives have been uncovered, an impressive amount of other "loot" has been found.

Some of the items are: A yo-yo; four flasks; one autographed picture of Gabby Hayes; one tired old sack lunch left over from a football game; a booklet from a lovelorn columnist entitled, "Why Neck?"; a .38 caliber revolver (for shooting rats in her room); 27 copies of Romance Comics; 136 church keys; and a lipstick (believe it or not).

They finally did it! An entire fraternity has advanced higher than the first floor in a sorority house. How did they do it? Easy. They simply bought the house (without the girls, that is). What a stab!

For you English majors, here's a takeoff on "Trees" by Max Shulman.

"It often strikes me as being queer and unusual and really quite odd that nobody in the whole world, with the definite exception of God, can make a tree. Anybody can make pomes.

"Anyone can make ash cans, automobiles, crepe suzettes, or homes; but a tree is different—a horse of another color, something else again.

"A tree that may, for all you or I know, or imagine, or care, be wearing a nest of robins in its hair.

"Who (meaning the tree) has a bosom on which snow has lain and has been kept by, or at least lived intimately with, the rain.

"Now pomes, in brief, are made by fools like you, or more frequently, like me.

"But I don't suppose you'll ever catch either one or us going around dashing off a tree."

Helpful fraternities at San Jose State college have begun playing "Taps" over the loud speaker at sorority and dormitory lock-up time.

East German Newspaper Hits West Berlin, U.S.

BERLIN, (U.P.)—The East German Communists said today American Ambassador James B. Conant was "boasting" when he said the United States would hold to the four-power status of Berlin.

The savage new attack on West Berlin and the United States was published in the official Communist newspaper Neues Deutschland, which has hinted repeatedly at a new blockade of Berlin.

PARIS—The powerful French Socialist party today called a national council meeting that could determine to a great extent the outcome of the French parliamentary elections.

The Socialists, with 104 members, are the largest group in the national assembly. They were to decide today whether to ally themselves with former Premier Pierre Mendes-France, or to fight him.

NEW DELHI, INDIA—The Indian press today renewed its attack on U.S. Secretary of State John oster Dulles, but some papers also severely criticized touring Soviet leaders for their "intemperate behavior."

Kansas State Coeds Are Satisfied with Local Styles

By ROYANNE McMULLEN

Clothes styles at K-State seem to satisfy coeds. At least, that is the opinion of 10 girls who were asked what they thought of the fashion ideas expressed by Barbara Craigie, art instructor, in a recent Collegian article.

Miss Craigie said individuality, youth, and vitality are not reflected in K-State coeds' clothes. She said, in choice of colors and textures, K-State coeds choose neutrals such as older women wear.

All of the coeds disagreed with Miss Craigie on the color of anklets that should be worn. They preferred white anklets to colored anklets that would match their sweaters.

The greatest difference in opinion was whether K-State coeds wear too many dull and neutral colors.

MARGUERITE JAHNKE, EEEd Soph—"I've noticed quite a few bright and pastel colors in the girls' clothes, particularly in those worn to school. I also have noticed that in dressy clothes, the neutral and sophisticated colors are worn more. The matching of bermuda socks with sweaters is a good idea. The girls do show individuality, youth, and vitality in their clothes, though."

JOYCE BRODRICK, Hst Jr—"I think white bobbysocks are more pleasing, and the heavy cable socks seem to be in style here. It is true to some extent that the girls wear dull colors. I, personally, like other colors better than neutrals, anyway. The girls do show their individual tastes in accessories because they do not follow group trends."

SUE COSTLEY, HT Jr—"White socks are more practical, but the long bermuda socks look nice matched with sweaters. The majority of the girls choose neutral colors in clothes for practical use. More combinations can be made with neutrals than with brighter shades. The dull colors don't make us look so much older. Besides, college-age girls should tone down their clothes and not pay so much attention to fads. As for being in a period of growth, we are pretty well past this stage when we come to college.

Flats are nice on casual dates, but school wear is too rough for them. The girls show individuality because they aren't swayed much by fads on other campuses.

BETTY WINKLEY, HT Jr—"White anklets look nice. The heavy ones are worn for warmth, although they may not be pleasing appearance. The scarfs, belts, rope beads, and accessories that coeds wear brighten up their neutral outfits. Red cannot be worn as a basic color in an outfit by many girls, but it makes a nice touch in accessories. Girls choose black as a basic color for some clothes because it can be toned up or down for dressy or sports occasions. We do follow fads in our school clothes. In dressy clothes, individuality is reflected because very few girls want their good dresses exactly like everyone else's."

JANE TAYLOR, Eng Fr—"Socks should be white instead of colored to match sweaters. Bright colors such as french blue, kelly green, orange, and red are seen in girls' clothes. Our reaction to fads isn't slow. Bermuda shorts, long head scarves, and bermuda socks seem to be the fad all over. Everyone here is wearing them. Heavy, rough-textured tweeds are worn. Shortie gloves are seen in cold weather.

NANCY HAYES, Gov Soph—"White socks look neater than socks matching sweaters, but matching bermuda socks are all right. I agree with Miss Craigie that dull colors are worn. We definitely need to use brighter colors. More costume jewelry should be worn. If the girls would wear more flats, it would give coeds more distinction and individual personality."

JEANICE BLAUER, HE Sr—"I prefer white anklets to matching anklets and sweaters. The sweaters worn by the girls are brightly colored. Loafers are more comfortable than flats for school wear, and they fit in with our casual school clothes."

JAN KRAFT, HE Soph—"I have seen girls wearing matching socks and sweaters, and I don't like the effect. The practice was cute in grade school, but now it seems out of style. Bermuda socks to match sweaters are quite practical when it's cold. Flats aren't practical for school because the soles are so thin and because we do so much walking. I particularly noticed the bright colors being worn in winter coats this year. We take up fads as fast as other schools do, considering that we are not close to any fashion center such as New York or Hollywood.

HELEN BARTZ, HEA Sr—"If matching socks and sweaters were worn, the colors would never be quite the same, so the effect would be more harmful than always wearing white. The heavy socks are practical for warmth, and they are a style here. They match our heavy shoes. Flats are not practical for school because they are not warm enough or casual enough. Girls do wear dull colors, but this tendency is typical of our part of the country. College activities and events seem to concern us more than the clothes we wear."

JANIS BROMAN, Chm Soph—"It's a matter of taste whether or not girls prefer matching socks and sweaters. The girls here might prefer white because we are used to seeing white worn. A large variety of loafers and moccasins could be worn. Costume jewelry also could be worn more. We are conservative in choice of colors, but it's practical because more combinations of sweaters and skirts can be made."

MARILYN PINSKER, ArG Soph—"White socks look better to me than matching socks and sweaters. The triple-roll anklets seem to balance the ankle and shoe. Flats do look neat with full skirts if the weather is warm enough for wearing them. The dull neutral colors are worn because they are basic, but more bright shades are needed. Girls should take more time in dressing, and try to match their belts, sweaters, skirts, and accessories to make a pleasing and neat appearance.

Co-ops, Including Book Stores, Can Be Successful, Co-op Secretary Points Out

To the Editor:

We Kansas farmers are interested in the social and economic life of our boys and girls who are students at Kansas State college. We also are interested in better understanding of all kinds of cooperative associations.

Your "Readers Say" editorial (letter to the editor) last Wednesday, November 30, included a letter which you headed "Co-op Book Stores Last About 10 Years." Actually, the letter does not limit this life expectancy to book stores but includes all kinds of co-ops. I believe this to be a dangerous and false generalization as is the statement in the same letter to the effect that 90 percent of all co-ops organized in America have failed.

Your title of the article emphasizes co-op book stores, and the letter expresses disfavor toward cooperative ownership and control of book stores. I would like to urge you to contact the campus groups that are studying the possibilities of a co-op book store so that they may soon give you a story of some of the successes in this field.

I know little of the proposals regarding sale of books and supplies at your new Union building. I do want to urge you to give a fair presentation to your student and faculty readers.

Jim McGuire,
Executive Secretary,
Kansas Cooperative Council.

ADPi Carolers Sing At Ft. Riley Hospital

Forty-five Alpha Delta Pi carolers got the Christmas season off to a musical start for soldiers at the Fort Riley hospital last night.

The program of carols was the first of a series in which K-State coeds will participate. If the schedule works out as planned, sorority and residence hall girls will visit the hospital to sing almost every night until December 20.

The carolers were Pat Ahlstrom, HT Sr; Jo Alsop, ChW Soph; Alice Austin, EEd Soph; Norma Beck, HT Sr; Betty Benson, DIM Soph; Dixie Brown, HDA Soph; Carole Backman, BAA Fr; Cicely Bennett, PEW Soph; Betsy Bridges, PEW Fr; and Caroline Buchanan, EEd Soph.

Marilyn Buick, EEd Jr; Pat Burton, FdN Sr; Suzanne Cliborn, HEA Soph; Mary Crain, Eng Sr; Shiela Cromwell, BA Soph; Sue Downer, HT Soph; Nancy Elliott, DIM Jr; Barbara Ericson, Sp Soph; Pot Fobes, BA Jr; Janet Foltz, FdN Jr; and Nancy Frame, Hst Sr.

Ruth Freeman, Soc Jr; Carol Frohn, EEd Jr; Ellie Gorman, EEd Soph; Marcia Grockett, MEI Soph; Margaret Hill, Sp Soph; Carole Holmquist, EEd Soph; Sandra Hodgson, BMT Fr; and Marvel Jacobson, BA Soph.

Sue Kenison, Clo Soph; Shirley Lambert, EEd Soph; DeAnn Mackie, PEW Jr; Marion McKelvy, BMT Soph; Ruth Regnier, HE Soph; Connie Scooby, BA Sr; and Jeanne Shade, ChW Jr.

Joyce Shankland, EEd Soph; Phyllis Shook, ArE Soph; Delaine Smith, HEA Sr; Barbara Starnes, DIM Soph; Janet Teague, HEN Soph; Joleen Von Fange, Art Jr; Phyllis Walker, Hst Fr; Ann Weathers, HEJ Jr; and Shirley Williams, EEd Jr.

The local Red Cross director, Harvey Nickel, is in charge of the project.

Buses from Fort Riley picked the girls up at their residence at 6:30 p.m. and returned them about 8:30 p.m. Gray ladies accompanied the girls to the hospital.

65 Vets On Waiting List For Housing

A waiting list of 65 for barracks apartments is high above the expected 30 vacancies for the spring semester, A. Thornton Edwards, director of housing, said.

The first priority goes to married veteran students with children. There are 52 of these.

There are nine student veterans without children who are next on the list, three non-veteran students with children, and one nonveteran student without children on the waiting list.

"Although some of these are new students who will have to be placed off campus, others are already placed and would simply rather have the college barracks housing," Edwards said.

Three Soph Girls Honored for Marks

Beatrice Jones, ML Soph; Patricia Tucker, Math Soph; and Carol Gillen, HT Soph, were honored for having the highest grade average of all freshman girls last year at the Mortar Board scholarship banquet last night.

Miss Jones was awarded a plaque for her 3.0 grade average. Miss Tucker was second with a 2.916 average and Miss Gillen was third with a 2.903 grade average.

Air Society Cancels Trip To Eglin AFB

Arnold Air society's 36 man inspection team was unable to journey to Eglin Air Force base, Florida, last week, because of poor weather.

Captain Dudley G. Kavanaugh, Arnold Air Society organizer, said visibility was too poor for the Air Force C54 to land and pick up the cadets. "The plane made several passes at the field and then decided not to risk it," Kavanaugh said.

Kavanaugh said January 5 to 8 has been named for another try at visiting the base.

"Eglin offers almost everything in the way of a complete training base. This is the reason we would like to inspect its facilities," Kavanaugh said.

Phi Delta Gamma

Phi Delta Gamma, national fraternity for graduate women, initiated five new members at a meeting Saturday.

They were Celestine Brown, Sp Gr; Elizabeth Hurley, IMg Gr; Alberta Johnston, AEc Gr; Doreen Low, FdN Gr; and Jane Wrenn, Clo Gr.

Blue Key

A banquet for graduating seniors in Blue Key will be held on December 20 it was decided at Blue Key meeting recently. Pictures of the group will be December 5 in illustrations at 5 p.m. No definite plans have been made for the yearly project as yet by Blue Key members as committee reports are still coming in, according to Martin Eby, Jr, president.

Blue Key will meet at 5 p.m. today in President McCain's office.

M.E. Award To Weidler

Pi Tau Sigma's annual award to the mechanical engineering sophomore with the top grade average as a freshman was won by Richard Weidler of Minneapolis who had a 2.878 average last year.

Weidler was given an award plaque and a copy of Roget's Thesaurus by the honorary mechanical engineering fraternity at the last general ME assembly.

Weidler was also extended a special invitation to the fraternity's initiation banquet, December 8, said Gene Martin, ME Sr, who was in charge of the presentation.

A Cat's-Eye View

With Dick Holdren

The Wildcats open their 1955-56 basketball campaign tonight, playing the Texas Tech Red Raiders in the first of a schedule that has been termed by Jack Gardner as "bush league."

It looks to me that this is a case of the pot calling the kettle black.

Jack and Tex
... gone are the days

As an example, the Utes, ranked third in the nation in pre-season polls, play such teams as Arizona (8-17 last year), Washington State (11-14), Idaho State (18-8 against mediocre competition), and, get this, they play three games with Hawaii (2-15). Add to this Wichita, who lost to the Utes 73-51 Saturday, and Oklahoma City, (9-18) and you get a pretty good idea of what is a "bush league" schedule.

Now let's look at the Wildcats' schedule.

Texas Tech seems to be an unknown quality in these parts but they really have a pretty good ball club.

They are tall, only four men under 6-4, and have both a good offense and defense. They had a 18-7 record last year and tied for first in the Border Conference. They beat Oklahoma A&M, a perennial power, lost to nationally 4th ranked North Carolina by 11 points, and beat Furman, one of the nation's high scorers, 111-103.

Indiana and Washington are always high in the rankings, and Wyoming, by Gardner's own prediction, will be rough this year. Drake was the top independent in the Missouri Valley area last year. While College of Pacific did not have an outstanding record, they did play some close games with Pacific Coast powers.

You can draw your own conclusions but it looks to me like Mr. Gardner is just trying to discredit the K-State athletic department and his old assistant, Tex Winter.

Phog Allen, KU coach, has dropped his campaign to raise the baskets since Wilt (the Stilt) Chamberlain has come on the scene. He says that instead of raising the basket, just drop the floor.

Phog is scoffing at the idea that the Jayhawks should be picked to take the Big Seven conference crown this year. He says that the Hawks lack the height and rebounding power to compete with the other teams.

That may well be, but it looks to me that with the overall depth of the Jayhawkers and the losses suffered by the other teams that KU will have to be given the nod.

Almost every club in the conference lost their top scorers and some lost almost their entire starting lineup. With KU losing only one of their first five, experience alone should be enough for a first-place pick.

Dons Rated Number 1 In Hoop Poll

New York, (U.P.)—It's a brand new college basketball season with the same old 1954-55 theme. San Francisco, last year's national champion, was placed in a class by itself today in the first weekly ratings of the United Press board of coaches.

All but three of the 35 outstanding coaches who comprise the rating board picked the Dons No. 1 in the nation following a pair of weekend victories. San Francisco's point-total of 343 was only seven short of a perfect score.

Not only did Coach Phil Woolpert's men rank on top once again, but in their opening triumphs over Chico State and Southern California, they demonstrated the same remarkable defense and brilliant all-around balance with which they won the NCAA title last year and earned the No. 1 national honor.

After a 70-39 breeze against Chico State in which they used all-America center Bill Russell only sparingly, the Dons displayed their customary defense-minded mastery Saturday night in their victory over Southern California, a much stronger opponent.

The two victories stretched San Francisco's winning streak to 28 games dating back to last season. The Dons had a 28-1 record in 1954-55 when they compiled the best defensive record in the nation, won the NCAA tournament, and earned the No. 1 rating of the United Press board of coaches.

Last week, before the opening games of the season, the coaches overwhelmingly picked San Francisco to repeat as national champion.

Of the three coaches who did not cast first-place votes for the west coasters this week, two picked them second and one fourth. One of these coaches made third-ranked North Carolina State his No. 1 choice, one voted for seventh-ranked Illinois, and the other picked 13th-ranked St. Louis.

Kentucky, traditionally a strong challenger for national honors, ranked second, 94 points behind San Francisco. Coach Adolph Rupp's Wildcats, picked No. 2 in the pre-season ratings, opened their season with a 62-52 victory over Louisiana State.

North Carolina State, which won two games last week, ranked third, followed in order by Utah, Iowa and Dayton. After them came Illinois, Duquesne, Holy Cross and Brigham Young to round out the top 10.

While San Francisco faces what should be an easy opponent in San Francisco State this week, a few of the other teams in the top 10 play tougher competition. North Carolina State is pitted against Wake Forest and Eastern Kentucky; Utah meets Arizona twice; Iowa meets Southern Methodist; and Dayton meets Miami of Ohio and Toledo.

Rees Gives Up ...

Pro Hoop Career To Gain Education

By BEV RINGEY

Bob Rees, 24 year old sophomore in mechanical engineering, has put away the basketball uniform and has settled down to the routine of getting a college education after traveling extensively in Europe, Canada, and the United States.

Bob played professional basketball with the Honolulu Surf Riders, a team that toured Europe last year for three months. The team played 93 games in 96 days while on this tour from May to August.

Since Bob has played professional basketball, he is ineligible to play college basketball.

"Basketball on a tour is more aggressive and tiring than college ball as well as being much rougher," the 6 ft. 3 in. forward said. "I got hurt more than once including a fractured left arm."

The teams visited England, France, Germany, North Africa, Italy, Israel, Egypt, Lebanon, Iraq, Iran, Turkey, Yugoslavia, Austria, Switzerland, Portugal and Spain.

The purpose of these tours and others of similar nature is to build up and promote as well as improve basketball in Europe, Asia and Africa, Bob said.

"I think they learn a lot about shooting and different types of shots from us," Bob said. "They only use a few basic shots, but after seeing an American team or teams play, they seem to get more variety in their game."

About 50 people were members of the tour. Besides the two basketball teams there were eight vaudeville acts that entertained during the intermissions which sometimes lasted from an hour to an hour and a half.

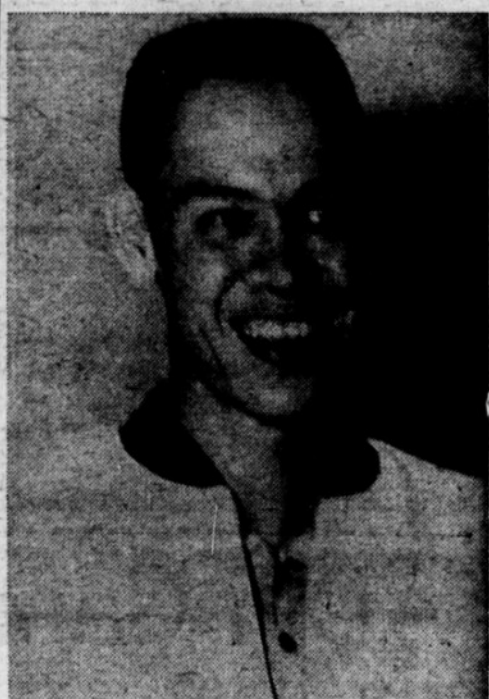

"I liked the intermissions in Germany the best," Bob said. "The team went out and got hot dogs and beer to keep warm."

"Most of the games were played on outdoor courts and the worst court we ever played on was in Aachen, Germany. It was a grass court, and we played in the rain. By the time the game got well under way, there was about three inches of water on the court."

"You can imagine what the fast breaks were like," Bob said. "We would try to stop to shake a man, start sliding, and go clear out of bounds. There would be occasions when the coach would have only five men suit up, and they would play the entire game."

While Bob liked Germany the best of the countries he saw, he thought Spain was very interesting.

"We didn't start our games in Spain until 11:30 at night," Bob said. "The reason for this was that the Spanish people have their siesta's every afternoon from one till five, then the stores open up from five till nine, finally around midnight they were ready to watch a basketball game. The games lasted until around 2 a.m. and boy were we tired!" Bob said.

The rules the professional teams used differ somewhat from college rules in that they are allowed six fouls per man and still employ the old type rule of being allowed to refuse free throws in favor of taking the ball out of bounds. All fouls are one shot fouls unless they are committed in the act of shooting.

"I like these rules better than the college rules now," Bob said. "I don't know exactly why, I just do. But I do think it's a good idea to widen the free throw lane from 6 to 12 feet. This will at least get the big men out from under the basket a little," Bob said.

Bob was discovered while playing on the all-Army team. He played in the all-Army tournament two consecutive years. Previous to this, he had played only one year of organized ball.

"I don't miss playing basketball as much as I thought I would," Bob said, "but then I keep pretty busy studying. When you've been out of school a while, it takes time to get back in the habit of studying, too," he commented.

"I really liked traveling though, meeting different people, and seeing different places," Bob said. "I'd like to go back to Europe someday, maybe to work."

Vets Defeat Hui O Makules By One Point in Overtime

The Kansas State Vets edged the Hui O Makules by one point in overtime to win the independent Group II crown in intramural basketball playoffs last night.

A determined rally by the Makules in the last two minutes brought the game to a tie before an overtime free throw gave the Vets a 15-14 win.

The Vets jumped to an early lead but nine consecutive points by the Makules' Bob Rees kept them in the running. At half, the Vets led 7-6 with tight zone defenses keeping the scoring low.

Rees, who also starred in rebounding and ball-hawking, was the game's high scorer with 12 points. Jacobs led the Vets with 9 points.

The Kansas City Athletics, behind most of the first half, pulled away to come out on top in the battle for the independent Group IV championship by beating the High Plains Leaguers 22-15.

The taller HPL's controlled the rebounding in a ragged first half featured by poor ball handling. They led 9-8 at half-time but the Athletics forged ahead on 6 quick points right after intermission and were never headed.

The Athletics played slow control ball the second half as they went into a semi-stall and forced the HPL's to come out and foul repeatedly.

Don Hodges connected for 5 field goals and a free throw to lead the Athletics with 11 points while Jim Knoche's 6 points were tops for the High Plains Leaguers.

Alpha Gamma Rho bounced from behind at half-time to beat Kappa Sigma 34-26 and win the right to meet Delta Tau Delta for the championship of fraternity group II.

The game, first in a Group II three-way tie playoff, seesawed through most of the first half, with the Kappa Sigs controlling the rebounds and hitting from far out. Four different players connected on long set shots to put them ahead 21-18 at halftime.

Alpha Gamma Rho came back strong in the second half, slowed down the game's pace, and took control of the backboards. About midway in the period they switched to a fast break and racked up 9 points to 1 for the Kappa Sigs in the last six minutes to clinch the game.

Jerald Draney led AGR with 12 points while Ed Harrington was high for Kappa Sigma with 8.

The Hillbillies, top-seeded independent team, won the first game of a three-way tie playoff in Group V as they downed the Rebels 26-25.

The win matches the Hillbillies against the Rho Alpha in the Group's final playoff game. Defense kept the Rebels shooting from outside throughout most of the first half while the Hillbillies piled up an 18-15 lead.

The game was far from close in the second half until the Hillbillies went into a semi-stall with four minutes left. At this point, the Rebels switched to a full court press and began a rally climaxed by 6 points in the final minute and a half. But the Hillbilly lead was too big and a 1-point final margin was enough for the victory.

Ken Nakari's 8 points were high for the Rebels and Barber and Sundberg led the Hillbillies with 8 apiece.

Two more group winners will be decided Wednesday night.

Alpha Gamma Rho meets Delta Tau Delta Wednesday at 6:45 p.m. on the west court in a battle for the Group II fraternity title.

In the other game, the Hillbillies play the Rho Alphas at 6:45 p.m. on the east court to decide the winner in the independents' Group V.

Intramural director Frank Myers asked that all group winners meet in his office after Wednesday night's playoffs. Drawings are to be held at this time to determine pairings for further playoffs Thursday and Friday.

Kansas U Wins 91-70 Over Northwestern U

By UNITED PRESS

The Kansas varsity basketball team may not be able to beat the Kansas freshmen, but there's no doubt now that Coach Forrest (Phog) Allen's older team is a mighty strong outfit, anyway.

The varsity boys have been the targets of lots of jokes ever since they lost a pre-season exhibition game to the frosh squad, which is led by the fabulous Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain. But nobody laughed at them last night when they opened the season with an impressive 91-70 drubbing of Northwestern.

The Jayhawks, pre-season favorites for the Big Seven championship and rated No. 17 nationally by the United Press board of coaches, drove to a 47-38 halftime lead over their Big Ten visitors and breezed home as four players scored in double figures, led by forward Gene Elstun with 19. Guard Dick Mast had 20 for Northwestern but Bill Schulz, the Wildcats' center who approaches Chamberlain in height at 6-11, could notch only 9.

Duquesne, last year's National Invitation Tournament champion, also made a successful season debut last night, but against much weaker opposition, with a 61-25 rout of Carnegie Tech. All-America Si Green tallied 22 points in about as many minutes and then rested as the Dukes, rated No. 8 nationally, romped home.

Robin Freeman of Ohio State and Lloyd Aubrey of Notre Dame turned in two of last night's most brilliant performances, but neither could save his team from defeat.

Freeman, popping one-handers from the side, racked up 15 baskets and 10 free throws for 40 points but Ohio State bowed on its home court to tall, sharpshooting Vanderbilt, 76-67. The Commodores, who used only six players and were led by Al Rochelle with 23 points, rushed to a 13-point lead midway in the first half and never were headed.

Center Aubrey of Notre Dame notched 13 baskets and nine free throws for 35 points but the Irish took their second straight beating, 70-66, from Wisconsin. Aubrey thus tied the Notre Dame single game record held by Joe Bertrand and Junior Stephens. Dick Miller led Wisconsin with 25 points.

In other leading games last night: Memphis State, led by Ken Caldwell's 31 points, handed the Texas Aggies their second straight loss, 84-71; Niagara was pressed to score its second win, 66-59, over Toledo; Boston college defeated Suffolk, 89-73; Tulane defeated Louisiana College, 94-61; Louisiana State defeated Southwest Tennessee, 72-59; Missouri defeated Texas Tech, 92-60; Colorado defeated Oregon, 68-49; and Rice defeated Lamar Tech, 70-42.

An important slate of games is on tap tonight with San Francisco, the nation's No. 1 team, leading five other highly-ranked squads into action.

The Dons, easy winners in their first two games, are expected to mark up their 20th straight triumph in similar fashion tonight at the expense of San Francisco State.

North Carolina State, (No. 3) will be tested by Wake Forest, an Atlantic Coast Conference rival; Illinois (No. 7) meets the Butler team that beat Notre Dame but lost to Ohio State; Holy Cross (No. 9) meets Massachusetts; George Washington (No. 11) meets Southern Conference foe William & Mary; and Louisville (No. 20) plays Murray (Ky.).

League Teams Win In Last Night's Tilts

Four Big Seven basketball teams saw action last night and all came out with wins.

Kansas and Missouri led the way with convincing wins over inter-sectional opponents, KU whipping Northwestern 91-70 and Missouri taking the measure of Texas Tech 92-60. Colorado, the defending champions, upended Oregon 68-49, while Oklahoma beat Baylor 65-55.

Kansas shook off injuries and sickness to run away from the Big Ten team. Forward Gene Elstun, who had spent last week in a Kansas City hospital with a virus infection, rejoined the Hawks yesterday. Last night he hit for 19 points to emerge high scorer for the Hawks.

Guard Maurice King had an injured leg but managed to grab 20 rebounds and bag 16 points.

Dallas Dobbs, all-Big Seven guard who also was stricken with virus last week, ran the plays and poured through 15 points.

The Hawks utilized an accurate, fast-breaking attack to build up a 47-38 halftime lead before only 7500 fans in Allen field house. Guard Dick Mast led the losers with 20 points.

Missouri's Norm Stewart made the game of basketball look as simple as child's play in leading the Tigers over Texas Tech.

Stewart, all-Big Seven guard last year, broke an all-time Missouri single-game scoring record with 35 points. He hit on 14 of 26 shots from the floor for a 54 per cent shooting mark. He also snagged 19 rebounds to show his defensive prowess.

The old Tiger scoring record of 33 points was set by Bob Reiter in 1953.

The Tigers as a team hit a red-hot 58 percent of their field goal attempts while the Red Raiders could muster only 31 percent.

K-State meets Texas Tech in the only action involving conference teams tonight. Tomorrow night Kansas travels to Wichita to help the Wheatshockers dedicate their new 10,500 seat, circular field house.

KS Wrestlers To Weekend Iowa Tourney

Twenty-five K-Staters will represent the Manhattan club in the Cedar Falls Invitational wrestling tournament at Cedar Falls, Iowa, Saturday. They are wrestling as an AAU team and are not representing the college, according to Fritz Knorr, wrestling coach.

The team members and their weight classes:

115 pounds—Billy Younger, Fr; 123 pounds—Joe Landholm, Sr, J. R. Miller, Fr; 130 pounds—Kyle Mines, Jr, Jim Good, Fr, Steve Santiago, Fr; 137 pounds—Bob Mancuso, Sr, Martin Everist, Fr, Orval Williams, Fr, Dick Fixen, Jr; 147 pounds—James Linnell, Jr, Virgil Heater, Soph, Tom King, Fr, Jim Roberts, Fr, Ed Harrington, Fr.

Opening of Union Debated by Board

A banquet, dedication ceremony, and time schedule for the opening of the new Student Union next semester were discussed by the Union Governing Board last night.

Keith Swenson, chairman of the Union opening committee, reported that a tentative list of guests and speakers had been selected and his group was considering details of the opening.

Loren Kottner, Union director, listed three types of possible speakers for the dedication ceremony—a person engaged in Student Union activities, such as Porter Butts, pioneer in college Unions; a political or out-of-state college official such as Gov. Fred Hall or Milton Eisenhower, former president of K-State; or a former College official who has been close to the development of the new Union.

Prof. Stuart Whitcomb said he favored a speaker in the Union field like Butts who could tell how important a Union is to a college campus and how K-State's new Union will fit in with college life.

Another board member, Prof. S. Thomas Keim Jr., disagreed. He said the speaker should be a person who has been close to the K-State scene and who could give, at first hand, the history and importance of the new Union.

The board decided to study the speaker problem again after the Union opening committee had progressed further in their dedication plans.

Kottner stressed the need for cash donations to complete the furnishings of the new Union.

The Union will not be completely furnished from existing funds because about $40,000 previously earmarked for this purpose had to be used for the building's construction.

Kottner said any College organization may make cash donations for any of several types of equipment and furnishings for the building. He said information will be supplied organizations in the future explaining the needs and methods of contribution.

You'll be pleased with a Collegian want ad.

Chapel Devotions Will Use Theme, 'Man at Manger'

Until Christmas, devotions in Danforth chapel will use the theme, "Each Man Stands at the Manger of Bethlehem."

Monday Gerald Leonard will tell of "The Innkeeper," the individual who puts first things first.

Tuesday Charlotte Chastain will discuss "The Shepherds," persons who are sensitive to their God.

Wednesday Eugene Lundgrin will tell of "The Wisemen," wealthy men of position showing humility.

Thursday Larry Foulke will tell of Joseph, the citizen doing his duty to the state.

Friday Marilyn McKnight will tell of Mary, who characterizes purity, holiness, and motherliness.

The week of December 19-21 will be led by Judy Crawford, Don Crawford, Don Gier, and Warren Rempel, in that order. Their respective topics will be, "The Divinity of Christ—Emanuel, the Fulfillment of the Promise;" "The Earthliness of Christ—Temptations;" and "You—the Decision—What It Means to You."

A BANQUET ROOM in the new Student Union is shown above. This room and others similar to it will be reserved for small groups desiring a more formal type dinner setting.

Union Food Service Area To Offer Three Meals Daily

(This is the third in a series of feature stories on individual rooms or related areas in the nearly-completed Student Union.)

By PAUL JONES

Food service for three meals a day seven days a week, will be featured in the general food service area of the new Student Union for students, faculty, and friends of the College, according to Jack Lockett, food service director.

The area consists of the cafeteria and State Room or snack bar on the main floor, several banquet rooms and a banquet kitchen on the second floor, and a large kitchen and dishwashing area on the ground floor.

Lockett estimated that 300 persons will be served for breakfast 7 to 8:30 a.m., 500 to 1,000 for coffee and donuts 8:30 to 10:15 a.m., 500 for lunch, and 450 for the evening meal in the cafeteria. The banquet rooms will be capable of handling groups from 12 to 750....

Lockett said approximately 250 pounds of coffee and 500 pounds of meat will be consumed each week. The Union will make its own donuts, and plan to turn out about 80 dozen a day.

The food director said that the food selection will include four kinds of meat, six vegetables, seven salads, four pies, two cakes, five miscellaneous desserts, five breads, and beverages. Decor of the cafeteria will include colorful trays, table tops, and restful chairs. A "trayveyor" will transport trays to the dishwashing area.

White paper service with printed purple K-State Wildcats and decorated china will be used in the State room. The room is mainly a snack area but will handle overflow crowds during special events. It will be open until 15 minutes before the building closes each evening.

The banquet area will consist of several rooms, and will be capable of handling four or five banquets at the same time, the director said.

The kitchen will have some of the most modern equipment and will be open at all times for inspection.

Thirty-five full time employees will make up the kitchen staff. Lockett estimated that 75 students will be hired to work on different shifts. All wear wear specially-designed uniforms.

The food service area will also be used for training purposes, Lockett said. He stated that several institutional management laboratories will be conducted in the Union.

At the present time Lockett's work in getting the area ready for the opening of the building, tentatively set at February 1, includes supervising the installation of food service equipment, purchase of smaller food service equipment items, determining menus, developing a standard recipe file, writing operation procedures and job descriptions, and interviewing applicants for jobs.

The food service area in the Union will replace the College cafeteria now in Thompson hall.

Kansans Smoke Less Cigarettes

Topeka, (U.P.)—Kansans apparently are smoking fewer cigarettes. State Treasurer Richard T. Fadley disclosed a dip in the amount of tax money distributed to Kansas counties for the last quarter.

He said he sent $649,963 in state cigaret revenue funds to the 105 county treasurers. Last August 31, for the previous three months, the distribution was $7222,823.

'Rigoletto' Movie In J 15 Today

An Italian film, "Rigoletto," will be shown today and tomorrow, at 4 p.m., in J 15. "Rigoletto" is the movie version of Giuseppe Verdi's outstanding opera and features the voice of Tito Gobbi and singers of La Scala di Malano.

All interested students and faculty members are invited to attend this movie sponsored by the modern languages department.

SUE CLIBORN, HEA Soph, skillfully works on a Christmas card which will be sold by the Art club. Art club members are now selling Christmas cards in Anderson hall.

YM-YWCA To Sponsor Yule Tree

A lighted living Christmas tree for the enjoyment of the whole campus during the Christmas season will be placed between Anderson and Eisenhower hall.

The YM and YW are sponsoring this tree in the hopes it will become a tradition on campus.

The wiring is being done through the courtesy of the physical plant.

"Mr. Gingrich deserves a real pat on the back for doing this, because it is a real big job," Mrs. Paul Koefod, YW director said.

ALLADIN, PLAYED by Landon Friesen, ME Soph, rubs a clay model of his wonderful lamp and conjures the clay head of a genie for Princess Adora, played by Nancy Porter, ST Soph. "Alladin" will be presented by the K-State Players December 16.

"However, the lights for this tree are going to cost money," she said, "and donations will be accepted in the YW office, A 216, between now and Thursday."

A dollar will buy six lights and all organizations are urged to donate, she said.

Nine Y-Orpheum Scripts Selected for Spring Show

Nine Y-Orpheum skits selected for presentation on February 23-24 were announced today by Fred Hart, Y-Orpheum student manager.

Tau Kappa Epsilon, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Phi Delta Theta, Beta Theta Pi, Alpha Tau Omega, Clovia, Alpha Delta Pi, Alpha Chi Omega, and Chi Omega had the nine winning scripts which were selected from 21 entries.

The scripts were judged by John D. Mackenzie, script writer and script analyst, for Columbia Pictures corporation.

Titles of the skits and skit directors are: Sororities—Chi Omega, "Fantasy of the Blue Moon," Betsey Thomasson, director; Alpha Delta Pi, "Carmen Co-Ed," Judy Menehan, director; Alpha Chi Omega, "It's a Nice World," Sue Tucker, director; Clovia, "Shadows of Yesterday," Gaynelle Koel, director.

Fraternities—Tau Kappa Epsilon, "Guys and Halls," Tom Carpenter, director; Sigma Alpha Epsilon, "Cow Chip Jungle," Terry Murphy, director; Phi Delta Theta, "This is Person to Person," Bob Balzerick, director; Beta Theta Pi, "Twenty-two Centuries Ago—Last Saturday's Hero," John Kugler, director; Alpha Tau Omega, "The Big Fix," Bruce Willson, director.

Earl G. Hoover, professor of speech, and Donald Hermes, assistant professor of speech, will be in charge of production.

Five awards will be presented the night of February 24, three fraternity awards and two sorority awards.

Last year, first place awards went to Phi Delta Theta and Alpha Delta Pi, Kappa Delta and Sigma Chi took second place in the 1955 Y-Orpheum. Third place was awarded to Alpha Tau Omega. Y-Orpheum is sponsored by the YMCA.

Many Jobs To Be Open For Grads

The competition for 1956 K-State graduates will be even keener than it has been the past couple of years, reports Chester E. Peters, director of placement.

"Particularly in the field of engineering and science, January and May graduates not only will have numerous jobs from which to choose—but starting salaries will range $20 to $25 higher than this past spring," Peters notes.

"It now looks as if these graduates will be starting at an average salary of $415 to $420 a month, as compared with around $395 a month for graduates this past spring."

Demand also is strong for students in business.

The K-State placement director also believes it significant that 22 of the companies who interviewed during October and November had their representatives on campus more than one day.

Coeds To Sing At Fort Riley

Christmas carols will ring out in the Fort Riley base hospital for 15 consecutive days when K-State coeds make their annual Christmas visits to the hospital.

If a satisfactory schedule can be worked out, about 40 sorority and residence hall girls will visit the hospital each night from December 5 to 20.

The local Red Cross director, Harvey Nickel, is in charge of the project.

Dean of Women Helen Moore said "the groups that have participated have reported a very satisfying experience and a feeling of the real Christmas spirit."

U.S. Will Underwrite Bonds for Apartments

A $1,400,000 loan to finance married students housing has been underwritten by the Housing and Home Finance agency of the Federal government.

The agency has agreed to underwrite the bonds, financing the eight apartment buildings to house 192 student families, at 2.75 per cent. The agency has agreed to buy all bonds not sold to the public.

A. R. Jones, dean of financial administration, said that this action by the government will help the sale of the bonds, to be retired in 30 years from rent revenue, at a lower interest rate.

Jones said that the bond revenue will be coupled with $200,000 the college has on hand to complete the $1,600,000 needed to construct and equip the apartments.

Contracts for the apartment dorms will be let as soon as government red tape has been cleared, Jones said. He said that the College hopes to be able to let these contracts at an early date.

Jones said that he hopes that the first of the eight apartment buildings will be ready for occupancy by the first of September next year.

The bonds will be amortized over a thirty year period with none maturing in the first two years. A sinking fund will be established from the rent revenue to retire the bonds.

Violators To Face New Traffic Board

The load of hearing appeals on traffic violation tickets has been taken off the Tribunal with the establishment of a traffic appeals board, according to Charles Jacot, assistant dean of students.

The new board will hear appeals on third and fourth tickets and determine if the ticket should be excused.

If the ticket is not excused the penalties required by the current traffic regulations will be assessed.

The penalties under the regulations are that on the third ticket the student will not be permitted to drive or park on the campus, and on the fourth ticket a recommendation will be given to the President of the College for possible expulsion.

Students whose cases are heard by the traffic appeals board will have the right to appeal the substance of their cases to the Tribunal for final judgment.

Martin Eby, chancellor of the Tribunal, explained the substance of the case to mean that the student could appeal the penalty assessed to the Tribunal.

The appeals board will hear any appeals of third or fourth tickets which the recipient thinks are not valid if the appeal is applied for in the dean of students' office within 48 hours after the ticket is issued.

The appeals board was established at a meeting of Herbert Wunderlich, dean of students; Eby; Prof. E. S. Bagley, chairman of the traffic control board; Case Bonebrake, supervisor of campus patrolmen; and Jacot.

Student Health

One girl and six boys are patients in the Student Health hospital today.

The girl is Ferné Kendall, and the boys are George Ware, Charles Deneshaw, Don Haun, Paul Faidley, David Reida, and Dwight Jackson.

Lonsinger To Manage Open House

Harold Lonsinger, ME Sr, was announced as manager for the 32nd annual Engineering Open House yesterday at a meeting of the engineering executive council.

Others named to assist in Open House organization are Robert Miller, ME Sr, publicity; Lawrence Ehlers, ArE, program; Harrison Pallett, EE Jr, routes; Donald Hutchinson, EE Sr, treasurer; and Danny Burgess, AgE, secretary.

The Open House is staged yearly with the departments of engineering competing for a floating trophy awarded by Steel Ring, engineering honorary.

The mechanical engineering department has won the trophy the past two years. A win at this year's Open House would give them permanent possession of the award.

Recognition is also given to the best individual display. An exhibit by civil engineering students won first place in last year's competition.

Eight departments will present exhibits this year. Last year ten departments participated. The smaller 1955 total is due to the merging of aeronautical option and machine design with the mechanical engineering department.

"This change will mean a stronger, more unified open house," Harold Lonsinger, manager, said.

Messy Tables Everywhere!

Are You a Union Litterbug?

Has this happened to you?
You get out of class and head for the Student Union for a coffee break. You're hungry, which is a direct result of not getting up in time to eat breakfast. So you buy a cup of coffee and a doughnut (not a very substantial breakfast, by the way), and you head for a table.

Right then and there, you lose your appetite. The folks who were there before you seem to have been in a hurry, for they left the table in quite a mess. There's certainly nothing esthetic about dirty coffee cups filled with cigaret ashes, coffee-soaked napkins, and a table covered with sugar, ashes, and coffee.

On the walls are signs that ask students to put their dirty dishes in nearby trays. This is supposed to help the Union staff keep the place clean.

But, by the time you've carried away the dishes and wiped up the mess, you're beginning to wonder if these K-Staters really were old enough to be allowed away from their mommas. You also wonder if they are the same persons who park in the center of the parking lot and block you from getting your car out.

We've had this experience often, and we can't help wondering if these children will carry their pseudo "suave" and "sophisticated" manners with them when they start using the new Student Union that will open in a couple of months.—Darrel Miller.

World News Briefs

Attlee Resigns as Head Of British Labor Party

LONDON, (UP)—Quiet little Clement Attlee, the giant-killer of British politics, announced his resignation today as leader of the British Labor party.

Attlee, who whipped Winston Churchill in the 1945 elections, followed Churchill into retirement by only 8 months. He had served 20 years as party leader, 6 of them as postwar prime minister.

NEW YORK—Henry G. Ritter, III, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, today charged the new AFL-CIO planned to send a "union blacklist" of congressmen to its 15,000,000 union members.

He loosed a blast at the recent merger of the two big labor organizations in an address kicking off the 60th Congress of American Industry.

Ritter told 3,000 top industrialists from throughout the nation that the union merger was a threat to the basic American concept of "individual freedom and individual responsibility."

CLEVELAND—Squads of special detectives searched a suburban park today for clues that would lead to the identity of three youths who last night chained Earl Fryman, 17, to a tree, poured turpentine over his body, then set him afire.

Fryman stumbled nearly a mile to Fairview Park hospital for help, dragging a 12-foot branch of the tree chained to his leg. He was naked, and second- and third-degree burns covered nearly half his body.

BERLIN—The East German radio said two American soldiers were arrested by Communist police today in East Berlin. The broadcast, quoting East German police, said the soldiers were drunk and knocked out an East Berlin cabaret actor.

But Does Not Know

Israeli Official Hopes War With Egypt Won't Occur

By Jan Kraft

The threat of war between Israel and Egypt is of special concern to Moshe Calderon, an Israeli government grain-storage official now studying at Kansas State.

"I am very sorry about the present situation. I do not know if war will come soon, but I hope we will not have it," Mr. Calderon said.

Calderon, who is sponsored by the International Cooperation Administration of the U.S. State Department, has been in the United States since July 7 and will leave December 31.

His time at K-State has been spent largely in studying improved methods of grain storage to prevent insect damage. Besides his practical work, he has been auditing a milling process course, one in entomology, and one in grain storage. The purpose of his visit is to gather information to help preserve home-grown and imported grain in Israel.

A native Bulgarian, Calderon went to Israel 12 years ago. He has been a government employee for 5 years. Bulgarian, Hebrew, French, Spanish, and English are familiar languages to him. American slang is hard for him to understand, but he speaks self-taught English fluently.

"I studied at Hebrew University. Our campus was much like here only much smaller. Some of the

The culture of Israel is as varied as its people, he said. Since it is essentially a nation of immigrants, the standard of living is not high. Jewish, Moslem, and Christian faiths are represented there.

There is no national sport nor typical food dish, he said. Israel is a democratic country with several women as representatives in parliament. The Communist party is not forbidden, he said. In fact, there are a few Communist representatives in parliament.

Many Israeli live on collective farms. Each has anywhere from 60 to 2,000 persons on it working together and sharing equally in the profits. The aid acquired from the U.S. is not used to help support the populace, but the money is used for technical projects such as irrigation, Calderon said.

"If we had a little larger source of energy, like oil, industry would progress rapidly," he said. "We have found oil; I only hope we find more."

Calderon will not miss our snow when he returns to Israel. He finds the mild, warm climate of his country really satisfactory.

There is no television in Israel yet, he said. The radio is directed by the government. As a result there are no commercials, a situation which he finds agreeable.

Miller's High Life

My, isn't basketball season nice—the players playing, the cheerleaders cheering, the fans fanning, the writers writing, the pep clubs munching thoughtfully on candy bars, and the coaches just sitting there and getting red in the face.

Ah, the pageantry, the spectacle, the virve, the vivacity!! It's small wonder that basketball is becoming (as I like to put it) our national pastime.

And isn't it nice to see Phog and Jack back on the sports pages? One doesn't even need to read Mickey Spillane now that they are back to furnish such choice tidbits.

However, there's absolutely no truth in the persistent rumor that a collection of pennies is being taken up among Utah school children to build a field-house on the University of Utah campus.

Neither is there any truth in the rumor that Wilt the Stilt broke his arm by catching it in the basket as he was dunking a shot.

But on to better things.

Deaf-initiations:
Chestnut—A fellow who is nutty about chess.

Cold Wave—A female sailor who hits you when you try to steal a kiss.

Farmer—A man outstanding in his field.

Women do have trouble.
Take, for instance, the case of the wife of a certain well-to-do businessman. Her husband came home and told her that they had been invited to the wedding of some nudist friends. She was aghast.

"But darling," she cried. "I haven't a thing to wear."

The husband wasn't nonplussed for long. "Sweetie," he said (he always called her that), "with your varicose veins you can go as a road map."

I used to think that story was the height of something or other. But not since I heard of the plight of a lady who belonged to the same colony. When her husband told her that they had been invited to the same wedding, she also was aghast.

"But darling," she cried. "I haven't any suntan lotion."

Glancing over a history student's notes:

"The Huns were barbaric peoples who swept across Europe on wiry ponies, hunning their favorite song, 'Sixteen Huns.' This resulted in all kinds of trouble.

"First of all, they couldn't sing worth a darn, and this nearly drove the Romans crazy (not to mention the Visigoths). Secondly, in the damp European climate, they had trouble keeping their wiry ponies from rusting.

"Startled by the fall of Rome, the Huns retreated back eastward. In their haste, they didn't take their brooms (the ones they used to sweep across Europe). Centuries of loess covered the brooms, they sprouted, and that is the origin of broomcorn."

At the Movies

'Melody' Singer Hits Polio Snag

"UNINTERRUPTED MELODY," at the Co-ed, ending tonight. After winning an operatic talent contest in her native Australia, Marjorie Lawrence (Eleanor Parker) is sent to Paris. She meets with quick success. She also meets Dr. Thomas King (Glenn Ford), who is just leaving for the United States.

Eleanor Parker and Glenn Ford turn in good performances in this well-acted picture. However, the movie's main source of strength lies in the mood created by an abundance of fine music interwoven throughout. The vocal numbers alone are worth more than the price of admission. If you enjoy fine music, then you will enjoy this picture.—H.L.M.

Initiation Banquet Set By Engineering Honorary

Sixteen mechanical engineers are to be initiated into Pi Tau Sigma, mechanical engineering honorary, at a Thursday night dinner in the Gillett hotel.

Those initiated will be James Roth, Sr.; Robert Rafferty, Jr.; LaVerne Lervold, Jr.; Nor Sutton, Jr.; Ronald Bryant, Jr.; Edwin Henke, Jr.; Richard Circle, Jr.; Kay Cornelius, Jr.; Arnold Hildebrand, Jr.; and Ralph Knox, Jr.

Fred Suellentrop, Jr.; Larry Rash, Jr.; Gene Gell, Jr.; Don Knudsen, Jr.; Keith Small, Jr.; and Tom Creech, Jr.

Richard Weidler, recipient of Pi Tau Sigma's annual award to the sophomore mechanical engineer with the top grade average as a freshman, will be a special guest at the dinner, said Gene Martin, president.

Promenaders

Promenaders' members amended the club's constitution so that officers are elected once a year and interested students need only pay the required dues to become members, at a recent meeting.

Richard Baxter, VM Sr.; Sue Dean, HDA Sr.; and Keith Landis, EE Soph, were appointed by President Virginia Devinish, HDA Jr., to buy a phonograph.

Several new square dances were learned during the practice session.

FTA

The Future Teachers of America will meet Thursday at 7 p.m. in illustrations to have RP pictures taken. A program will follow in Engineering lecture hall.

Parr, Fischer Spark Cat Drive In 89-70 Win over Raiders

K-State's basketball team, led by sophomores Jack Parr and Larry Fischer, started the season in a winning way last night as they defeated Texas Tech 89-70 in Ahearn field house.

Parr was leading scorer for the Cats as he scored 7 field goals and 8 free throws, a total of 22 points, before fouling out with four minutes remaining in the game.

Fischer scored the first 2 points of the game, as the Wildcats got the tipoff, on a layup shot. He scored 16 points in the game on 4 field goals and 10 free throws.

The first half was played on even terms until the last 3:40 when Pachin Vicens made 2 free throws to put K-State ahead 32-31. The Wildcats then scored 8 points to 2 for Texas Tech, to take a 40-33 half-time lead.

The lead changed hands 8 times in the first half and was tied 6 times before the Cats put on their scoring splurge.

Again in the second half, Fischer started the Wildcat scoring as he hit 2 free throws, after being fouled by Walter Newton of Tech, with just three seconds played.

In all the Wildcats hit 46.3 per cent of the field goal attempts, to 34.8 per cent by Tech. From the free-throw line the Wildcats hit 27 of 44 attempts and Tech hit 22 of 37 attempts.

K-State was bold from the field the first half as they hit only 31 per cent of their shots, but came back with a percentage of 61 for their efforts in the second half.

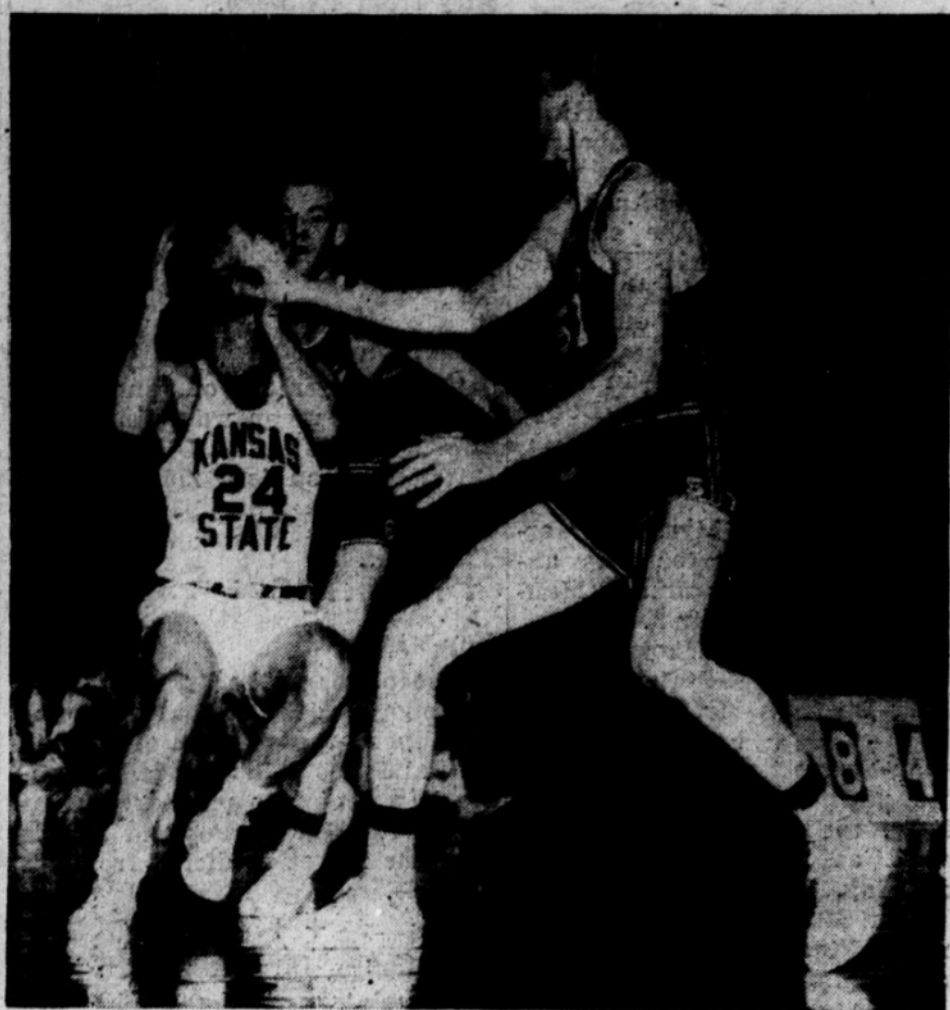

Jim Reed was leading scorer for Tech on 5 field goals and 8 free throws, before fouling out with eleven minutes remaining in the game. He also grabbed 11 rebounds.

DuWayne Bradshar followed Reed in the scoring column for Tech by dropping in 14 points.

K-State's Dick Stone, leading shooter from the field with 42 per cent made last season, was unable to find the range last night and hit on only 3 of 16 shots. Two of these field goals came in the final 2 minutes of play.

Fritz Schneider had the best shooting average as he hit 7 field goals in 10 shots. He had only one attempt at the free-throw line, which he missed, and wound up with a total of 14 points for the night.

Of the 9 players used by Coach Winter only Wayne Hutchins failed to score. Gene Wilson scored 6 points; Joe Powell scored 7; and Eddie Wallace scored 5. These three men did all their scoring in the last half.

Saturday night the Wildcats meet Indiana at Bloomington. It will be the eighth meeting of the two teams, with the Wildcats having won 3 of them. Last season they won 91-74 in a game played in Ahearn field house.

Swimming Club To Meet Hutchinson NAS Saturday

The K-State swimming club meets its first opponent of the year this Saturday when they go against the Hutchinson Naval Air team.

The meet is scheduled to start at 2 p.m. at the Nichols gym pool.

William Thrall, instructor for the club, said, "We were in two matches against this team last season and split even with them. We are hampered a little this year because we started our workouts late, but the two teams should be evenly matched again this year."

The tentative schedule as announced by Thrall is: Dec. 10 Hutchinson NAS, here; Jan. 7 Nebraska, here; Jan. 21 Hutchinson NAS, here; Feb. 11 KU, there; Feb. 18 Hutchinson NAS there; and March 3 Nebraska, there.

In addition to the above matches, Thrall said an additional match with KU is being planned for sometime during February.
